Capitalism and Apartheid Merle Lipton, 1985 Capitalism and Apartheid Merle Lipton, 1986 Confrontation And Liberation In Southern Africa Ibrahim S. R. Msabaha, 2019-03-13 The 1984 Nkomati Accord a bilateral security agreement between South Africa and Mozambique to eliminate guerrilla threats on both sides of a common border was a milestone in regional confrontation and cooperation Yet the real challenge to the white South African regime is not external it is internal opposition to apartheid This volume written by leading African scholars begins by exploring the origins of racism and nationalism in Southern Africa The contributors discuss the spread of nationalist movements throughout the region arguing that South Africa has attempted to resist divert or undermine the domino effect by capitalizing on the Nkomati Accord The authors focus on the legal aspects of the Accord its impact on the foreign and defense policies of the Front Line States prospects for regional development and economic integration and potential outcomes of the national liberation struggles in Southern Africa Southernising Criminology Luiz Dal Santo, Carla Sepúlveda Penna, 2024-06-03 This book introduces the Southern criminology movement explores its theoretical methodological and philosophical tools offers analytical accounts on the development of criminological thoughts in marginalised regions and showcases the cutting edge of criminological research from Southern settings Southernising Criminology is structured into three parts The first part provides theoretical and methodological insights into how criminology can be Southernised including renowned social scientists who share concerns for the need to reconceptualise the centre the periphery and their relations The second part brings the reader up to date with the state of criminological research in different parts of the world and how far this landscape has changed when introducing Southern perspectives The third part shows first hand examples of how Southern criminology is done with its challenges and transformative potential for criminological knowledge Bringing together contributions from leading scholars working across the five continents and drawing on issues such as state criminality violent crime criminal justice practices and state and non state punishment this book offers a critical account of the problems of metropolitan thinking colonial and imperial power relations and Western ethnocentric approaches to criminology It offers a nuanced and grounded reflection on how things are being done differently and why that is important An accessible and compelling read this book will appeal to students and scholars of criminology sociology politics and policy makers from around the world who are interested in the field of criminology and are aware of the urgent need for it to be decolonised and democratised The Wealth of Refugees Alexander Betts, 2021-04-08 We live in an age of displacement Refugee numbers are increasing due to a proliferation of fragile states and this problem will be exacerbated by climate change and the impact of COVID 19 And yet rising populist nationalism has undermined the political willingness of rich countries to accept migrants and asylum seekers Given these contradictory trends how can we create sustainable refugee policies that enable displaced people to live in safety and dignity while operating at scale The Wealth of Refugees draws upon a decade of original qualitative and quantitative research to offer practical solutions Focusing on refugees in camps and cities in Africa it identifies approaches that can be effective in improving the welfare of refugees increasing social cohesion between refugees and host communities and reducing the need for onward migration The book argues that the key lies in unlocking the potential contributions of refugees themselves Refugees bring skills talents and aspirations and can be a benefit rather than a burden to receiving societies Realizing this potential relies upon moving beyond a purely humanitarian focus to fully include refugees in host country economies build economic opportunities in refugee hosting regions and navigate the ambiguous politics of refugee protection Can South

Universities in Transition Bo Göransson, Claes Brundenius, 2010-12-16 Globalization the information age and the rise of the knowledge based economy are significantly transforming the way we acquire disseminate and transform knowledge And as a result knowledge production is becoming closer and more directly linked to economic competitiveness This evolution is also putting new and urgent demands on academic institutions to adjust to the changing needs of society and economy In particular there is growing pressure on the institutions of higher education and research in developed economies to find and affirm their new role in the national innovation system Their counterparts in developing economies need to define their role in supporting emerging structures of the innovation system This book examines the role of universities and national research institutes in social and economic development processes Featuring contributions that showcase initiatives and innovations from around the world including China Eastern Europe Latin America Scandinavia Southeast Asia sub Saharan Africa and Western Europe it offers timely insight that will be of interest to policymakers university administrators economic and social leaders and researchers alike Arab Spring I. William Zartman, 2015-08-15 Beginning in January 2011 the Arab world exploded in a vibrant demand for dignity liberty and achievable purpose in life rising up against an image and tradition of arrogant corrupt unresponsive authoritarian rule These previously unpublished countryspecific case studies of the uprisings and their still unfolding political aftermaths identify patterns and courses of negotiation and explain why and how they occur The contributors argue that in uprisings like the Arab Spring negotiation is not just a nice practice or a diplomatic exercise Rather it is a dynamically multilevel process involving individuals groups and states with continually shifting priorities and with the prospect of violence always near. From that perspective the essays analyze a range of issues and events including civil disobedience and strikes, mass demonstrations and nonviolent protest and peaceful negotiation and armed rebellion and contextualize their findings within previous struggles both within and outside the Middle East. The Arab countries discussed include Algeria, Bahrain, Egypt, Libya, Morocco, Syria, Tunisia, and Yemen. The Arab Spring uprisings are discussed in the context of rebellions in countries like South Africa and Serbia, while the Libyan uprising is also viewed in terms of the negotiations it provoked within NATO. Collectively the essays analyze the challenges of uprisers and emerging governments in building a new state on the ruins of a liberated state, the negotiations that lead either to sustainable democracy or sectarian violence and coalition building between former political and military adversaries.
