Christopher Holloway, Claire Humphreys, 2022-09-07 Tourism as an industry is constantly evolving Trends and attitudes are susceptible to changes in what people look for in a holiday which can change within different economic contexts generational shifts the political landscape and most recently the Covid 19 global pandemic This popular and comprehensive textbook helps students to not only understand these changes but study them with a critical mindset and historical perspective desirable for success in assessments The text also continues to retain its focus on business and the operational aspects of tourism making it especially useful for students considering a career and or short term placement in the tourism industry This 12th edition of The Business of Tourism includes updates to take in changes to the tourism industry and consumption behaviours as a result of Brexit the UK's decision to leave the European Union the pandemic and its impacts on nature the operation of attractions event tourism hotel chains transport and governmental support Sustainability and the reduction of the negative impacts caused by tourism Chris Holloway was a former Professor of Tourism Management at the University of the West of England Claire Humphreys is a former Head of Department and Principal Lecturer at the University of Westminster Tourist Experiences Chris Ryan, Xiaoyu (Nancy) Zhang, 2024-03-12 This book explores the application of psychological theories to tourist behaviour and experiences It traces the evolution of those theories and how they have changed in response to broader social and economic changes Among those changes have been the development of tourism which reflects those social changes and contributes to them In doing so tourism theories also contribute to and gain insights from emergent psychological theories including those derived from the neurosciences The book provides both undergraduate and postgraduate students with an understanding of core psychological perspectives derived from both humanistic and empirical psychology and their application to tourist behaviours and experiences Sport

Tourism Heather J. Gibson, 2013-09-13 The study of sport tourism is on the cusp of moving from a descriptive phase of research into an analytical phase Consequently many academics and graduate students are searching for theories upon which to ground their work This book draws upon theories and concepts from sociology and anthropology the socio cultural perspective sport and tourism studies and business studies One of the dangers of a new area of study is that the body of knowledge is built on a range of seemingly unrelated studies By grounding work in a theoretical perspective future work can be linked to and contribute to building a cohesive understanding of various aspects of sport tourism This book is an edited collection written by some of the top scholars working in a particular domain throughout the world providing a compendium of theories and concepts that can be used to frame research on various aspects of sport tourism This volume was previously published as a special issue of the journal Sport in Society

Managing People in International Hospitality and Tourism Industries Claudia Endter, 2011-02 Essay from the year 2010 in the subject Business economics Personnel and Organisation grade 1 0 Oxford Brookes University Business School course Managing People in international Hospitality Tourism Industries language English abstract How to motivate staff What is the best way to get out the most out of staff What encourages putting effort into work And what is the link between motivation and good job performance The question of what people expect or want from work is one of the most discussed topics in human resource management and a wide range of authors have tried to find the best fitting solution which combines extrinsic and intrinsic methods While content theories engage with the question of people's needs process theories deal with human behaviour such as work performance effort and satisfaction But what is motivation all about When it comes to analyse approaches to managing motivating and rewarding employees in the international hospitality and tourism industry the term motivation needs to be defined as the direction and persistence of action It is concerned with why people choose a particular course of action in preference to others and why they continue with a chosen action Krech et al 1962 in Mullins 2009 p 250 So the core question is do people work at their best if they are motivated Or what is the connection between motivation and performance
