Catalogue of Extension-related Problem Reports, Theses, and Dissertations United States. Extension Service (1970-). Program and Staff Development, 1975 The role of extension and advisory services in building resilience of smallholder farmers Davis, Kristin, Babu, Suresh Chandra, Blom, Sylvia, 2014-05-04 Although there is an increasing base of literature on extension and advisory services their role in building resilience in particular has not yet been explored empirically The literature on resilience in general is itself only in the nascent stage However past intervention efforts that attempt to move from emergency responses to long term development indicate that without well capacitated systems for implementing interventions such a transition could be difficult This brief explores the sustainable livelihoods framework to conceptualize the capacity needs of resilience focused extension and advisory services It indicates where to move the policy and research agenda forward with regard to the role of extension and advisory services in building resilience Hearings, Reports and Prints of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs United States. Congress. House. Committee on Foreign Affairs (1789-1975), 1960 Studies and Reports, 1920 INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF INTEGRATIVE HUMANISM Vol. 10 No. 2 Department of Classics and Philosophy University of Cape Coast, Ghana, 2018-12-10 The Journal of Integrative Humanism is a publication of the Faculty of Arts University of Cape Coast Ghana All papers reports communications and contributions published in this journal and copyright in the same are the property of Faculty of Arts University of Cape Coast Ghana and the University of Calabar save where otherwise indicated Information Technology Integration for Socio-Economic Development Tossy, Titus, 2016-07-22 As the developed world continues to become more digitized lesser developed areas are starting to see more technological advancements being integrated into their society These advancements are creating opportunities to improve both the economy and the lives of people within these areas Information Technology Integration for Socio Economic Development features theoretical concepts and best practices in the implementation of new technologies within developing areas around the world Highlighting empirical research on the application of information technologies to bridge the digital divide within different countries the book is ideally suited for technology developers managers and policy makers Agricultural extension in transition worldwide Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2020-04-01 This publication contains twelve modules which cover a selection of major reform measures in agricultural extension being promulgated and implemented internationally such as linking farmers to markets making advisory services more demand driven promoting pluralistic advisory systems and enhancing the role of advisory services within agricultural innovation systems The reform issues consider the changing roles of the various public private and non governmental providers and highlights the collaboration required to create synergies for more efficient and effective high quality services responding to the needs and demands of smallholder farmers The modules draw on reform experiences worldwide and provide an introduction definitions and a discussion for each specific reform measure as well as case studies tools exercises and a reference list The reform topics are envisaged for policy makers management and senior staff of institutions providing agricultural and rural advisory services It can also be very useful for students studying agriculture rural development and extension in particular This is a substantially updated version of the 2009 publication of the same title but with only nine modules These nine modules were restructured and up dated and three modules were added The layout of the modules changed to allow a better overview for the reader

Agricultural Extension Communication And Role Of ICT Ashish Kumar Nagar,2023-10-16 Agricultural Extension Communication and the Role of ICT is a revolutionary work that examines the vital relationship between conventional agricultural extension and current ICT It examines how ICT may transform agriculture and make information and technology more accessible to farmers globally Leading agricultural and communication specialists and academics wrote the book presenting insights and real world case examples Human knowledge and technology innovation are used in the book to tackle agricultural extension holistically It emphasizes the need to understand local settings and work with rural populations to ensure that technology supports traditional knowledge Practical case studies demonstrate the effective use of mobile apps social media remote sensing and big data analytics in different agricultural situations

Resources in Education ,1995 Economic Developments In India : Monthly Update, Volume -87 Analysis, Reports, Policy Documents Editors : Raj Kapila & Uma Kapila,2005 Research in Education ,1969 Communications Research and Paper Series ,1972* National extension policy and state-level implementation: The case of Cross River State, Nigeria Ogunniyi, Adebayo,Babu, Suresh Chandra,Balana, Bedru,Andam, Kwaw S.,2020-07-15 Agricultural extension plays a number of important roles in the growth and transformation of the agricultural sector including improving agricultural productivity and food security and reducing hunger and malnutrition Extension programs and interventions that will achieve significant impacts in terms of behavior and practice changes as well as agricultural productivity increase will succeed as a result of suitable policy formulation and an effective implementation process Ultimately agricultural extension reform requires policy vision and determination and a state level strategy that can be implemented This paper documents issues challenges constraints and potential solutions and opportunities in implementing the national extension policy NEP at the state level in Nigeria using Cross River State as a case study We use both quantitative and qualitative methods in the form of descriptive statistical analysis and an inclusive consultative process with a focus on the multistakeholder participatory model respectively The descriptive results show that generally there is low access to agricultural extension service across commodities and their respective value chains in Cross River State We also document interesting insights from the multistakeholder consultative process We find that collaboration and partnership between private and public extension service providers is key to developing a sustainable extension advisory and support service in Cross River State We also found that coordination and standardization of the activities of the extension service providers is a way to avoid pollution of the agricultural innovation

system in the state Funding of extension services is another important factor affecting the effective implementation of the NEP We therefore suggest that agricultural extension services can be funded through decentralization involvement of farmers associations and nongovernmental organizations contracting out of extension services public private partnerships privatization and embedding advisory services in other types of contracts The results of this study further validate our approach of using multistakeholder engagement at the state level as an effective and insightful method of implementing the NEP at the state level

Between Rhetoric and Reality Mawere, Munyaradzi,Awuah-Nyamekye, Samuel,2015-04-02 Since time immemorial indigenous peoples around the world have developed knowledge systems to ensure their continued survival in their respective territories These knowledge systems have always been dynamic such that they could meet new challenges Yet since the so called enlightenment period these knowledges have been supplanted by the Western enlightenment science or colonial science hegemony and arrogance such that in many cases they were relegated to the periphery Some Euro centric scholars even viewed indigenous knowledge as superstitious irrational and anti development This erroneous view has since the colonial period spread like veld fire to the extent of being internalised by some political elites and Euro centric academics of Africa and elsewhere However for some time now the potential role that indigenous peoples and their knowledge can play in addressing some of the global problems haunting humanity across the world is increasingly emerging as part of international discourse This book presents an interesting and insightful discourse on the state and role that indigenous knowledge can play in addressing a tapestry of problems of the world and the challenges connected with the application of indigenous knowledge in enlightenment science dominated contexts The book is not only useful to academics and students in the fields of indigenous studies and anthropology but also those in other fields such as environmental science social and political ecology development studies policy studies economic history and African studies
