Lust Elfriede Jelinek:

Lust Elfriede Jelinek, 1992 Lust. Fiction Elfriede Jelinek, 1992 In post World War II Austria Gerti a woman on the verge of a breakdown due to her husband's relentless sexual attentions wanders away from home one day and is rescued by an ambitious young man who turns out to be much like her husband Troubling Maternity Emily Jeremiah, 2003 The question of maternity is crucial for feminists to whom it represents both challenge and inspiration as it is for many thinkers engaged with the issues of agency corporeality and ethics This examination puts forward the idea of a maternal performativity drawing on the work of Judith Butler and numerous other feminist theorists to offer new ways of looking at 1970s and 1980s literary texts by ten German speaking women writers including Barbara Frischmuth Elfriede Jelinek Irmtraud Morgner and Karin Struck It argues that as yet maternal agency has not adequately been theorized a project which is urgent given the traditional view in Western culture of the mother as passive and suggests that Butler's notion of performativity can assist in this task It proposes a performative conception of both mothering and literature and links both of these to the question of ethics which is understood as involving embodiment and relationality To different extents all of the texts examined depict mothers as marginal abject or insane thus demonstrating the operations of exclusion and the need for a maternal agency to be developed and enacted The idea of maternal performativity is refined in five chapters which focus respectively on community corporeality the mother child relationship the family and discursive production The conclusion explores the ethics of literary practice and knowledge production and argues that in the light of the developing fields of new reproductive technologies and genetics it is imperative that we seek new understandings of embodiment community and care a task to which this study aspires to contribute The Ends of Satire Daniel Bowles, 2015-02-24 How are we to think of satire if it has ceased to exist as a discrete genre This study proposes a novel solution understanding the satiric in the postwar era as a set of writing practices figures of inversion myth making and citation By showing how writers and theorists alike deploy these devices in new contexts this book reexamines the link between German postwar writing and the history of satire and between literature and theory Nostalgia After Nazism Heidi M. Schlipphacke, 2010 Nostalgia After Nazism is a compelling sophisticated entry in the growing field of German and Austrian memory studies It introduces into German studies a nuanced set of tools drawn from the broad panoply of contemporary theory and sets those voices onto the broader historical landscape of post World War II confrontations between the West's recent history and its present The result is a highly readable impeccably documented volume that joins the best of literary history and close readings to a broad spectrum of theoretical models Nostalgia After Nazism offers an exemplary model for cultural scholarship after the supposed end of theory recapturing how theory history and the texts of culture are mutually illuminating Katherine Arens The University of Texas at Austin German Text Crimes Tom Cheesman, 2013 German Text Crimes offers new perspectives on scandals and legal actions implicating writers of German literature since the 1950s Topics range from literary echoes of the Heidegger

Affair to recent incitements to murder businessmen agents of American neo liberal power in works by Rolf Hochhuth and others GDR songwriters cat and mouse games with the Stasi feminist debates on pornography around works by Charlotte Roche and Elfriede Jelinek controversies over anti Semitism around Bernhard Schlink's Der Vorleser The Reader and Martin Walser's lampooning of the Jewish critic Marcel Reich Ranicki Peter Handke's pro Serbian travelogue the disputed editing of Ingeborg Bachmann's Nachla vexed relations between dramatists and directors abuses of privacy law to censor contemporary fiction these are among the cases of text crimes discussed Not all involve codified law but all test relations between state power civil society media industries and artistic license

High and Low Cultures Reinhold Grimm, Jost Hermand, 1994 As the editors write in this volume while the dichotomy of high and low classical and popular elitist and trivial has occupied theorists of culture for centuries very few of them have paid more than scant attention to the various attempts at mediating between these two levels of cultural endeavor The essays collected here most delivered at the twenty second Wisconsin Workshop in October 1991 address exactly this aspect of cultural studies using modern Germany as their canvas The contributors range across the entire breadth of German cultural life analyzing developments in the arts literature poetry architecture and cinema as well as looking at contemporary writing by women and at changes in cultural depictions of sexuality Germany's political paroxysms throughout the last hundred years figure prominently in the evolution of its cultural consciousness so there is in these essays a strong sense of nation invented perfected lost and recovered but always fascinating A totally homogenized German culture one devoid of any higher aspirations will be the impoverished result of postmodernism the editors warn It is their goal to remind those who are all too eager to overlook the losses occurring in this process that this tendency can also besides its positive democratic aspect lead to one dimensionality
