The Mood of Information Andrew McStay, 2011-04-14 The Mood of Information explores advertising from the perspective of information flows rather than the more familiar approach of symbolic representation At the heart of this book is an aspiration to better understand contemporary and nascent forms of commercial solicitation predicated on the commodification of experience and subjectivity In assessing novel forms of advertising that involve tracking users' web browsing activity over a period of time this book seeks to grasp and explicate key trends within the media and advertising industries along with the technocultural legal regulatory and political environment online behavioural advertising operates within Situated within contemporary scholarly debate and interest in recursive media that involves intensification of discourses of feedback personalization recommendation co production constructivism and the preempting of intent this book represents a departure from textual criticism of advertising to one based on exposition of networked means of inferring preferences desires and orientations that reflect ways of being or moods of information

Complexity, Emergence, and Causality in Applied Linguistics Jérémie Bouchard, 2021-11-23 This book suggests that applied linguistics research is inherently concerned with complexity emergence and causality and because of this it also requires a robust social ontology

The book identifies and unpacks a range of conceptual issues in applied linguistics from a social realist perspective and provides a critique of successionism and interpretivism as two dominant and enduring empiricist tendencies in the field. From this critique it considers the emergence of complex dynamic system theory as viable yet not entirely unproblematic conceptual sophistication of current applied linguistics research. Although the growing popularity of complex dynamic system theory is undeniable and understandable, this book argues that its integration within a social realist ontology is necessary for further developments in the field. The book will be of interest to applied linguists and social scientists interested in language related issues including language learning and teaching, language change, language policy and planning, bilingualism, multilingualism and language and identity.

Aspects of Doctoral Research at the Maryvale International Catholic Institute (Volume One) Andrew B. Morris, 2019-04-04. Established at Old Oscott in Birmingham, England, in 1980, the Maryvale Institute provides a variety of part-time and distance learning courses to the lay faithful, consecrated religious, and ministers of the Roman Catholic Church. Maryvale's doctoral research programme in Catholic Studies is conducted in collaboration with and accredited by Liverpool Hope University. Successful students receive an award of a Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) degree from the University. This book is concerned with the outcomes of that doctoral research programme. It provides an overview of the breadth of work by its students in the UK, USA, and Africa, and their contribution to new knowledge in the area of Catholic studies, a wide field including history, literature, philosophy, spirituality, and theology.

A Marriage of Philosophy and Music Erich Welling, 2014-04. How to use philosophy and music to open your horizons and enjoy being yourself put theory to work and help you experience personal growth is discussed in A Marriage of Philosophy and Music. It is all about, after having a liberal education, you are comfortable in modern culture and after further education and becoming a specialist in some field, you enjoy using your skills. We learn the ideas and methods of many social cultures and our own chosen specialty, but we often neglect the liberal art of disciplining and enjoying the ideas and methods of our own individuality. This book offers a path toward the education of privacy, with the key words being selection, design, and beauty. The book relates five areas of general human interest: spirituality, philosophy, science, art, and body awareness. The interrelation is accomplished by using personal patterns of experience that are available from philosophy and music. Because of the plurality of subject matters and methods used in philosophy and music, their patterns of discipline are comparable to self-discipline. A Marriage of Philosophy and Music attempts to create a path in this direction because, besides the enjoyment of social culture and personal skills, there is enjoyment in being yourself, which is a neglected liberal art.

Obstruction Nick Salvato, 2016-03-11. Can a bout of laziness or a digressive spell actually open up paths to creativity and unexpected insights? In Obstruction, Nick Salvato suggests that for those engaged in scholarly pursuits, laziness, digressiveness, and related experiences can be paradoxically generative. Rather than being dismissed as hindrances, these obstructions are to be embraced, clung to, and reoriented. Analyzing an eclectic range of texts and figures from the Greek Cynics and Denis Diderot to Dean Martin and the Web series Drunk History Salvato finds value in five obstructions embarrassment laziness slowness cynicism and digressiveness Whether listening to Tori Amos's music as a way to think about embarrassment linking the MTV series Daria to using cynicism to negotiate higher education's corporatized climate or examining the affect of slowness in Kelly Reichardt's films Salvato expands our conceptions of each obstruction and shows ways to transform them into useful provocations With a unique literary and self-reflexive voice Salvato demonstrates the importance of these debased obstructions and shows how they may support alternative modes of intellectual activity In doing so he impels us to rethink the very meanings of thinking work and value     Teaching Research Methods in the Social Sciences Mark Garner, Claire Wagner, Barbara

Kawulich, 2016-04-01 How can excellence in the teaching of research methods be encouraged and ensured This question has become increasingly important following the adoption of research methodology as a core part of many postgraduate and undergraduate courses There has however been little discussion about the aims and methods of teaching the subject In this volume a number of authors from a variety of countries and disciplines employ their knowledge and experience towards the development of a pedagogical culture in research methods Their aim is to establish the extent of common concerns and challenges and to demonstrate ways in which these are being met Intended to provide both a stimulus and source materials for the development of a more substantial and systematic literature in the field the book will be of great interest to all those teaching research methods courses within social science disciplines     China as context Di Wu, Andrea E. Pia, Ed

Pulford, 2025-09-02 Decades old calls to recognise China's significance for anthropological theory and the social sciences are more urgent than ever Yet Chinese grounded ideas remain marginal with China often seen as an Other rather than a source of widely applicable theory Drawing on East Asian postcolonial scholarship this volume argues that without taking China seriously as a knowledge producer and a key agent in a post global world social scientists risk misinterpreting the global present As Western globalisation wanes and anthropology reassesses the relationship between ethnography and theory we show how China must be understood as an ordinary integral context for research worldwide     Critical Realism,

Post-positivism and the Possibility of Knowledge Ruth Groff, 2004-07-31 Groff defends realism about causality through close discussions of Kant Hilary Putnam Brian Ellis and Charles Taylor among others In so doing she affirms critical realism but with several important qualifications In particular she rejects the theory of truth advanced by Roy Bhaskar She also attempts to both clarify and correct earlier critical realist attempts to apply realism about causality to the social sciences By connecting issues in metaphysics and philosophy of science to the problem of relativism Groff bridges the gap between the philosophical literature and broader debates surrounding socio political theory and poststructuralist thought This unique approach will make the book of interest to philosophers and socio political theorists alike     Positive Prejudice as

Interpersonal Ethics Sara Kärkkäinen Terian, 2020-09-28 Positive Prejudice as Interpersonal Ethics examines prejudice not merely as a negative attitude toward others but as a general orientation that enables perception and understanding

Prejudicial attitudes appear in all daily human interactions these interactions have a moral character and thus have an effect on the self concepts and self esteem of the participants By examining this concept at the intersection of three fields social psychological studies of the nature of prejudice phenomenological examination of a person s interpersonal experiences and ethical consideration of the character of constructive interactions this book places the idea of prejudice in its larger context Presenting prejudice as situational understanding that impacts all perception and interpretation Sara K rkk inen Terian offers a way to shape it from negative to positive She considers recognition of one s value as a person an integral part of positive prejudice and respect as its necessary basis

Statistical Noise or Valuable Information Clemens Pirker,2009-11-07 Clemens Pirker addresses the frequent doubt among researchers on how to deal with extreme and outlying observations in data analysis He draws on various scientific domains to explore possible handling alternatives and the relevance of the phenomenon The dissertation concludes that authors may leverage their insights from given data by reporting those cases and their influence on the results

What Is a Person? Christian Smith,2010-09-15 What is a person This fundamental question is a perennial concern of philosophers and theologians But Christian Smith here argues it also lies at the center of the social scientist s quest to interpret and explain social life In this ambitious book Smith presents a new model for social theory that does justice to the best of our humanistic visions of people life and society Finding much current thinking on personhood to be confusing or misleading Smith finds inspiration in critical realism and personalism Drawing on these ideas he constructs a theory of personhood that forges a middle path between the extremes of positivist science and relativism Smith then builds on the work of Pierre Bourdieu Anthony Giddens and William Sewell to demonstrate the importance of personhood to our understanding of social structures From there he broadens his scope to consider how we can know what is good in personal and social life and what sociology can tell us about human rights and dignity Innovative critical and constructive What Is a Person offers an inspiring vision of a social science committed to pursuing causal explanations interpretive understanding and general knowledge in the service of truth and the moral good

Africa Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow Nathan Andrews,2013-02-14 From a multi dimensional and interdisciplinary standpoint this book challenges the teleological and unidirectional notions of development embodied in the idea of modernisation or progress and offers a critique of the tendency to consider Africa as a basket case which often gives the Western self an undeserving privilege and superiority over the African other Mostly authored by emerging African scholars this 16 chapter volume addresses the historical application of development projects in Africa and their modern impact in economic political cultural social and infrastructural contexts among others The book therefore unearths development dynamics in specific African countries examines the continent s external relations rethinks predominant ideas on development and engages in critical examination of concepts and practices that have maintained hegemonic positions in the discussions on Africa s development Its uniqueness lies in the ability to bring these several voices and themes together into a concise conception of both the challenges and possibilities of Africa's sustainable development. The book targets both the academic and policy worlds in Africa and around the world as well as ordinary members of the public who seek to broaden their theoretical and empirical understanding on the changing dynamics on the African continent. Contradictions of Archaeological Theory Sandra Wallace, 2012-01-30. Is current archaeological theory stuck at an impasse? Sandra Wallace argues that archaeological theory has become mired as a result of logical and ontological contradictions. By showing that these contradictions are a result of common underlying philosophical assumptions and fallacies, this book is able to show how a fresh approach to this discipline is necessary to resolve them even if this requires re-examining some of the tenants of orthodox archaeology. This fresh approach is achieved by using Critical Realism as an under-labourer to philosophically evaluate archaeological theory. Starting by assessing the historical impact of philosophy on the discipline and then looking at the current relationship between archaeology and the ontology of the material, this book facilitates the construction of discipline-specific theory by archaeologists. The result is an approach to archaeology that allows both students and practitioners to free themselves from endemic contradictions and re-discover their approach to archaeological theory. Realism and Psychological Science David J. F. Maree, 2020-06-02. The book provides an argument why realism is a viable metatheoretical framework for psychological science. By looking at some variations of realism such as scientific realism, critical realism, situational realism, and Ferraris' new realism, a realist view of science is outlined that can feature as a metatheory for psychological science. Realism is a necessary correction for the mythical image of science responsible for and maintained by a number of dichotomies and polarities in psychology. Thus, the quantitative/qualitative dichotomy, scientist/practitioner polarity, and positivist/constructionist opposition feed off and maintain a mythic image of science on levels of practice, methods, and metatheory. Realism makes a clear distinction between ontology and epistemic access to reality, the latter which easily fits with softer versions of constructionism and the former which grounds science in resistance and possibility, loosely translated as criticism. By taking science as a critical activity, an issue such as the quantitative imperative loses its defining force as a hallmark of science; it provides epistemic access to certain parts of reality. In addition, essentially critical activities characteristic of various qualitative approaches may be welcomed as proper science. Academics, professionals, and researchers in psychology would find value in situating their scholarly work in a realist metatheory, avoiding the pitfalls of traditional methodologies and theories. Schelling and Spinoza Benjamin Norris, 2022-08-01. Schelling and Spinoza reconstruct Schelling's reading of Spinoza's metaphysics to better understand the roles realism and idealism play in Schelling's work. Schelling initially praises Spinoza's monism but comes to criticize the lifelessness produced by Spinoza's dualistic account of the relation between thought and existence. By turning to Schelling's notion of the Absolute, author Benjamin Norris presents a novel reading of Schelling's early and middle philosophical endeavors as a kind of ideal realism dependent on the hyphen that marks both the identity and the non-identity of realism and idealism. Through close analysis of Schelling's work, he convincingly argues that any contemporary return to Schelling must grapple with his critique of Spinoza This critique calls into question the categories of immanence and transcendence that orient the current debate surrounding realism antirealism and idealism Schelling and Spinoza is an important contribution to our understanding of both Schelling and Spinoza as well as the viability of the frightening claim that only one thing truly exists      Annual Review of Comparative and International Education 2021 Alexander W. Wiseman, 2022-07-19 The Annual Review of Comparative and International Education 2021 Part B begins with several chapters exploring conceptual and methodological developments in comparative and international education followed by studies exploring research to practice and new developments in comparative and international education

Christianity and Critical Realism Andrew Wright, 2013-05-07 One of the key achievements of critical realism has been to expose the modernist myth of universal reason which holds that authentic knowledge claims must be objectively pure uncontaminated by the subjectivity of local place specific time and particular culture Wright aims to address the lack of any substantial and sustained engagement between critical realism and theological critical realism with particular regard to a the distinctive ontological claims of Christianity b their epistemic warrant and intellectual legitimacy and c scrutiny of the primary source of the ontological claims of Christianity namely the historical figure of Jesus of Nazareth As such it functions as a prolegomena to a much needed wider debate guided by the under labouring services of critical realism between Christianity and various other religious and secular worldviews This important new text will help stimulate a debate that has yet to get out of first gear This book will appeal to academics graduate and post graduate students especially but also Christian clergy ministers and informed laity and members of the general public concerned with the nature of religion and its place in contemporary society      Beginning Realism Steven Earnshaw, 2013-01-18 Realism is an essential concept in literary studies yet for a variety of reasons it has not received the attention and clarity it deserves often being dismissed as too slippery to be of use This accessible study remedies that failing for students and scholars of English Literature and Literary Theory alike plainly setting out what realism is the issues surrounding it and its role in other major literary modes such as modernism and postmodernism Beginning Realism gives detailed coverage of the nineteenth century realist novel through its focus on novels by Gaskell Eliot Trollope Dickens Mrs Oliphant Thackeray and Zola As well as discussing the novel the book also includes chapters on the use of realism in drama and poetry and a chapter on the language of realism another aspect often overlooked in analysis of the concept
