Resources in Education, 1998 Collateral Damage Sharon L. Nichols, David C. Berliner, 2007-03-01 Drawing on their extensive research Nichols and Berliner document and categorize the ways that high stakes testing threatens the purposes and ideals of the American education system For more than a decade the debate over high stakes testing has dominated the field of education This passionate and provocative book provides a fresh perspective on the issue and powerful ammunition for opponents of high stakes tests Their analysis is grounded in the application of Campbell's Law which posits that the greater the social consequences associated with a quantitative indicator such as test scores the more likely it is that the indicator itself will become corrupted and the more likely it is that the use of the indicator will corrupt the social processes it was intended to monitor Nichols and Berliner illustrate both aspects of this corruption showing how the pressures of high stakes testing erode the validity of test scores and distort the integrity of the education system Their analysis provides a coherent and comprehensive intellectual framework for the wide ranging arguments against high stakes testing while putting a compelling human face on the data marshalled in support of those arguments Air Passenger Specialist (AFSC 60550) Jerry Q. Jennie Bristow, 2013-09-09 Parenthood we are told requires a massive adjustment to our lives emotions and relationships and we have to be taught how to deal with that But can it really be so bad that we need constant counselling and parenting classes It is a myth that today's parents are hopeless and lazy in many ways we have become too diligent too hopeful of great outcomes and clear rewards to the point where we lose ourselves in trying to provide some kind of professional service to our children The current obsession with perfect parenting increases our insecurity and distrust of each other and diminishes our authority over our kids This book is about asking Why have we invited Supernanny into our living rooms and how can we kick her out
