

Annotation and Dialectical Journal Instructions

As part of your summer reading assignment, you will annotate your text as you read and complete a dialectical journal. Below are definitions and examples of annotations and dialectical journals.

Annotations

Annotating keeps the reader engaged with the text. While you are reading, use one or more of these strategies to mark the book and include your thoughts and questions.

1. Write comments in the margin, especially to ask questions, relate to characters, make connections your own life, etc.
2. Star any passages that are very important: events, decisions, or cause and effect relationships.
3. Underline any sentences that made you think or appealed to you.
4. Circle/highlight words that are unfamiliar.
5. Bracket areas that you were confused about or did not fully understand.

Dialectical Journal

A dialectical journal shows your conversation with the text. It is used to question, make connections, and explore ideas you had as you read. Below is an example. Pre-AP ELA 6 through Pre-AP English II should have 12 entries. They will be evaluated on details and thoughtfulness.

	Quote from Text	Commentary
Can be quotes about a character, an event or a scene	"The flower garden was strained with rotting brown magnolia petals and iron weeds grew rank amid the purple phlox...the last graveyard flowers were blooming" (1).	From the onset of the story, James Hurst creates the image of death through his description of the dying flowers and specific reference to the "graveyard flowers." The tone is heavy and dark creating a sense of foreboding.	Thoughts, comments, ideas, connections, understandings, recognition of literary devices
	"A brilliant moonbeam was slanting through a gap in the curtains" (9).	Since the author used the word slant, I picture a sharp ray of light into the room instead of it just shining. The details help me picture the room and I wonder if the moonbeam is keeping the character awake.
