

Managerial Economics

12th Edition

The book cover features a stylized illustration of a baseball field. The infield is depicted in light tan, while the outfield is green. Overlaid on this field are several economic curves: a steep red curve starting from home plate and arching towards the outfield; a yellow curve starting from first base and arching towards the outfield; a black curve starting from second base and arching towards the outfield; and a blue curve starting from third base and arching towards the outfield. Each curve has small dots at regular intervals, suggesting data points or a series of measurements. The author's name, Mark Hirschey, is printed in white on an orange rectangular background in the lower right quadrant of the cover.

Encyclopedia of Business Information Sources Linda D. Hall, 2008. Each updated edition of this detailed resource identifies nearly 35,000 live print and electronic sources of information listed under more than 1,100 alphabetically arranged subjects, industries and business concepts and practices. Edited by business information expert James Woy. American Book Publishing Record, 2006. Value Creation in European Equity Carve-Outs Nikolas Pojezny, 2007-10-24. Over the past two decades, equity carve-outs (ECOs) have become an increasingly popular form of corporate restructuring in Europe. Individual business segments are separated from the parent conglomerate company and a minority stake is listed on the stock exchange. The parent company thus retains economic control over the subsidiary while simultaneously creating more transparency for capital markets, restructuring its investment portfolio and creating the option to either reintegrate or completely sell off the subsidiary at a later stage. The attractiveness of ECOs as research objects is largely due to their dualistic nature as both means of parent company financing and corporate restructuring. While comprehensive academic literature on ECOs already exists studies mainly focus on the US market The objective of the present study is to conduct corresponding analyses using a European sample allowing the examination of both research issues on an intra European level and of the admissibility of analogies between US and European results Forthcoming Books Rose Army,1996-06
