The Agricultural Policy of Muhammad 'Ali in Egypt Helen Anne B. Rivlin, 1979 Government Policy and Food Imports Grant MacDonald Scobie, 1981 Research report on food policy and wheat imports in Egypt examines the historical background to and recent trends in wheat policy describes an econometric model of wheat imports discusses economic implications for food policy Bibliography graphs statistical tables Rural Politics in Nasser's Egypt James B. Mayfield, 2014-09-01 On September 29 1970 President Gamal Abdel Nasser died of a heart attack The hysterical outpouring of grief at the state funeral dramatized the depth to which the loss of this charismatic leader shook the Arab world Few men have achieved the love prestige and adulation that Nasser received from the Arab masses Yet in reality Nasser's political life was a tragic story This book is a careful analysis of Nasser's belated attempts to modernize the rural areas of Egypt It documents the political economic and social factors that made Nasser's dream for his people unattainable in his lifetime Forced to choose between domestic needs and international challenges Nasser's attention was too often directed beyond the borders of Egypt His vision of renewed Arab greatness his dream of Arab unity and his concern for Arab development often distorted his perception of his own country While no one who personally conversed with Nasser doubted his sincere desire for a better life for the peasants of the Nile Valley many noted his tendency to allocate resources more on the basis of dreams rather than the realities of Egypt's domestic problems Granted permission to move freely through Egypt's twenty five provinces prior to the 1967 travel restrictions James B Mayfield had a unique opportunity to personally observe Nasser's dramatic attempts to bring progress and development to his people The two decades of Nasser's rule colored and shaped events in Egypt for many years after his death A History of Islamic Societies Ira M. Lapidus, 2002-08-22 Ira Lapidus classic history of the origins and evolution of Muslim societies revised and updated for this second edition first published in 2002 The Agricultural Policy of Muhammad 'Ali in Egypt Helen Anne B. Rivlin, 1961 Agriculture was the basis of the Egyptian economy when Muhammad Al Founder of modern Egypt was appointed governor of Egypt by the Ottoman sultan in 1805 Dr Rivlin's purpose is to discover if Muhammad Al had a well conceived agricultural policy of lasting significance for the development of Egyptian institutions The conclusion reached after careful analysis of the problem from every facet is that far from having an agricultural policy per se Muhammad Al merely utilized the agricultural wealth of Egypt for the purposes of personal aggrandizement and the attainment of a position of great power and independence for himself and his descendants within the Ottoman empire The measures taken by Muhammad Al affecting land tenure replaced one class of landholders by another to the detriment of the peasant class and the religious institution Although the Pasha can be credited with changing the Egyptian economy from a subsistence to a cash crop economy by the investment of capital in the development of agriculture the financial benefits gained thereby accrued primarily to the Pasha himself Instead of using these profits for economic purposes Muhammad Al embarked upon a program of military adventurism that eventually undermined the economic life of the country and brought only limited political gains to Egypt. Mu'ammad Al-'s domestic policies established the social and economic pattern which prevailed until the Egyptian Revolution of 1952 and are largely responsible for many of Egypt's present problems. Dr. Rivlin's study is of major importance to students of the contemporary Egyptian scene and should serve as an object lesson for present planners in underdeveloped countries.

Conscription in the Napoleonic Era Donald Stoker, Frederick C. Schneid, Harold D. Blanton, 2008-10-09 This edited volume explores conscription in the Napoleonic era, tracing the roots of European conscription and exploring the many methods that states used to obtain the manpower they needed to prosecute their wars. The levée en masse of the French Revolution has often been cited as a Revolution in Military Affairs, but was it truly a revolutionary break with past European practices of raising armies or an intensification of the scope and scale of practices already inherent in the European military system? This international collection of scholars demonstrates that European conscription has far deeper roots than has been previously acknowledged and that its intensification during the Napoleonic era was more an evolutionary than revolutionary change. This book will be of much interest to students of Military History, Strategic Studies, Strategic History, and European History.

The History of Egypt Glenn E. Perry, 2015-12-01 Providing a valuable resource for readers seeking information on all periods of Egyptian history, this book covers Egypt starting from ancient times and continuing through the medieval Islamic period to focus on the events of the last 100 years, including the aborted revolution of 2011. Egypt has experienced tumultuous events in recent years, especially starting with the uprisings and revolution of 2011. This second edition of The History of Egypt not only provides readers with in-depth information on events of the last decade, such as the Arab Spring, the removal of Hosni Mubarak from office, and the protests against Mohamed Morsi's presidency, but also provides key background with chapters addressing previous periods of the country's history, starting from pre-Islamic times to pharaonic to Byzantine. The volume offers an objective history of Egypt that is uniquely appropriate for a high school audience. This expanded and extensively updated second edition provides new content and media photographs that help bring recent events to life for readers without previous knowledge about the topic. It also includes coverage of important events in long-ago Egyptian history that lends valuable perspective to events in the 21st century, such as the nation's transformation into a Muslim and Arab country and Egypt's post 1778 imperialism and modernization through World War I

The Large Landowning Class and the Peasantry in Egypt, 1837-1952 Raouf Abbas, Assem El-Dessouky, 2022-09-01 In Egypt the landowning class first arose in the early part of the nineteenth century from land grants given to extended family members and friends of the ruler Muhammad Ali. The development of capitalism and with it the evolution of law and social practice allowed these land grants gradually to take on the attributes of private property a process that culminated in 1891 in land becoming a form of property like any other. From these developments a class of large landowners emerged and began to defend their interests both economic and political. In two seminal Arabic works published in the 1970s the authors Abbas and El Dessouky traced the formation of this class exploring the multiple factors that influenced the rise and power of landowners. Combined into one volume and translated into English for the first time this book offers a comprehensive analysis of landownership and its effects on Egyptian society. The authors draw from extensive archival sources successfully integrating in their work the competing forces of the state the landlords and the peasants. By moving beyond much of the familiar scholarship on landholders this book presents a new interpretation of Egyptian politics and society.

UNESCO General History of Africa, Vol. VI, Abridged Edition J. F. Ade Ajayi, 1998-07 Volume VI of this acclaimed series is now available in an abridged paperback edition. The result of years of work by scholars from all over the world The UNESCO General History of Africa reflects how the different peoples of Africa view their civilizations and shows the historical relationships between the various parts of the continent. Historical connections with other continents demonstrate Africa's contribution to the development of human civilization. Each volume is lavishly illustrated and contains a comprehensive bibliography. Volume VI covers the period from the beginning of the nineteenth century to the onset of the European scramble for colonial territory in the 1880s. In spite of a growing European commercial religious and political presence during the first three quarters of the century outside influences were felt indirectly by most African societies and they made a number of culturally distinctive attempts to modernize expand and develop. These are detailed in four thematic chapters twenty three chapters detailing developments in specific areas and two concluding chapters tracing the African diaspora and assessing the state of the Continent's political economic and cultural development on the eve of the European conquest.

Napoleon's Proconsul in Egypt Ronald T. Ridley, 1998 The early 19th century was the heroic age of Egyptology. It was also largely dominated by Napoleon who had led his ill considered invasion of Egypt 1798-1799. The eastern Mediterranean was under the control of the ramshackle Ottoman Empire from whom the Greeks were to win their War of Independence. Apart from its archaeological importance Egypt was also one of the most important cockpits in the struggle amongst the various European powers and their fight against the Turks. Bernardino Drovetti was the French consul in Egypt for most of the early 19th century. After an important career in the Napoleonic army he came to Egypt in 1803 where he was to play a leading role in many fields: diplomacy politics archaeology and exploration amassing no fewer than three collections of antiquities.

Irrigation in the Mediterranean François Molle, Carles Sanchis-Ibor, Llorenç Avellà-Reus, 2019-05-09 Mediterranean irrigation is diverse due to among other factors the relative importance of water in the economy of each country varied levels of aridity heterogeneous levels economic social and technological levels of development and differences in political and social organization However most of the Mediterranean countries face similar problems to meet their water demands because of the scarcity and variability of renewable resources growing water requirements from non agricultural sectors increasing environmental concerns related to water quality and environmental degradation a social demand for larger public participation and important technological changes The time has come to reconsider the not one drop lost to the sea philosophy of yesteryears largely and to live within limits This book focuses on eight selected countries Tunisia Morocco Spain France Italy Turkey Israel and Egypt and provides a comparative perspective that both thoroughly explores their specificities and identifies the common challenges faced by the irrigation sector in these countries The book has been written at a critical moment when the continued application of a supply side water management model is revealing its unsustainable nature in numerous places when significant technological changes are taking place in the irrigation sector when new forms of management and governance are widely held as badly needed and finally when climate change is compounding many of the difficulties that have characterized irrigation policies and practices in the past decades This complicated future context makes Mediterranean irrigation face various political dilemmas on water management raising social tensions triggering territorial and land conflicts and stimulating new technological developments This book provides a timely analysis of the particular trajectory of eight Mediterranean countries in these uncertain transformations and attempts to identify the best strategies to avert or overcome future risks

Juridical Humanity Samera Esmeir, 2012-06-20 In colonial Egypt the state introduced legal reforms that claimed to liberate Egyptians from the inhumanity of pre colonial rule and elevate them to the status of human beings These legal reforms intersected with a new historical consciousness that distinguished freedom from force and the human from the pre human endowing modern law with the power to accomplish but never truly secure this transition Samera Esmeir offers a historical and theoretical account of the colonizing operations of modern law in Egypt Investigating the law both on the books and in practice she underscores the centrality of the human to Egyptian legal and colonial history and argues that the production of juridical humanity was a constitutive force of colonial rule and subjugation This original contribution queries long held assumptions about the entanglement of law humanity violence and nature and thereby develops a new reading of the history of colonialism

Directions of Change in Rural Egypt Nicholas S. Hopkins, Kirsten Westergaard, 1998 What emerges is a picture of a rural Egypt that is full of life dramatically evolving and treading a delicate line between progress and impoverishment

The Political Economy of Reforms in Egypt Khalid Ikram, 2018 Drawing on Khalid Ikram's extensive knowledge of economic policymaking at the highest levels The Political Economy of Reforms in Egypt lays out the enduring features of the Egyptian economy and its performance since 1952 before presenting an account of policy making growth and structural change under the country's successive presidents to the present day Ibss: Economics: 1999 Compiled by the British Library of Political and Economic Science, 2000-12-07 IBSS is the essential tool for librarians university departments research institutions and any public or private institution whose work requires access to up to date and comprehensive knowledge of the social sciences Indigo in the Arab World Jenny Balfour-Paul, 2012-10-02 The role indigo has played elsewhere has been fairly well documented but in the case of the Arab world little or no thorough investigation has been previously undertaken Sets out to provide comprehensive coverage of the subject from its earliest history to the present day Girding for Battle Donald J. Stoker, Jonathan Grant, 2003-08-30 The literature on the post 1950 arms trade is exhaustive In contrast there is almost nothing that examines the pre 1950 trade in arms in a solid empirical manner This volume fills that void It is a broad collection of articles that examines aspects of the global trade in armaments from 1815 to 1940 Its collective thrust analyzes the connections between diplomacy the domestic politics of procurement private business and military technology transfers in Asia Europe and Africa and the Americas The Stoker Grant collection disentangles the threads of diplomatic domestic political and economic factors in explaining specific outcomes for each country The research and conclusions are empirically and uniquely grounded in the archival evidence from the state and company records of the participants Moreover it advances academic and popular understanding of the arms trade in a number of significant ways First it elucidates the existing discussions of the arms race leading up to World War I by providing a longer term context In considering nearly a century and a half of case studies rather than a single decade this work allows for a more accurate and non polemical appraisal of the linkages between armaments and the outbreak of wars An important collection for scholars students and other researchers involved with military history and business and political linkages in the global arms trade State, Peasants, and Land in Mid-Nineteenth-Century Egypt Maha Ghalwash, 2023-05-16 An alternative reading of the relationship between the state and smallholder peasants in mid nineteenth century Egypt This book examines the rural history of Egypt during the middle years of the nineteenth century a period that is often glossed over or altogether forgotten Drawing on a wide array of archival sources some only rarely utilized by other scholars it argues that state policy targeting the peasant land tenure regime was informed by the dual economic principles of the Ottoman or traditional philosophy of statecraft and that the workings of the relevant regulations did not produce extensive peasant land loss and impoverishment Maha Ghalwash presents a rich detailed analysis of such crucial issues as land legislation tax impositions the system of tax collection modes of land acquisition large scale peasant abandonment of land the emergence of surplus lands the formation of large privileged estates distribution of village land female land inheritance and the nature of peasants political activity In investigating these issues she highlights peasant voices experiences and agential power Traditional interpretations of the rural history of nineteenth century Egypt generally specify an avaricious state so indifferent to peasant well being that it consistently developed harsh policies that led to unremitting extensive peasant impoverishment Through an examination of the relationship between the absolutist state and the majority of its subject population the peasant smallholders during 1848 63 this study shows that these ideas do not hold for the mid century period State Peasants and Land in Mid Nineteenth Century Egypt will be of interest to students of Middle East history especially Egyptian rural history as well as those of peasant studies subaltern studies gender studies and Ottoman rural history *Catalog of Copyright Entries.
