

AN/ALQ-218 Tactical Jamming Receiver

Force Protection: Real Time Situational Awareness for Tactical Cueing of Jammers/Onboard Sensors

Northrop Grumman's AN/ALQ-218 fully satisfies the unique requirement for a tactical jamming receiver system. In battle, the AN/ALQ-218 tactical jamming receiver is the first system "on the scene" to detect the enemy. The AN/ALQ-218 provides the initial localization for the correlation between the planned Electronic Order of Battle (EOB) and the actual "on the scene" EOB. The AN/ALQ-218 enables aircraft and/or commanders to make quicker and more intelligent decisions to ensure the maximum protection of the friendly forces.

The AN/ALQ-218 successfully meets the required probability of detection and response time necessary to provide situational awareness for reactive (dynamic) jamming. High-powered jammer energy can be concentrated on specific threats and as a result of the jamming, the AN/ALQ-218 follows the changing enemy radar tactics.

The AN/ALQ-218 features two independent receiver groups (primary and auxiliary). The primary receiver group is composed of four channelized and four dual receivers which operate in tandem to provide immediate signal acquisition, accurate parameter measurement, timely updates and precision direction-finding/geolocation. The auxiliary receiver group provides an extended frequency capability, offloads the primary receiver from long dwell time measurements, and aids in the recognition of impulsive modulation plus the updating of range estimates for geolocation.

Geolocation/Target-cueing Capability

The AN/ALQ-218 utilizes a unique combination of short, medium and long baseline interferometry techniques with a patented passive ranging algorithm to provide geolocation of emitters for cueing jammers and other onboard sensors such as electro-optical/infrared sensors and radar.
