Judas Iscariot: Damned or Redeemed Carol A. Hebron, 2016-09-22 At the beginning of the 20th century Judas was characterised in film as the epitome of evil the villainous Jew Film makers cast Judas in this way because this was the Judas that audiences had come to recognize and even expect But in the following three decades film makers as a result of critical biblical study were more circumspect about accepting the alleged historicity of the Gospel accounts Carol A Hebron examines the figure of Judas across film history to show how the portrayal becomes more nuanced and more significant even to the point where Judas becomes the protagonist with a role in the film equal in importance to that of Jesus Hebron examines how in these films we begin to see a rehabilitation of the Judas character and a restoration of Judaism Hebron reveals two distinct theologies rejection and acceptance The Nazi Holocaust and the exposure of the horrors of genocide at the end of World War II influenced how Judaism Jews and Judas were to be portrayed in film Rehabilitating the Judas character and the Jews was necessary and film was deemed an appropriate medium in which to begin that process

Amidst Mass Atrocity and the Rubble of Theology Peter Admirand, 2012-03-16 It is hubris to claim answers to unanswerable questions Such questions however as part of their burden and worth must still be asked investigated and contemplated How there can be a loving all powerful God and a world stymied by suffering and evil is one of the unanswerable questions we must all struggle to answer even as our responses are closer to gasps silences and further questions More importantly how and whether one articulates a response will have deep lasting repercussions for any belief in God and in our judgments upon one another Throughout this wide ranging interdisciplinary work Peter Admirand draws upon his extensive research and background in theology and testimonial literature trauma and genocide studies cultural studies philosophy of religion interreligious studies and systematic theology As David Burrell writes in the Foreword T he work s intricate structure organization and development will lead us to appreciate that the best one can settle for is a fractured faith built on a fractured theodicy expressed in a language explicitly fragmented pluralist and broken

The Future of Religious Heritage

Ferdinand de Jong, José Mapril, 2023-03-28 The Future of Religious Heritage examines the resurgence of religious heritage in a secular age and frames such heritage as both legacy from the past and promise for the future Drawing on case studies from across Europe this volume addresses the intersection of three well defined areas of research secularism religious heritage and the question of renewal Considering the heritagisation of religion and the sacralisation of heritage contributions to the book consider to what extent the idea of renewal so pivotal to religious and secular ontologies is present in heritage formations Thinking about the temporalities of re enactment and reconstruction this volume examines whether heritage practices incorporate religious time into secular practice Problematising such temporalities of the sacred in our post secular age the volume explores how these intersections of religious and secular time in heritage practices inform constructions of the future The Future of Religious Heritage addresses the paradox of the secularisation of religion and the sacralisation of heritage in a post secular age It will appeal to academics and students with an interest in critical heritage studies religion and post secularism and will also be of interest to those studying re enactment regeneration and renewal T&T Clark

Handbook of Suffering and the Problem of Evil Matthias Grebe, Johannes Grössl, 2023-07-13 This wide ranging work provides an extensive exploration of the theology of theodicy asking questions such as should all instances of suffering necessarily be understood as evil Why would an omnipotent and benevolent God allow or perpetrate evil Is God unable or unwilling to reduce human and non human suffering on Earth Does humanity have the capacity to exercise a moral evaluation of God s motives and intentions Conventional disciplinary boundaries have tended to separate theological approaches to these questions from philosophical ones This volume aims to overcome these boundaries by including biblical Part I historical Part II doctrinal Part III philosophical Part IV and pastoral interreligious perspectives and alternative intersections Part V on theodicy Authors include thinkers from analytic and continental traditions multiple Christian denominations and other religions and both established and younger scholars providing a full variety of approaches What unites the essays is an attempt to answer these questions from the perspective of biblical testimony historical scholarship modern theological and philosophical thinking about the concept of God non Christian religions science and the arts The result is a combination of in depth analysis and breadth of scope making this a benchmark work for further studies in the theology of suffering and evil The Columbia History of Jews and Judaism in America Marc Lee Raphael, 2008-02-12
