that reflect their goals needs and cultures Concurrently authors address the structural obstacles to the empowerment of communities arguing that the democratic process does not and cannot accommodate the diverse communities of society within a single universalistic model of citizenship They conclude that fundamentally citizenship is not simply a legal right an obligation a state of rights but a practice an action on the behalf of community Making Citizenship Work challenges conventional thinking about politics while also encouraging readers to go beyond the box that deters us from visualizing a human society It is an ideal book for undergraduate and graduate courses in political science sociology history social work and Ethnic Studies

Political Philosophy and Rhetoric John Zvesper, 1977-04-28 This book analyses the origins of modern party politics in America Dr Zvesper argues that the partisan conflict between Federalists and Republicans in the 1790s was not merely an interesting historical sequel to the American Revolution and the framing of the Constitution but was a confrontation of two of the fundamental alternatives of modern political philosophy Consideration of this fact along with evidence of the class structure of American society is then used to explain why the Republican party was the natural superior in the dispute with Federalism and why Republican philosophy and rhetoric have been so essential to American politics ever since

Society in Action Piotr Sztompka, 1991-08-27 In Society in Action Piotr Sztompka sets forth a highly topical contribution to central theoretical debates of contemporary sociology Taking the idea and practice of collective mobilization as his theme Sztompka argues that modern institutions particularly of late are characterized by an increasing awareness of collective empowerment The most obvious concrete expression of this phenomenon as Sztompka makes clear is the rise of a diversity of active social movements such as those which dramatically transformed Europe in the 1980s from the birth of Solidarity in 1980 to the 1989 Autumn of Nations Sztompka connects the interpretations of such collective activity to a wider grasp of the nature of social action The result is a comprehensive and original theory of social change which focuses on the self transforming influence on society of its members striving for freedom autonomy and self fulfillment He develops his theory by means of a general concept of social becoming the roots of which he traces to the early romantic and humanist work of Karl Marx and his followers and to two influential sociological schools of today the theory of agency and historical sociology Sztompka situates his theory midway between the rigid determinism of social totalities and the unbridled voluntarism of free individuals Social change he demonstrates can be understood neither as the outcome of individual actions taken alone nor as structurally determined actions Instead he confers upon social organizations and movements a self transcending quality they express human agency yet by virtue of their active character are quite often able to achieve unpredictable outcomes Throughout his analysis of social movements and revolutions in history Sztompka emphasizes the dynamics of spontaneous social change generated from below a theoretical testimony to the rapid and fundamental social change in Eastern Europe in recent history Against the fashions of postmodernist malaise boredom and disenchantment his theory of social becoming expresses the possibility of emancipation of change leading to positive gains His work registers a belief in progress not inevitably gained but its attainment fully dependent upon the creativity and optimism of an active citizenry      Reader's Guide to the History of Science Arne Hessenbruch, 2013-12-16 The Reader's Guide to the History of Science looks at the literature of science in some 550 entries on individuals Einstein institutions and disciplines Mathematics general themes Romantic Science and central concepts Paradigm and Fact The history of science is construed widely to include the history of medicine and technology as is reflected in the range of disciplines from which the international team of 200 contributors are drawn      The Future of International Relations Iver B. Neumann, Ole Waever, 2005-06-29 This book presents the state of the art of international relations theory through an analysis of the work of twelve key contemporary thinkers John Vincent Kenneth Waltz Robert O Keohane Robert Gilpin Bertrand Badie John Ruggie Hayward Alker Nicholas G Onuf Alexander Wendt Jean Bethke Elshtain R B J Walker and James Der Derian The authors aim to break with the usual procedure in the field which juxtaposes aspects of the work of contemporary theorists with others presenting them as part of a disembodied school of thought or paradigm A more individual focus can demonstrate instead the well rounded character of some of the leading oeuvres and can thus offer a more representative view of the discipline This book is designed to cover the work of theorists whom students of international relations will read and sometimes struggle with The essays can be read either as introductions to the work of these theorists or as companions to it Each chapter attempts to place the thinker in the landscape of the discipline to identify how they go about studying International Relations and to discuss what others can learn from them
