Affective Factors Influence Classroom Learning Ascd:

Eight Propositions Joe L. Rempson, 2020-11-19 Rempson takes issue with those who lay the plight of African Americans on racism not seeing it today as a major obstacle to black progress. Rather, he traces the origin back to what he terms the African American Garden of Eden. In it, W. E. B. DuBois outlasted Booker T. Washington and fathered a tradition which Rempson argues has produced a victim identity and an emphasis on the system rather than the self. Only black males offer a way out, he declares, because it is entirely our black males who are keeping us down and curtailing our progress, in contrast to black females who are doing OK. They are plagued by what Rempson calls the African American Male School Adaptability Crisis (AMSAC). Their academic performance ranks at the bottom, alone below black female students and below white Asian and Hispanic male students. In large urban areas, their high school dropout rate is 59 percent, and nationally they lag behind in college attendance and graduation rates. The outcome Rempson argues is dysfunctionality and the existence of hedonistic norms which hinder family and community stability. But while black males are the problem, Rempson contends it is nevertheless only they who can solve it, because research and experience show that it takes males to bring up and change other males. Though intended for everyone, he therefore writes his book to his fellow advantaged black males and makes a passionate plea for them to step up and, with the help of black females and of the nation, take the lead. As their guide, he has formulated eight propositions. Arrived at through an examination of impressively extensive data from numerous sources and disciplines, they are a marked departure from the customary. Most strikingly, delicate matters such as those which pertain to intelligence quotient (IQ) and culture are openly confronted and dealt with. But Rempson writes, unless confronted we will not solve our problems. Nor, he continues, can we solve them unless we cut the umbilical cord to white America. We have no right to expect it to be our savior, nor are we justified in perceiving it as our oppressor. Forcefully and finely written, Rempson's book is a singular and courageous contribution. Alone, his eight propositions make it a worthy read. Educational Innovator's Guide Herbert I. Von Haden, Jean Marie King, 1974 The African American Male School Adaptability Crisis \(Amsac\) Joe L. Rempson, 2016-03-12 The African American Male School Adaptability Crisis (AMSAC) cannot be solved by the school alone. It is a race problem which can only be solved if we black males provide the leadership in tackling our three major demons which now mainly account for the problem: IQ lag, fatherless families, crime. AMSAC had its origin about 100 years ago, when, after the death of Washington, DuBois gained ascendancy in our African American Garden of Eden and replaced Washington's brains, property, and character, gospel with a civil rights agenda. That agenda has led to a civil rights fixation and our second bondage, Victimology, wherein being the victim has become part of our core identity and made us psychological slaves. Rather than being proud and self-reliant, disproportionately we have come to see ourselves as victims who are entitled to system help and special treatment. This bondage, and it is a bondage, vitiates our manhood and the energy and drive required to pursue the adaptation pathway paved by Washington but demonized by DuBois. Return to that pathway.

and we can confront and conquer AMSAC and our three major demons Guided by history and the research evidence this book details how Its 20 chapters make for long reading but just by reading the first and last chapters you can get the message The motto of the proposed evidence based experimental program the African American Male Career Pathway Program AMCAP A special appeal is made to black athletes and entertainers to help propagate this motto and support the proposed high school student clubs Student AMCAPs in its implementation Resources in Education ,1991 Research in Education ,1972

Values Education and Quality Teaching Terence Lovat, Ron Toomey, 2009-04-07 Some revision of public schooling history is necessary to challenge the dominant mythology that public schools were established on the grounds of values neutrality In fact those responsible for the foundations of public education in Australia were sufficiently pragmatic to know that its success relied on its charter being in accord with public sentiment Part of the pragmatism was in convincing those whose main experience of education had been through some form of church based education that state based education was capable of meeting the same ends Hence the documents of the 1870s and 1880s that contained the charters of the various state and territory systems witness to a breadth of vision about the scope of education Beyond the standard goals of literacy and numeracy education was said to be capable of assuring personal morality for each individual and a suitable citizenry for the soon to be new nation As an instance the NSW Public Instruction Act of 1880 of NSW 1912 under the rubric of religious teaching stressed the need for students to be inculcated into the values of their society including understanding the role that religious values had played in forming that society's legal codes and social ethics The notion therefore that public education is part of a deep and ancient heritage around values neutrality is mistaken and in need of serious revision The evidence suggests that public education's initial conception was of being the complete educator not only of young people's minds but of their inner character as well
