Macroeconomic Outcomes in Disaster-Prone Countries Mr.Alessandro Cantelmo,Mr.Giovanni Melina,Mr.Chris Papageorgiou,2019-10-11 Using a dynamic stochastic general equilibrium model we study the channels through which natural disaster shocks affect macroeconomic outcomes and welfare in disaster prone countries We solve the model using Taylor projection a solution method that is shown to deal effectively with high impact weather shocks calibrated in accordance to empirical evidence We find large and persistent effects of weather shocks that significantly impact the income convergence path of disaster prone countries Relative to non disaster prone countries on average these shocks cause a welfare loss equivalent to a permanent fall in consumption of 1.6 percent Welfare gains to countries that self finance investments in resilient public infrastructure are found to be negligible and international aid has to be sizable to achieve significant welfare gains In addition it is more cost effective for donors to contribute to the financing of resilience before the realization of disasters rather than disbursing aid after their realization
