Gatewood,2012-12-06 The basic partial differential equations for the stresses and displacements in classical three dimensional elasticity theory can be set up in three ways 1 to solve for the displacements first and then the stresses 2 to solve for the stresses first and then the displacements and 3 to solve for both stresses and displacements simultaneously These three methods are identified in the literature as 1 the displacement method 2 the stress or force method and 3 the combined or mixed method Closed form solutions of the partial differential equations with their complicated boundary conditions for any of these three methods have been obtained only in special cases In order to obtain solutions various special methods have been developed to determine the stresses and displacements in structures The equations have been reduced to two and one dimensional forms for plates beams and trusses By neglecting the local effects at the edges and ends satisfactory solutions can be obtained for many case The procedures for reducing the three dimensional equations to two and one dimensional equations are described in Chapter 1 Volume 1 where the various approximations are pointed out Speednews ,1989 Army RD & A Bulletin ,1970 Aeronautical Engineering ,1991 Smart Intelligent Aircraft Structures (SARISTU) Piet Christof Wölcken,Michael

Papadopoulos,2015-09-04 The book includes the research papers presented in the final conference of the EU funded SARISTU Smart Intelligent Aircraft Structures project held at Moscow Russia between 19 21 of May 2015 The SARISTU project which was launched in September 2011 developed and tested a variety of individual applications as well as their combinations With a strong focus on actual physical integration and subsequent material and structural testing SARISTU has been responsible for important progress on the route to industrialization of structure integrated functionalities such as Conformal Morphing Structural Health Monitoring and Nanocomposites The gap and edge free deformation of aerodynamic surfaces known as conformal morphing has gained previously unrealized capabilities such as inherent de icing erosion protection and lightning strike protection while at the same time the technological risk has been greatly reduced Individual structural health monitoring techniques can now be applied at the part manufacturing level rather than via extending an aircraft's time in the final assembly line And nanocomposites no longer lose their improved properties when trying to upscale from neat resin testing to full laminate testing at element level As such this book familiarizes the reader with the most significant developments achievements and key technological steps which have been made possible through the four year long cooperation of 64 leading entities from 16 different countries with the financial support of the European Commission
