reveals the greatest untold story of Japan's legendary warrior class which is that for almost a hundred years Japanese samurai were employed as mercenaries in the service of the kings of Siam Cambodia Burma Spain and Portugal as well as by the directors of the Dutch East India Company The Japanese samurai were used in dramatic assault parties as royal bodyguards as staunch garrisons and as willing executioners As a result a stereotypical image of the fierce Japanese warrior developed that had a profound influence on the way they were regarded by their employers While the Southeast Asian kings tended to employ samurai on a long term basis as palace guards their European employers usually hired them on a temporary basis for specific campaigns Also whereas the Southeast Asian monarchs tended to trust their well established units of Japanese mercenaries the Europeans while admiring them also feared them In every European example a progressive shift in attitude may be discerned from initial enthusiasm to great suspicion that the Japanese might one day turn against them as illustrated by the long standing Spanish fear of an invasion of the Philippines by Japan accompanied by a local uprising During the 1630s when Japan chose isolation rather than engagement with Southeast Asia it left these fierce mercenaries stranded in distant countries never to return lost samurai indeed Triumphant Love J Hans
