The Law and the Promise Jonathan A. Brown, 2025-09-26 Is the Law contrary to God's promise Although Paul clearly states in Galatians 3:21 that it is not many Christians throughout history have interpreted Paul's position on the Law in the exact opposite way Perhaps more than any other Paul's letter to the Galatians is often regarded as the definitive rejection of Torah observance for believers Christianity's declaration of independence from slavery to the Law This interpretation positions Law and grace as fundamentally opposed to each other for grace to reign Law must resign But is that view actually biblical In this short book Jonathan A Brown challenges this centuries old consensus by taking Paul's own emphatic answer seriously Far from it Through careful exegesis of Galatians 3 and 4 Brown argues that the apostle never intended to pit Torah against grace but rather sought to clarify their distinct and complementary roles in God's redemptive plan Drawing on his background in the biblical languages and years of teaching through Galatians Brown offers a fresh perspective that harmonizes Paul's apparent contradictions about the Law while maintaining the centrality of justification by faith This work invites believers to move beyond the false dichotomy of Law versus grace and discover how both work together in God's unified plan of redemption

The Covenants of Promise Thomas E. McComiskey, 2019-11-11 This fresh assessment of covenant theology may represent the first book length examination of the structural relationships of the Old Testament covenants Tremper Longman a professor of Old Testament at Westminster Theological Seminary describes The Covenants of Promise as a marvelously written and profound book which deals with some of the most crucial issues in biblical theology The significance of The Covenants of Promise writes the author is in its application of the structure of the covenants to biblical theology The division of the Old Testament covenants into the categories promissory and administrative is unique in the literature on the covenants This complex bi-covenantal structure within which God disposes of the inheritance promised to his people becomes discernible in the biblical text through a sound application of proper exegetical theology The textual evidence leads one to question the way some tenets of traditional covenant theology have been expressed but not the tenets themselves The author first explores the promise in its Old and New Testament settings He deals with the way in which the promise is expressed in the major covenants devoting considerable space to the law in the teachings of Jesus and Paul Next he argues that the promise covenant is eternally valid and that circumcision the law and the new covenant are administrative covenants Finally he examines the implications of this structure for biblical theology

Eschatology in Galatians Yon-Gyong Kwon, 2004 Focusing on Paul's own statement about the Galatian crisis Yon Kwon demonstrates that the letter is about Paul's pastoral engagement with the backsliding Galatians rather than his theological altercation with his opponents Paul deals with the crisis in Galatia by reminding the Galatians of the implications of their present deviation for their future the not yet instead of affirming the blessings already realized in Christ by keeping in step with the Spirit the already message and to share it with others Disinheriting the Jews Jeffrey S. Siker,1991-01-01 Disinheriting the Jews is a scholarly work of great interest and significance for both Christians and Jews Jeffery Siker shows how strongly the figure of Abraham has shaped our religious identities He also uses the portrayals of Abraham by early Christians as a new means of understanding the dynamics involved in the church's separation and estrangement from Judaism Siker argues that the separation was precipitated by historical contingencies more so than by Christian identity and in so doing suggests self-corrections that could mend the rift between Christianity and Judaism The Structure of Romans Paul B.

Fowler,2016-07-01 We increasingly recognize that Paul did not write his letter to the Romans primarily out of doctrinal concerns Paul B Fowler presses that insight home in this attentive yet eminently readable study of the letter's structure The principles of Fowler's reading are that rhetorical questions in Romans 3:11 structure the argument not as responses to criticism but as Paul's careful guiding of the reader and that these chapters like the paraenesis in Romans 12:15 address specific circumstances in Rome Careful attention to the rhetorical structure of the letter points to tensions between Jew and Gentile that aggravate the already precarious situation of the Roman congregation In the course of his argument Fowler explodes the common conceptions that Paul employs diatribe technique to answer objections and that he is primarily engaged in a debate with Jews In short Fowler demonstrates that the apostle is not writing defensively but responding with sensitivity to the volatile atmosphere caused by Claudius's expulsion of some Jews from Rome The book includes an appendix on rhetorical devices and another on epistolary formulas in Paul's letters Harvard Theological Studies ,1929 No

Longer Male and Female Pauline Hogan,2008-05-27 Pauline Hogan examines all available textual commentary prior to Augustine analysing how Galatians 3:28 was used and understood in early Christianity She provides a rich selection of examples of the uses of scripture demonstrating that scripture had multifaceted meaning for early Christians Promise, Law, Faith T Gordon,2021-10-05 In Promise Law Faith T David Gordon argues that Paul uses promise law and faith in Galatians to denote three covenant administrations by synecdoche a figure of speech in which a part is made to represent the whole or vice versa and that he chose each synecdoche because it characterized the distinctive but not exclusive feature of that covenant For instance Gordon argues the Abrahamic covenant was characterized by three remarkable promises made to an aging couple to have numerous descendants who would inherit a large arable land and the Seed of whom would one day bless all the nations of the world the Sinai covenant was characterized by the many laws given both originally at Sinai and later in the remainder of the Mosaic corpus and the New Covenant is characterized by faith in the dying and rising of Christ As Gordon's subtitle suggests he believes that both the dominant Protestant approach to Galatians and the New Perspectives on Paul approach fail to appreciate that Paul's reasoning in Galatians is covenant historical this is what Gordon calls perhaps a Third Perspective on Paul In Galatians Paul is not arguing that one covenant is good and the other bad rather he is arguing that the Sinai covenant was only a temporary covenant administration between the promissory Abrahamic covenant and its ultimate fulfilment in the New Covenant in Jesus For a specific time the Sinai covenant isolated the Israelites from the nations to preserve the memory of the Abrahamic promises and to preserve the integrity of his seed Seed through whom one day the same nations would one day be richly blessed But once that Seed arrived in Jesus providing the grace of repentance to the Gentiles it was no longer necessary or proper to segregate them from the descendants of Abraham Paul s argument in Galatians is therefore covenant historical he corrects misbehaviors that is requiring observance of the Mosaic Law associated with the New Covenant by describing the relation of that New Covenant to the two covenants instituted before it the Abrahamic and the Sinaitic hence the covenants of promise law and faith Effectively Paul argues that the New Covenant is a covenant in its own right that displaces the temporary Christ anticipating Israel threatening and Gentile excluding Sinai covenant
