Legal and Organizational Practices in Nonprofit Management Pasquale Ferraro, 2021-10-25 Leaders of nonprofit organizations everywhere believe passionately in what they are doing They often put in long hours and with little or no remuneration they are willing to do everything and anything to further the work of their organizations In most Western countries nonprofit leaders have had easy access to myriad support agencies professional training and self help publications In developing countries this is not always the case The manager of a local regional or even national NGO rarely has formal training in the skills needed to manage efficiently Fortunately academic curricula designed specifically for the nonprofit sector are becoming more and more common in business schools around the world This development alone reflects the importance and validity that the sector has earned Governments everywhere are downsizing This process has inevitably shifted services that were once the province of government to non governmental entities If NGOs are to fill the void left by government they must not only achieve excellence in their substantive field but must also be capable of delivering services using sound business practices Otherwise they are doomed to failure The future of these organizations will depend upon their ability to manage their resources efficiently The topics covered in this volume among the first of its kind to be written by a European with extensive experience in developing and transition countries provide basic survival tactics for small organizations with limited staff and resources The practical advice given by the author will contribute to the sustainability of the many NGOs in developing and transition economy countries that are struggling to succeed under challenging odds Managing the Non-profit Organization Peter F. Third Sector Management William B. Werther, Evan M. Berman, 2001 Trying to do good deeds does not guarantee that a nonprofit organization will succeed The organization must do good deeds well This textbook offers a blueprint for nonprofit success adopting a strategic perspective that assumes vision mission strategy and execution as the pillars upon which success is built While many experts on nonprofits argue that fundraising is the single key to success William B Werther Jr and Evan M Berman show that effective fundraising depends largely on how the nonprofit is positioned and how it performs They address such issues as leadership and board development strategic planning staffing fundraising partnering productivity improvement and accountability Emphasizing the context of nonprofits and detailing improvements than can be made by managers at all levels the book strikes a balance between policy discussion and practical usefulness Written for use in graduate courses in nonprofit management Third Sector Management will also be invaluable to directors staff volunteers and board members of nonprofit organizations
