Biosafety and Biosecurity Approaches to Counter SARS-CoV-2: From Detection to Best Practices and Risk Assessments

Stephen Allen Morse, Segaran P. Pillai, Jianming Qiu, Yao-Wei Huang, 2021-10-14 Knowledge Management Shaofeng Liu, 2020-01-03 As knowledge economies become increasingly important around the world it is essential that organizations are able to transform their knowledge into a competitive advantage This textbook offers an interdisciplinary approach to knowledge management written specifically for postgraduate students in business and management schools Knowledge Management presents classic and advanced concepts models and frameworks using a clear logical structure which covers building knowledge competence the knowledge lifecycle and integration of knowledge management with business decision making An overall framework illustrates links between chapters and ensures readers can gain a body of actionable knowledge rather than learning isolated uncontextualized topics Based on cutting edge research findings and covering the most advanced IT and IS technologies this book emphasises the need for knowledge management to span boundaries across organizations supply chains and partnerships rather than being limited to individual learning and sharing within businesses Knowledge Management is international in scope and includes real world case studies and role play scenarios to show how theories are applied in practice and think back and critique discussion questions to encourage reflective learning and critical thinking This indispensable text provides a dynamic picture of the evolution of knowledge management and demonstrates its full potential to enable better business decisions Accompanying online resources include PowerPoint slides for lecturers and exercise questions for students AI in and for Africa Susan Brokensha, Eduan Kotzé, Burgert A. Senekal, 2023-05-02 AI in and for Africa A Humanistic Perspective explores the convoluted intersection of artificial intelligence AI with Africa s unique socio economic realities This book is the first of its kind to provide a comprehensive overview of how AI is currently being deployed on the African continent Given the existence of significant disparities in Africa related to gender race labour and power the book argues that the continent requires different AI solutions to its problems ones that are not founded on technological determinism or exclusively on the adoption of Eurocentric or Western centric worldviews It embraces a decolonial approach to exploring and addressing issues such as AI s diversity crisis the absence of ethical policies around AI that are tailor made for Africa the ever widening digital divide and the ongoing practice of dismissing African knowledge systems in the contexts of AI research and education Although the book suggests a number of humanistic strategies with the goal of ensuring that Africa does not appropriate AI in a manner that is skewed in favour of a privileged few it does not support the notion that the continent should simply opt for a one size fits all solution either Rather in light of Africa s rich diversity the book embraces the need for plurality within different regions AI ecosystems The book advocates that Africa inclusive AI policies incorporate a relational ethics of care which explicitly addresses how Africa s unique landscape is entwined in an AI ecosystem The book also works to provide actionable AI tenets that can be incorporated into policy documents that suit Africa's needs This book will be of great interest to researchers students and readers who wish to critically appraise the different facets of AI in the context of Africa across many areas that run the gamut from education gender studies and linguistics to agriculture data science and economics This book is of special appeal to scholars in disciplines including anthropology computer science philosophy and sociology to name a few Health Technologies and Innovations to Effectively Respond to the COVID-19 Pandemic Björn Wolfgang Schuller,Phuong N. Shifting Mobility Dewan Masud Karim,2023-12-01 In the face of resource depletion environmental changes lifestyle changes demographic and digital adaptation old ideologies of city building and expensive and complex automobility solutions are in freefall These changes are creating severe friction between the old and new paradigms This book provides new perspectives through the process of ideological disassociation and concepts of human mobility code The basic premise of the book human mobility is an essential component of our creativity that comes from our unconscious desire to become a part of a community Several new concepts in the book starts with the hallmark of new discovery of human mobility code and its implications of urban mobility boundary systems to stay within safe planetary zone A new discovery of human mobility code from comprehensive research finding prove that each individual develops a unique mobility footprint and become our mobility identity Beyond individual hallmarks human develops collective mobility codes through interaction with the third space on which entire mobility systems lie and are created by the fundamentals of city planning and the design process Readers are introduced to an innovative mobility planning process and reinvention of multimodal mobility approaches based on new mobility code while formulating new concepts practical solutions and implementation techniques tools policies and processes to reinforce low carbon mobility options while addressing social equity environmental and health benefits Finally the book arms us with knowledge to prevent the disaster of full technological enlightenment against our natural human mobility code

Environmental Radiobiology Paul N. Schofield,Carmel E. Mothersill,2023-10-17 This book focuses on the impacts of anthropogenic radiation on wildlife and ecosystems and provides an in depth look at the approaches and available tools we can use to gain information about biological effects of radiation in the environment The nuclear accidents in Chernobyl in 1986 and Fukushima in 2011 focussed the attention of the world on the vulnerability of ecosystems to radiation In Chernobyl there still remains an exclusion zone where levels are considered to be too high for people and impacts on terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems can still be measured 35 years later In the area impacted by the Fukushima disaster intense remediation is still under way at tremendous cost and causing widespread disruption to the environment That accident impacted the terrestrial and marine ecosystems In both accidents it became obvious that a radiation protection framework focussing on protection of humans a single species and using evacuation as a key strategy was not sufficient to protect the natural environment The complexity of ecosystems makes developing a protection framework very challenging but in order to even start the process it is vital to gather information about likely impacts of low dose exposures on wildlife and to develop monitoring tools to measure changes over time This book contains reviews and original research aimed at filling our knowledge gaps about these important areas Environmental Radiobiology will be a key resource for academics researchers and advanced students of Radiobiology Radioecology Biology Ecology Biomedicine and Research Methods The chapters included in this book were originally published as a special issue of International Journal of Radiation Biology
