My Beautiful Colors Nyibol Bior,2021-02-24 My Beautiful Colors By Nyibol Bior When she first walked into an American high school as a substitute teacher Nyibol Bior was bullied for being black and My Beautiful Colors was originally a chapter in her autobiography as a section meant to educate the world that she s black for a reason Sudan means land of the blacks in Arabic and this region has one of the hottest climates on the planet so it s no wonder her creator made her black to ensure her skin color protected her from the sun She could not just write about how black is beautiful because it is not the only color

she is attracted to and she could not just stick to the trauma that war brought upon her because her presence as an alien in the United States left many curious. Using various colors metaphorically Nyibol describes the events of the Sudan's Second Civil War, the life that preceded and followed it along with her vision as a survivor of it. Colors have multiple and opposite meanings and it is up to her what side of the description she wants to be on the way it is up to her to treat herself and others with respect and dignity. If the red form of hate is introduced then she will find a way to make red the color of love before it.

Reading the World's Stories Annette Y. Goldsmith, Theo Heras, Susan Corapi, 2016-08-11. Reading the World's Stories is volume 5 in the Bridges to Understanding series of annotated international youth literature bibliographies sponsored by the United States Board on Books for Young People (USBBY). USBBY is the United States chapter of the International Board on Books for Young People (IBBY), a Switzerland-based nonprofit whose mission is to bring books and children together. The series promotes sharing international children's books as a way to facilitate intercultural understanding and meet new literary voices. This volume follows Children's Books from Other Countries (1998), The World through Children's Books (2002), Crossing Boundaries with Children's Books (2006), and Bridges to Understanding: Envisioning the World through Children's Books (2011) and acts as a companion book to the earlier titles. Centered around the theme of the importance of stories, the guide is a resource for discovering more recent global books that fit many reading tastes and educational needs for readers aged 0-18 years. Essays by storyteller Anne Pellowski, author Beverley Naidoo, and academic Marianne Martens offer a variety of perspectives on international youth literature. This latest installment in the series covers books published from 2010-2014 and includes English language imports as well as translations of children's and young adult literature first published outside of the United States. These books are supplemented by a smaller number of culturally appropriate books from the US to help fill in gaps from underrepresented countries. The organization of the guide is geographic by region and country. All of the more than 800 entries are recommended, and many of the books have won awards or achieved other recognition in their home countries. Forty children's book experts wrote the annotations. The entries are indexed by author, translator, illustrator, title, and subject. Back matter also includes international book awards, important organizations, and research collections, and a selected directory of publishers known for publishing books from other countries.

Teaching about Genocide: Insights and Advice from Secondary Teachers and Professors Samuel Totten, 2018-12-14. This book presents the insights, advice, and suggestions of secondary level teachers and professors in relation to teaching about various facets of genocide. The contributions are extremely eclectic, ranging from the basic concerns when teaching about genocide to a discussion as to why it is critical to teach students about more general human rights violations during a course on genocide and from a focus on specific cases of genocide to various pedagogical strategies ideal for teaching about genocide.
