Masters Of The Planet Ian Tattersall:

Masters of the Planet Ian Tattersall, 2012-03-27 When Homo sapiens made their entrance 100 000 years ago they were confronted by a wide range of other hominids but shortly after their arrival something happened that vaulted the species forward This book is devoted to revealing just what made humans the indisputable masters of the planet Mind and Rights Matthias Mahlmann, 2023-02-16 Mind and Rights combines historical philosophical and legal perspectives with research from psychology and the cognitive sciences to probe the justification of human rights in ethics politics and law Chapters critically examine the growth of the human rights culture its roots in history and current human rights theories They engage with the so called cognitive revolution and investigate the relationship between human cognition and human rights to determine how insights gained from modern theories of the mind can deepen our understanding of the foundations of human rights Mind and Rights argues that the pursuit of the human rights idea with its achievements and tragic failures is key to understand what kind of beings humans are Amidst ongoing debate on the universality and legitimacy of human rights this book provides a uniquely comprehensive analysis of great practical and political importance for a culture of legal justice undergirded by rights This title is also available as open access on Cambridge Core The First Signs Genevieve von Petzinger, 2017-03-28 Archaeologist Genevieve von Petzinger looks past the horses bison ibex and faceless humans in the ancient paintings and instead focuses on the abstract geometric images that accompany them She offers her research on the terse symbols that appear more often than any other kinds of figures signs that have never really been studied or explained until now

Unnatural Selection Emily Monosson, 2016-03-29 Gonorrhea Bed bugs Weeds Salamanders People All are evolving some surprisingly rapidly in response to our chemical age In Unnatural Selection Emily Monosson shows how our drugs pesticides and pollution are exerting intense selection pressure on all manner of species And we humans might not like the result Monosson reveals that the very code of life is more fluid than once imagined When our powerful chemicals put the pressure on to evolve or die beneficial traits can sweep rapidly through a population Species with explosive population growth the bugs bacteria and weeds tend to thrive while bigger slower to reproduce creatures like ourselves are more likely to succumb Unnatural Selection is eye opening and more than a little disquieting But it also suggests how we might lessen our impact manage pests without creating super bugs protect individuals from disease without inviting epidemics and benefit from technology without threatening the health of our children The End of the Law? David W. Opderbeck, 2021-08-12 Does neuroscience show that all our ideas about law and ethics are false David Opderbeck answers this question with a broad and deep survey of the relationship between theology science and ethics He proposes that Christian theology which narrates the humanity and divinity of Christ in conversation with the new Aristotelianism in the philosophy of science provides a path through secular and religious fundamentalisms alike Nanolaw Ethics Andrei Twibell, 2024-03-29 This book explores the ethical and legal dilemmas of nanotechnology with a focus on human rights As in nanotechnology and nanomedicine it utilizes a similar approach in law to address present and future issues in nanotechnology that looks to past and present law with new understanding to not only prepare for the future but address existing contemporary issues a Janus Approach

Nanotechnology brings unprecedented technological revolution However it comes with heightened ethical and legal concerns Nanotechnology is now present in every aspect of life without full public awareness Some branches of nanotechnology utilize human DNA and affect humans in a multitude of unprecedented ways Legal and ethical issues have been long discussed they tend to be managed in individual fields rather than taken as a whole Ethical concerns are especially important for vulnerable populations such as targeted minority groups or people from the Global South This book provides a realistic minimalist ethical solution that can be applied to any situation utilizing a human rights based approach for universal application This encompasses ethics based on Aristotelian principles into technology and the public good The book includes case examples addressing past present and future concerns

Astray Eluned Summers-Bremner, 2023-07-17 A meandering celebration of the indirect and unforeseen path revealing that to err is not just human it is everything This book explores how far from being an act limited to deviation from known pathways or desirable plans of action wandering is an abundant source of meaning a force as intimately involved in the history of our universe as it will be in the future of our planet In ancient Australian Aboriginal cosmology in works about the origins of democracy and surviving disasters in ancient Greece in Eurasian steppe nomadic culture in the lifeways of the Roma in the movements of today's refugees and in our attempts to preserve spaces of untracked online freedom wandering is how creativity and skills of adaptation are preserved in the interests of ongoing life Astray is an enthralling look at belonging and at notions of alienation and hope

Masters of the Planet Ian Tattersall, 2012 When homo sapiens made their entrance 100 000 years ago they were confronted by a wide range of other early humans homo erectus who walked better and used fire homo habilis who used tools and of course the Neanderthals who were brawny and strong But shortly after their arrival something happened that vaulted the species forward and made them the indisputable masters of the planet This book is devoted to revealing just what that difference is It explores how the physical traits and cognitive ability of homo sapiens distanced them from the rest of nature Even more importantly Masters of the Planet looks at how our early ancestors acquired these superior abilities it shows that their strange and unprecedented mental facility is not as most of us were taught simply a basic competence that was refined over unimaginable eons by natural selection Instead it is an emergent capacity that was acquired quite recently and changed the world definitively

The Accidental Homo Sapiens Ian Tattersall, Robert DeSalle, 2019-04-02 What happens now that human population has outpaced biological natural selection Two leading scientists reveal how we became who we are and what we might become When we think of evolution the image that likely comes to mind is the iconic straight forward image of a primate morphing into a human being Yet random events have played huge roles in determining the evolutionary histories of everything from lobsters to humans However random genetic novelties are most likely to stick in small populations It is mathematically unlikely to happen in large ones With our enormous and seemingly inexorably expanding population humanity has fallen under the influence of the famous or infamous bell curve This revelatory new book explores what the future of our species could hold while simultaneously revealing what we didn't become and what we won't become A cognitively unique species our actions fall on a bell curve as well Individuals may be saintly or evil narrow minded or visionary But it is possible not just for the species but for a person to be all of these things even in a single day We all fall somewhere within the giant hyperspace of the human condition that these curves describe The Accidental Homo Sapiens shows readers that though humanity now exists on this bell curve we are far from a stagnant species Tattersall and DeSalle reveal how biological evolution in modern humans has given way to a cultural dynamic that is unlike anything else the Earth has ever witnessed and that will keep life interesting perhaps sometimes too interesting for as long as we exist on this planet established that all humans today wherever they live belong to one single species Yet even many people who claim to abhor racism take for granted that human races have a biological reality In Troublesome Science Rob DeSalle and Ian Tattersall provide a lucid and forceful critique of how scientific tools have been misused to uphold misguided racial categorizations DeSalle and Tattersall argue that taxonomy the scientific classification of organisms provides an antidote to the myth of race s biological basis They explain how taxonomists do their science how to identify a species and to understand the relationships among different species and the variants within them DeSalle and Tattersall also detail the use of genetic data to trace human origins and look at how scientists have attempted to recognize discrete populations within Homo sapiens Troublesome Science demonstrates conclusively that modern genetic tools when applied correctly to the study of human variety fail to find genuine differences While the diversity that exists within our species is a real phenomenon it nevertheless defeats any systematic attempt to recognize discrete units within it The stark lines that humans insist on drawing between their own groups and others are nothing but a mixture of imagination and ideology Troublesome Science is an important call for researchers journalists and citizens to cast aside the belief that race has a biological meaning for the sake of social justice and sound science alike Britannica Book of the Year ,1996 Public Library Catalog Juliette Yaakov,2004 More than 8 000 books in the main volume More than 2 400 new titles in annual paperbound supplements More than 2 000 analytic entries for items in collections and anthologies The Publishers Weekly ,1995 Who's who in Australia 2009 ,2007 A biographic reference to notable people in Australia Entrants are drawn from all areas of Australian life including the arts politics education medicine defence business diplomatic service and recipients of honours and awards
