Studies in the Victorian and Neo-Victorian Novel Adrian Radu, 2024-02-29 Readers of the nineteenth century novel expected literature to be a form journalism and fictional history They wanted to read about easily identifiable situations with a chronological straightforward and easily discernible development of plot familiar backgrounds and credible characters About a hundred years later the Victorian novel became the great tradition omnipresent and reliable However today the age and the context are different and novels need more substance including such themes as memory race and empire sex and science spectrality and the heritage industry or key issues like gender sexuality and postmodernism All these elements are considered Neo Victorian which in spite of their novelty do point to a certain Victorian anchor This volume contains ten studies the substance of which is the analysis of novels that according to their date of publication are products of the Victorian and Neo Victorian periods as defined above The authors investigate and discuss Victorian roots and characteristics preserved or recycled Victorian themes Neo Victorian characters and motifs or any other characteristics that may label them as Victorian or Neo Victorian products Aleksis Kivi and/as World Literature Douglas Robinson, 2017-03-06 Aleksis Kivi 1834 1872 is Finland's greatest writer His great 1870 novel The Brothers Seven has been translated 59 times into 34 languages Is he world literature or not In Aleksis Kivi and as World Literature Douglas Robinson uses this question as a wedge for exploring the nature and nurture of world literature and the contributions made by translators to it Drawing on Deleuze and Guattari's notion of major and minor literature Robinson argues that translators have mainly majoritized Kivi translated him respectfully and so created images of literary tourism that ill suit recognition as world literature Far better he insists is the impulse to minoritize to find and celebrate the minor writer in Kivi who sends the major language racing

Liminal Dickens Valerie Kennedy, Katerina Kitsi-Mitakou, 2016-05-11 Liminal Dickens is a collection of essays which cast new light on some surprisingly neglected areas of Dickens's writings the rites of passage represented by such transitional moments and ceremonies as birth christenings weddings marriages and death Although a great deal of attention has been paid to the family in Dickens's works relatively little has been said about his representations of these moments and ceremonies Similarly although there have been discussions of Dickens's religious beliefs neither his views on death and dying nor his ideas about the afterlife have been analysed in any great detail Moreover this collection arising from a conference on Dickens held in Thessaloniki in 2012 explores how Dickens's preoccupation with these transitional phases reflects his own liminality and his varying positions regarding some main Victorian concerns such as religion social institutions progress and modes of writing The book is composed of four parts Part One concerns Dickens's tendency to see birth and death as part of a continuum rather than as entirely separate states Part Two looks at his unconventional responses to adolescence as a transitional period and to the marriage ceremony as an often unsuccessful rite de passage Part Three analyses his partial divergence from certain widely held Victorian views about progress evolution sanitation and the provisions made for the poor and Part Four focuses on two of his novels which are seen as transgressing conventional genre boundaries
