Sustainable and Responsible Entrepreneurship and Key Drivers of Performance Popescu, Cristina Raluca Gh., Verma, Rahul, 2021-06-25 Today's entrepreneurial practices operate in a continuously challenging highly dynamic and everchanging environment. In these times of change, it is important to examine up-to-date theoretical infrastructure on the most powerful and representative approaches to sustainable and responsible entrepreneurship. Sustainable and Responsible Entrepreneurship and Key Drivers of Performance covers an updated view of the newest trends, novel practices, and latest tendencies concerning sustainable and responsible entrepreneurship in a world dominated by insecurity and dramatic economic, political, and managerial changes. The book presents theoretical infrastructure on approaches to sustainable and responsible entrepreneurship as well as empirical results that make a tremendous contribution to the analysis of organizations' performance, key drivers. Elaborating on topics such as greening economy, intellectual capital, knowledge management, sustainable entrepreneurial ecosystems, and social responsibility, this text is essential for entrepreneurs, managers, executives, academicians, scientists, researchers, students, practitioners, and policymakers worldwide. Achieving sustainable cultivation of cassava Volume 1 Dr. Clair H. Hershey, 2017-07-31 Discusses the growing importance of cassava as a global crop. Reviews trends and challenges in cassava cultivation in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Summarises current best practice in cassava agronomy, including seed systems, soil and nutrient management, crop rotations, and intercropping, and postharvest management. Controlling cassava mosaic virus and cassava mealybug in Sub-Saharan Africa Felix Nweke, Root, Tuber and Banana Food System Innovations Graham Thiele, Michael Friedmann, Hugo Campos, Vivian Polar, Jeffery W. Bentley, 2022-04-06 This open access book describes recent innovations in food systems based on root, tuber, and banana crops in developing countries. These innovations respond to many of the challenges facing these vital crops, linked to their vegetative seed and bulky and perishable produce. The innovations create value, food jobs, and new sources of income while improving the wellbeing and quality of life of their users. Women are often key players in the production, processing, and marketing of roots, tubers, and bananas, so successful innovation needs to consider gender. These crops and their value chains have long been neglected by research and development; hence, this book contributes to filling the gap. The book features many outcomes of the CGIAR Research Program in Roots, Tubers, and Banana (RTB), which operated from 2012 to 2021, encompassing many tropical countries, academic and industry partners, multiple crops, and major initiatives. It describes the successful innovation model developed by RTB that brings together diverse partners and organizations to create value for the end users and to generate positive economic and social outcomes. RTB has accelerated the scaling of innovations to reach many end users cost effectively. Though most of the book's examples and insights are from Africa, they can be applied worldwide. The book will be useful for decision makers designing policies to scale up agricultural solutions for researchers and extension specialists seeking practical ideas and for scholars of innovation.

Enhancing Food Security and Trade Resilience in Sustainable Agricultural Systems Wenjin Long,, Catherine Keske, Fuyou Guo, 2025-10-23 Food security is a critical global challenge influenced by complex interactions between agriculture trade and market dynamics As countries navigate the impacts of climate change and economic fluctuations sustainable agricultural practices become essential for ensuring a stable food supply International trade agreements such as the China Pakistan Free Trade Agreement and the pathways established by the Belt and Road Initiative significantly shape domestic agricultural economies Understanding how these agreements affect food access sovereignty and production sustainability is crucial for developing resilient food systems Despite the recognised importance of these interconnections there is limited research that comprehensively examines the interplay between trade policies and sustainable agricultural practices in supporting food security Many existing studies focus on individual aspects neglecting the integrated nature of these systems This Research Topic aims to fill this gap by exploring how trade dynamics local agricultural strategies and policy frameworks can enhance food security and resilience By synthesising diverse case studies and analyses we aim to identify best practices and effective pathways to strengthen both trade and local agricultural sustainability in various contexts Cassava R. J. Hillocks, J. M. Thresh, Anthony Bellotti, 2002 Cassava is a major tropical tuber crop found throughout the tropics India Oceania Africa and Latin America Hitherto there has been no single text covering all aspects of cassava biology production and utilization This book fills that gap representing the first comprehensive research level overview of this main staple crop Chapters are written by leading experts in this field from all continents The book is suitable for those working and researching in cassava in both developed and developing countries as well as advanced students Proven Successes in Agricultural Development David J. Spielman, Rajul Pandya-Lorch, 2010-01-01 The world has made enormous progress in the past 50 years toward eliminating hunger and malnutrition While in 1960 roughly 30 percent of the world's population suffered from hunger and malnutrition today less than 20 percent do some five billion people now have enough food to live healthy productive lives Agricultural development has contributed significantly to these gains by increasing food supplies reducing food prices and creating new income and employment opportunities for some of the world's poorest people This book examines where why and how past interventions in agricultural development have succeeded It carefully reviews the policies programs and investments in agricultural development that have reduced hunger and poverty across Africa Asia and Latin America over the past half century The 19 successes included here are described in in depth case studies that synthesize the evidence on the intervention's impact on agricultural productivity and food security evaluate the rigor with which the evidence was collected and assess the tradeoffs inherent in each success Together these chapters provide evidence of what works in agricultural development The Cassava Transformation Felix I. Nweke, John K. Lynam, Dunstan S. C. Spencer, 2002 Cassava is Africa's second most important food crop The cassava transformation that is now underway in West Africa is fueled by new high yielding TMS varieties that have transformed cassava from a low yielding famine reserve crop to a high yielding cash crop for both rural and urban consumers The book highlights the role of cassava as a poverty fighter by increasing cassava productivity and driving down the cost of cassava in rural and urban diets

Expanding Collaboration, Catalyzing Innovation Dudenhoefer, D.,Durroux-Malpartida, V.,2014-07-01 The stories presented in this report illustrate how improved collaboration among RTB centers is making a real difference This includes harnessing the potential of genomics to accelerate the development of improved RTB varieties facilitating collaborative responses to critical crop diseases and improving postharvest options During its second year the CGIAR Research Program on Roots Tubers and Bananas RTB expanded its geographic reach and its network of partners while launching a series of collaborative initiatives aimed at resolving the most serious constraints faced by smallholder farmers growing RTB crops While this work was initiated within a framework of seven disciplinary themes RTB started a process to transition from an output focused research agenda to one based on outcomes and impacts

Promises, Power, and Poverty Nidhi Tandon,Marc Wegerif,2013 Biofuels in Africa Donald Mitchell,2010-11-24 A new economic opportunity for sub Saharan Africa is looming large biofuel production Rapidly rising energy prices are expected to remain high for an extended period of time because of the increasing demand in prospering and populous countries such as

China and India the depletion of easily accessible supplies of crude oil and concern over global climate change As a result there is renewed interest in biofuels as an alternative to fossil fuels Africa is uniquely positioned to produce these new cash crops for both domestic use and export The region has abundant land resources and preferential access to protected markets with higher than world market prices The rapid growth in the demand for transport fuels in Africa and high fuel prices create domestic markets for biofuels The European Union and the United States have approved legislation that requires large increases in the consumption of biofuels over at least the next decade Imports are expected to be needed to meet these mandates thus opening the door to African and other developing countries that can produce biofuels or feedstocks for biofuels competitively Expanding the production of crops for biofuels will affect the entire rural sector in Africa as resources are shifted away from traditional crops and the prices of all agricultural commodities rise Even smallholders can participate in producing biofuel crops To promote the sustainability and significant contribution of this enterprise Biofuels in Africa provides guidance in formulating suitable policy regimes which are based on protecting the rights of current land users developing revenue sharing schemes with local communities safeguarding the environment and biodiversity expanding institutional capacity formulating new regulations and procedures and emulating best practices from experienced countries This volume will be of value to anyone interested in biofuels including policy makers development practitioners private investors researchers and the general public Now that African countries are trying to significantly increase their energy supply systems biofuels are an attractive option using both dedicated crops and agricultural waste This book provides guidance for them to develop a suitable policy regime for a significant contribution by biofuels Professor Ogunlade R Davidson Minister of Energy and Water Resources Sierra Leone Biofuels in Africa is a sorely needed resource for our understanding of the problems of expanding biofuels production in Africa A high point of the book is a description of the projects that were started in several countries A very useful book Professor Jos Goldemberg University of S o Paulo Brazil As Africa most likely will play the same role for global biofuels as the Middle East does for oil this comprehensive book on African biofuels should be compulsory reading for anyone interested in either African development or biofuels The book captures the essence of long term drivers and opportunities as well the complex challenges for investors and society of this huge emerging industry Per Carstedt Executive Chairman EcoEnergy Africa Transforming African Food Systems Claire Helen Quinn, Andrew John Dougill, Julian Douglas May, 2025-10-24 Overcoming Africa s development challenges cannot be uncoupled from the need to transform the continent s food systems One in four people in sub Saharan Africa faces food insecurity and Africa will need to produce 80% more food by 2050 The challenge is complicated by the interrelationship between agriculture and environmental sustainability In addition agriculture also remains one of the most effective pathways out of poverty on the continent As agriculture both contributes to and is affected by climate change there is a pressing need for innovation in climate smart agriculture that considers the environment as integral to the food system However access to nutritious safe food and improved livelihoods does not solely depend on boosting agricultural productivity Food systems encompass the activities and actors involved in all aspects of the food supply chain from production through to consumption and disposal of food A food systems research approach recognises the importance of interactions and relationships between activities actors and thus the importance of interdisciplinary approaches for achieving transformative change The concerted and coordinated actions of the food industry agriculture production and processing retail food service sector and waste disposal and consumers are crucial to promote sustainable consumption and production with a focus on reducing all forms of food losses throughout the entire supply chain Food systems transformation needs to focus not just on increasing production but on access to food and markets nutrition diversity and security climate resilience and adaptation of both agro ecological systems and the food system more broadly This Research Topic focuses specifically on transformation of African food systems While comprising many similar activities actors to other food systems African food systems also have activities actors and conditions that are specific to the African context These contextual factors include a shared history of colonisation that creates specific historical demographic political and socio cultural drivers of change value chains that are often short and reliant on informal exchange and small scale operations distinct territorial imbalances that create significant inequalities and normative and cognitive institutions that create diverse cultural beliefs and values while influencing the roles of women and youth in food systems We welcome submission of original research articles case studies systematic reviews or meta analysis that offer new insights and perspectives on African food systems transformation This topic will bring together interdisciplinary research and practice and provide a platform for knowledge exchange collaboration and collective action for transforming African food systems so that they are equitable resilient and sustainable
