Proverbs and conflict management in Africa: A study of selected Yoruba proverbs and proverbial expressions

Adiyemi Johnson Ademowo^{1*} and Noah Balogun²

^{1,2}General Studies Department, Afe Babalola University, Ado-Ekiti, Nigeria

This paper examines the role of proverbs and their use in conflict management and in enhancing peaceful human co-existence. This is achieved through a content analysis of twenty-four (24) randomly selected Yoruba proverbs, and proverbial expressions, with particular reference to the themes of warning, cooperation, and diversity. The paper argues that proverbs are useful in conflict management, and conflict resolution, and in making people have a peace-loving frame of mind. The paper concludes that proverbs and proverbial expressions are, indeed, vital in relationship management. It avers that anybody with a good understanding of proverbs and their implications for peaceful co-existence would appreciate conflicts as an ineluctable part of existence and harmonious living; and such person(s) would therefore avoid actions and inactions that would promote violence.

Key words: Proverbs, Yoruba, Africa, peace, conflict management, indigenous, conflict resolution

Africa, Conflict, and Language

Presently, the social condition in Africa is fast becoming a Hobbesian state of nature where life is brutish, nasty and short. The reason for this is not far-fetched from value erosion, rampant poverty to lack of visionary leadership which is fast reducing the human condition to that of predatory animals that nature has conditioned to feed and live on one another for survival, leading to an unprecedented loss of lives and properties in Africa. This situation, if not urgently arrested, portends dangerous omen to generations yet unborn.

The prevalence of political violence, insurgencies of diverse magnitude and terrorism in contemporary Africa require urgent and renewed efforts in arresting the gory situation. In fact, there is urgent need to look inward for methods of conflict management to support the commonplace western imported paradigm. The need to 'look inward' becomes vital as the search for lasting peace continues. (Ogunmodede 2001). It is within this understanding that scholars have blamed the contemporary African problems, not just on eroded traditional African values and value system but also, on the lack of mastery of language that has resulted in gross misunderstanding, particularly the dearth of practical wisdom embedded in proverbs to address issues in conflict (Adeyemi 2014; Ademowo 2012; Makamuri 2012). The crux of this work lies in taking a new look at indigenous/traditional means of conflict management which are found in proverbial practical wisdom.

This book examines Africa's internal and external relations by focusing on three core concepts: orders, diplomacy and borderlands. The contributors examine traditional and non-traditional diplomatic actors and domestic, regional, continental and global orders. They argue that African diplomats profoundly shape these orders by situating themselves within in-between spaces of geographical and functional orders. It is in these borderlands that agency, despite all kinds of constraints, flourishes. Chapters in the book compare domestic orders to regional ones and then continental African orders to global ones. They deal with a range of functional orders including development, international trade, human rights, migration, nuclear arms control, peacekeeping, public administration and territorial change. By focusing on these topics, the volume contributes to a better understanding of African international relations, sharpens analyses of ordering processes in world politics and adds to our comprehension of how diplomacy shapes orders and vice versa. The studies collected here show a much more nuanced picture of African agency in African and international affairs and suggest that African diplomacy is far more extensive than is often assumed. This book will be of much interest to students of diplomacy studies, African politics and International Relations.

Interracial Communication Mark P. Orbe, Tina M. Harris, 2013-12-13 Interracial Communication Theory Into Practice Third Edition by Mark P Orbe and Tina M Harris guides readers in applying the contributions of recent communication theory to improving everyday communication among the races. The authors offer a comprehensive practical foundation for dialogue on interracial communication as well as a resource that stimulates thinking and encourages readers to become active participants in dialogue across racial barriers. Part I provides a foundation for studying interracial communication and includes chapters on the history of race and racial categories, the importance of language, the development of racial and cultural identities and current and classical theoretical approaches. Part II applies this information to interracial communication practices in specific everyday contexts including friendships, romantic relationships, the mass media and organizational/public and group settings. This Third Edition includes the latest data, new research studies and examples, all new photos and important new topics.

Beyond Mediation Daniel Njoroge Karanja, 2020-09-29 This book offers narrative analysis theory as a vehicle to understand indigenous mediation. The conceptual basis for this manuscript is the undisputed urgent need to understand mediation from a conflict transformation perspective, highlighting the nexus between indigenous justice, forgiveness and trauma healing. This book is based on the assumptions that local communities have the tools/capabilities that they need to build stable and enduring peaceful co-existence. These capacities have been weakened by the political elite and bankrupt/corrupt leadership approaches that must be rejected through empowerment and rigorous mediation brigades at the local level. The last chapter in the manuscript proposes a research center for indigenous justice.
