Unequal Benefits Sue Winton, 2022-10-03 Drawing on research from across Canada and beyond education policy expert Sue Winton critically analyzes policies encouraging the privatization of public education in Canada. These policies including school choice fundraising fees and international education encourages parents and others in the private sector to take on responsibilities for education formerly provided by governments with devastating consequences for the democratic goals of public education. Unequal Benefits introduces traditional and critical approaches to policy research and explains how to conduct a critical policy analysis. Winton explains the role policy plays in supporting and challenging inequality in the pursuit of a strong democracy and the public school ideal. In these idealized education spaces policy decisions prioritize collective needs over private interests which are made in public by democratically elected officials and more importantly every child is able to access high quality education programs and enjoy their benefits at no cost. Written for parents educators policymakers and other interested citizens Unequal Benefits sheds light on how to participate in efforts to resist educational privatization and achieve the public school ideal across Canada.

Educational Research: Ethics, Social Justice, and Funding Dynamics Paul Smeyers, Marc Depaepe, 2018-03-22 This book examines the conduct and purposes of educational research. It looks at values of researchers at whose interests are served by the research and the inclusion or exclusion of practitioners and subjects of research. It asks if educational research should be explicitly committed to promoting equality and inclusion and whether that requires research to be more aware of the cultural and global contexts of research questions. It explores the ethical challenges encountered in the conduct of research and the potential ethical and social justice constraints imposed by comparative research rankings. Next it discusses the research funding aspects of the above issues both philosophically and historically thus examining the changing sources patterns and effects of educational research funding over time. Since the conduct of most educational research increasingly requires institutional and financial support the question is whether funding shapes the content of research and what counts as research. The book discusses if funding is a factor in the shift of efforts of researchers from pure or basic research to more applied research and if it encourages the development of large research teams to the detriment of individual scholars. It looks at the ownership of the content results and data of publicly funded research. Finally it tries to establish whether scholars solicit funding to support research projects or generate research projects to attract funding. This publication as well as the ones that are mentioned in the preliminary pages of this work were realized by the Research Community Philosophy and History of the Discipline of Education Purposes Projects and Practices of Educational Research.
