

African Union, Conflict, and Conflict Resolution in Africa: A Comparative Analysis of the Recent Kenya and Zimbabwe Conflicts

Abstract

"This paper examines African conflicts and the roles of the African Union (AU) in conflict resolution, focusing on the recent Zimbabwe and Kenya conflicts. Two conflict and conflict resolution theories: Hobessian realism and Burton's human needs theory were considered. This paper finds that ethnicity, elections in Africa, colonial manipulation of Africa's boundary, and long-standing land struggle contribute to Africa's conflicts; employing a comparative perspective however, it contends that the primary cause of the Zimbabwe and Kenya conflicts is the failure of the governments of Mugabe and Kibaki to address the basic needs of the people. This paper concludes that unlike other conflict resolution theories/ mechanisms, the AU should stress the improvement of the governance institution in order to persuade the governments in Africa to respond to the basic needs of the populations. This is the major stipulation of needs theory, which is compelling for understanding the causes of conflict and conflict resolution in Africa. Keywords: Conflict; conflict resolution; good governance; African Union; Hobessian realism; Burton's human needs theory."

African Union Conflict And Conflict Resolution In Africa:

The Resolution of African Conflicts Alfred G. Nhema, Paul Tiyambe Zeleza, 2008 These two volumes clearly demonstrate the efforts by a wide range of African scholars to explain the roots routes regimes and resolution of African conflicts and how to re build post conflict societies They offer sober and serious analyses eschewing the sensationalism of the western media and the sophistry of some of the scholars in the global North for whom African conflicts are at worst a distraction and at best a confirmation of their pet racist and petty universalist theories From the introduction by Paul Tiyambe Zeleza This book offers analyses of a range of African conflicts and demonstrates that peace is too important to be left to outsiders

Delgado-Caicedo,2022-07-28 During the first half of the twentieth century the international system was largely dominated by the USA and the colonial powers of western Europe After the two world wars the political and economic dominance of these states guaranteed them and their allies an almost complete control of world politics However as it is the norm in the international system power structures are not immutable After the end of the Cold War rapid changes to the existing international hierarchies took place as new countries from the so called developing world began to emerge as crucial actors capable of questioning and altering the power dynamics of the world It is therefore unthinkable to ignore emerging countries such as Russia the People s Republic of China India Brazil or South Africa in the decision making process in today s world order In addition there is a group of smaller yet increasingly important countries that while acknowledging their inability radically to change the rules of the international system are still eager to shift power relations and enhance their influence in the world Argentina Colombia Egypt Indonesia Iran South Korea Mexico Nigeria Pakistan Saudi Arabia Turkey and Vietnam are generally recognised as part of this grouping of emerging powers from the Global South While there is a consensus amongst academics that emerging powers from the Global South must have a stabilising role within their own regions previous analyses have focused primarily on the impact that emerging powers have had in their own regions conflict resolution initiatives This volume instead aims to go beyond these analyses and provide new insights regarding the effect that this stabilising role has on the continental and global positioning of emerging powers In other words this book explores the relation between a country s involvement in conflict resolution initiatives and its positioning in the international system The volume will contribute to this approach using the perspective of academics and practitioners from countries of the Global South particularly from states that have strengthened or sometimes weakened their position in the international hierarchy of power through a leading role in regional conflict resolution initiatives The African Union Tony Karbo,Tim

Murithi,2017-11-23 The African Union has been a major factor in establishing peace security and development in Africa Today however the intranational body is struggling in the midst of a perceived dissipating appetite for supporting continental institutions Previously seen as the panacea to Africa s continuing problems with violence and corruption in society under the slogan African Solutions to African Problems the African Union this book argues seems to have run its course Recognizing that the measured successes in political emancipation which have been recorded across the African continent do not seem to have translated into economic and social gains for its 1 2 billion citizens the AU adopted a new development framework dubbed Agenda 2063 The framework calls on African leaders to rediscover the Pan African spirit and to create the Africa Africans want In practice this means a new focus and engagement with the African Diaspora tapping into their strong track record in economic development As this book shows however there remain deep differences over the meaning timing and sequencing of pan African integration Indeed different member states have different understandings of the role of the African Union itself This essential handbook from one of the leading research institutions on the continent seeks to uncover what some of those understandings are and why the unification project has remained so elusive The African Union Tony Karbo, Tim Murithi, 2017-11-23 The African Union has been a major factor in establishing peace security and development in Africa Today however the intranational body is struggling in the midst of a perceived dissipating appetite for supporting continental institutions Previously seen as the panacea to Africa s continuing problems with violence and corruption in society under the slogan African Solutions to African Problems the African Union this book argues seems to have run its course Recognizing that the measured successes in political emancipation which have been recorded across the African continent do not seem to have translated into economic and social gains for its 1 2 billion citizens the AU adopted a new development framework dubbed Agenda 2063 The framework calls on African leaders to rediscover the Pan African spirit and to create the Africa Africans want In practice this means a new focus and engagement with the African Diaspora tapping into their strong track record in economic development As this book shows however there remain deep differences over the meaning timing and sequencing of pan African integration Indeed different member states have different understandings of the role of the African Union itself This essential handbook from one of the leading research institutions on the continent seeks to uncover what some of those understandings are and why the unification project has remained so elusive The African Union's Role in Peacekeeping Isiaka Badmus, 2015-05-27 This study examines the African Union s peacekeeping role in managing African conflicts Based on a qualitative research methodology it analyses AU peace operations in Burundi and Somalia and hybrid peacekeeping in Darfur in order to identify the lessons learned and suggest how future outcomes may be improved The African Union and Conflict Management Flemming Mathiasen, Army War College (U.S.), 2006 Africa is a continent with a high number of armed conflicts United Nations regional organizations and a number of non African states have tried to manage these conflicts In 2001 the African states decided to establish the African Union as a successor of the Organization of African Unity Since its establishment the African Union has made a significant effort to become an active player in conflict resolution of African conflicts This paper looks into the build up of capability within the African Union to conduct peace support operations The African Union faces a number of organizational decision making and military challenges as well as providing adequate funds to resource build up and expansion This project analyzes the prospects of meeting these challenges Finally policy prescriptions for future policies to meet the challenges are provided The African Union and New Strategies for Development in Africa Said Adejumobi, Adebayo O. Olukoshi, 2008 The early

twenty first century witnessed remarkable attempts by Africa's political leadership to promote regional integration as a means of fast tracking economic progress facilitating peace and security consolidating democratic gains and promoting the general welfare of the African people The transition of the Organization of Unity OAU to the African Union AU as well as the foisting of a new economic blueprint for the continent the New Partnership for Africa's Development NEPAD combined with the growing role of the regional economic communities RECs in harmonizing and creating subregional norms and standards in the political and economic arena suggests a new trend towards regionalism in Africa Indeed in the new regional integration architecture the RECs are considered to be the building blocks of the integration process led by the African Union This new impetus of a regional development strategy was largely prompted by the slow pace of economic progress on the continent the increasing marginalization of Africa in the global economy and the need to create regional resources and standards that would benefit the continent in all spheres of social life A painful realization became obvious that small micro states in Africa sticking to their political independence and sovereignty would hardly make much progress in an increasingly globalised world A macro states approach of regional integration has assumed Africa's new strategy to intervene in and integrate with a globalizing world The current regional trend in Africa has received very little scholarly attention especially in a systematic and comprehensive way This is due partly to the fact that the processes are currently unfolding and there is still uncertainty in the outcomes Poor documentation and the dearth of primary materials especially from the regional institutions also contribute to the lack of scholarly work in this area This study assembles the voices of some of the most seasoned African and Africanist scholars who have constantly in one way or another interacted with the integration process in Africa and kept abreast of the developments therein and seeks to capture those developments in a nuanced manner in the economic political and social spheres The essence of this book is to analyze those processes teasing out the issues problems challenges and major policy recommendations with tentative conclusions on Africa's regional development trajectory The book therefore fills major knowledge and policy gaps in Africa's regional development agenda This book is a landmark contribution in a systematic attempt to comprehend Africa's regional development strategy led by the African Union It examines the background nuances and dimensions of the process which include the basis and historiography of pan Africanism the transition of the OAU to the AU the issue of popular participation in development the NEPAD and APRM initiatives the evolving regional peace and security architecture and the efforts of regional institutions to facilitate democracy human rights rule of law and good governance on the continent The book underscores the fact that formidable obstacles and challenges abound in the trajectory politics and processes of this regional development paradigm especially as Africa navigates an uncertain future in a deeply divided and unequal yet globalised World The book constitutes a major reference material and compendium for a wide range of readers students and scholars of African affairs and African development policy makers both in Africa and the western countries regional and international institutions and organizations and all those interested in the past present and future of Africa's development process

The Challenges of Conflict Resolution in Africa Rose

Ngomba-Roth, 2008 The Cameroon Nigerian border conflict over the Bakassi peninsula is a result of colonial negligence. Local interests and boundaries were disregarded when colonial powers were partitioning Africa. The Bakassi Peninsula's richness in natural resources (oil, gas, and fish) is the main reason why Cameroon and Nigeria are at loggerheads over the region. Attempts at solving this conflict have failed, and even the ICJ ruling does not stand a better chance of settling this dispute if the interests of the local population are not considered.
