Industry and Individuals: Branding, Labelling, and Marketing of Food Products Daniel Adrian Gardan, Paweł Bryła, Ionel Dumitru, Iuliana Petronela Gardan, 2025-02-10 There is a growing interest in understanding the multifaceted factors that influence individuals food and dietary behaviors and purchasing choices These include psychological cultural economic and social factors However there is a need to delve deeper into the role of food and beverage companies industries and multinational corporations in shaping individuals dietary decisions and purchasing behaviors Despite ever increasing reliance on industry for providing fast convenient and affordable food limited research exists that holistically synthesizes the influence of strategies employed by food companies on the intricate landscape of food consumption and purchasing More and more food companies and industries battle for consumer attention in a world pushing for healthfulness and environmental and ethical sustainability With individuals facing an increasingly diverse range of food options and marketing strategies understanding the factors that guide their choices is critical for both businesses and policymakers It is therefore crucial for us to understand the understanding usage and consumer perception of food labels including front of pack nutrition information and health claims and other aspects of food packaging design e g material colour usage branding For example there is an increased need to understand factors that may influence consumer perception around certain brand identities in the context of boycotting and fear of green washing

Lifestyle Medicine Jeffrey I. Mechanick, Robert F. Kushner, 2025-05-26 This book represents the third in a series of Springer textbooks on Lifestyle Medicine by Dr Mechanick and Dr Kushner The first book focused on theory and practice concepts The second book focused on implementation with a specific tactic of building a lifestyle medicine center This third book focuses on scientific evidence to close research gaps knowledge gaps and practice gaps The general intent is to imbue the field of lifestyle medicine with scientific evidence The other intent is to continue advancing a culture of preventive care for chronic disease using lifestyle medicine but again through a tactic of emphasizing science evidence and critical thinking Lifestyle Medicine Closing Research Practice and Knowledge Gaps is organized into three sections In the first section driver based chronic disease models and other elements that pertain to lifestyle medicine are explored in terms of current levels of scientific substantiation In the second section educational modalities are presented that can improve awareness of scientific and experiential knowledge by healthcare professionals Topics include innovative teaching models web based activities training and accreditation programs and certification exams In the third section a variety of clinical scenarios are presented to highlight practice gaps implementation issues where there is inadequate clinical action despite an awareness of the pertinent knowledge The topics span critical domains that must be addressed so that lifestyle medicine can lead to favorable outcomes in people and populations at risk These domains include alcohol and substance abuse colitis brain health environmental risk pharmacotherapy de escalation routine change socioeconomics transculturalization advanced analytics home cardiac rehabilitation digital twin technology and a highly referenced discussion of the lifestyle medicine ecosystem and infrastructure Care is taken to provide not only theoretical foundations but also case studies where appropriate to emphasize critical aspects In conclusion this third book on Lifestyle Medicine will complement the previous two Springer books and define a compendium of resources necessary for anyone interested in this field disorder symptomatology above and beyond the variance of the proposed moderators suggesting that it is a unique predictor of disordered eating for college women

The Relationship Between Self-compassion and Disordered Eating

Behaviors Angela Danielle Finley-Straus, 2011 The concept of self compassion has been gathering interest for researchers in recent years as it appears to offer an array of benefits to wellbeing This study investigated the potential role of self compassion as a protective factor against disordered eating behaviors It also examined the mediating roles of three potential variables body dissatisfaction perfectionism and contingent self worth Given modern representations of the female ideal failure to achieve or adequately conform to such standards often poses psychological challenges for women and girls Self compassion encompasses kind mindful self treatment and may be an ideal protective factor against disordered eating It has also been linked with lower body dissatisfaction maladaptive perfectionism and contingent self worth The present study found that dissatisfaction with one's body as well as a tendency to judge one's personal worth based on appearance fully mediated the relationship between self compassion and both restrained and emotional disordered eating respectively Therefore a self compassionate attitude may serve as a protective factor against engaging in disordered eating vis vis strengthening young women's abilities to look at their bodies in a more compassionate and unconditionally accepting way

Exploring Self-discrepancy and Body Shame Models of Perfectionistic Self-presentation in Moderating the Relationship Between Body Image Disturbance and Appearance Management Behaviors in a College Female Sample

Megan Agee Guidry, University of North Carolina at Charlotte. Department of Psychology, 2013 Previous studies have measured facets of perfectionism within a disease model focusing heavily on the eating disordered population The present study sought to further explore an interpersonal dimension of perfectionism within a nonclinical sample to see if this type of perfectionism moderated the relationship between body image dissatisfaction and behaviors aimed at changing the physical appearance A sample of young women N 475 were given measures to assess negative perfectionism interpersonal perfectionism body dissatisfaction and shame sociocultural perceptions and appearance management behaviors Three significant interactions were observed among body shame sociocultural perceptions and interpersonal perfectionism Additionally negative perfectionism displayed a robust and consistent relationship with other predictor variables throughout Specific types of sociocultural perceptions on appearance were significant predictors of changing one's appearance in response to body image disturbance These findings may steer future prevention research to explore how these personality and sociocultural factors influence appearance management behaviors
