Corporatism, Social Control, and Cultural Domination in Education Joel H. Spring, 2012 Starting with the 1972 publication of his seminal work Education and the Rise of the Corporate State Joel Spring has been documenting and analyzing the politics of knowledge and education Throughout his work he has explored the attempts to use education to advance the economic and political interests of dominant groups The general term he uses for the relationship between schools and power is ideological management His scholarly work first looked at the influence on American schooling of business and economic doctrines embodied in human capital theories and consumerism. The next step in his exploration of the politics of knowledge was to examine these issues in the context of globalization leading to a proposed educational rights amendment to national constitutions and a new paradigm for education both of which might ensure that schools are protected from ideological management by economic and political elites. Spring's indigenous background has strongly shaped his interest in the political and economic goals of schooling, particularly the attempts of those in power to use schools to destroy indigenous languages and cultures. In this collection, Spring brings together 10 of his key writings providing an overview not just of his own career but the larger contexts in which it is situated. In the Introduction, he reviews the evolution and scope of his work and his earlier arguments and reflects on its central themes which are reflected in the writings selected for this volume. In the World Library of Educationalists, international scholars themselves compile career-long collections of what they judge to be their finest pieces: extracts from books, key articles, salient research findings, major theoretical and practical contributions, so the world can read them in a single manageable volume. Readers will be able to follow the themes and strands of their work and see their contribution to the development of a field as well as the development of the field itself. Contributors to the series include Michael Apple, James A. Banks, Stephen J. Ball, Elliot Eisner, Howard Gardner, John Gilbert, Ivor F. Goodson, Peter Jarvis.

Culturally Proficient Education Randall B. Lindsey, Michelle Karns, Keith Myatt, 2010-04-14 Using the framework of cultural proficiency, this timely resource offers educators the knowledge and skills to maximize educational opportunities for all students independent of students' socioeconomic status.

Foundations of Education Samuel M. Craver, Maïke Ingrid Philipsen, 2011-06-30 Foundations of Education is organized around the major problems facing contemporary American education. It offers a thorough scholarly treatment of these problems from historical, philosophical, and sociological perspectives, bringing together relevant findings from those disciplines to analyze and illuminate a wide range of issues. Each chapter focuses on a core topic including race, gender, equal opportunities, school governance, to give students a solid overview providing intellectually sound material that offers real depth and challenges students to think creatively. Packed with exercises, discussion questions, international case studies for comparative purposes, and supported by a fully up-to-date companion website, this is a text that responds to current developments, changes, and trends in teacher education. Foundations of Education will prepare a new generation of educators for a globalized and technology-driven society that needs to be aware of its best educational traditions, its current problems, and its future possibilities.

A Legacy of Learning David T. Kearns, James Harvey, 2010-12-01 What's wrong with America's schools Why can't we fix them How did we wind up with dropout rates of 25 percent and graduates who can barely read and write Why does the United States spend twice as much on education as the international average and wind up near the bottom of the barrel in global comparisons of student achievement Why do we lag behind nations such as South Korea Hungary and Singapore And how should we go about improving the situation Answers to these questions lie at the heart of this volume David T. Kearns and James Harvey contend we are fine tuning failure We have yet to break with the past in order to face a different and challenging future Despite worshipping at the altar of local control we have managed to create cookie cutter schools across the country We have been sidestepping the transparent need for common expectations about what students should know and be able to do Standards the authors say are not clear enough or high enough Above all we have met the enemy and it is us all of us support change as long as someone else is changing This book is a fascinating and provocative analysis of where we went wrong and what we need to do to get American education back on track It defines the kind of education our kids deserve It calls for a new definition of public education in which choice is taken for granted And it outlines an action agenda to help parents and citizens make first class schools truly their own In the future the authors argue we should think of a public school as any other non profit entity capable of operating in the public interest free of the red tape now strangling public education It should be paid for by the public and accountable to the public with its charter or contract routinely revoked when it stops serving public purposes or fails to meet its performance goals
