The Sustainable City XIV G. Passerini, S. Ricci, 2020-12 Urban areas result in a series of environmental challenges varying from the consumption of natural resources and the subsequent generation of waste and pollution contributing to the development of social and economic imbalances As cities continue to grow all over the world these problems tend to become more acute and require the development of new solutions The challenge of planning sustainable contemporary cities lies in considering the dynamics of urban systems exchange of energy and matter and the function and maintenance of ordered structures directly or indirectly supplied and maintained by natural systems The task of researchers aware of the complexity of the contemporary city is to improve the capacity to manage human activities pursuing welfare and prosperity in the urban environment Any investigation or planning for a city ought to consider the relationships between the parts and their connections with the living world The dynamics of its networks flows of energy matter people goods information and other resources are fundamental for an understanding of the evolving nature of today's cities. Large cities are probably the most complex mechanisms to manage. They represent a fertile ground for architects, engineers, city planners, social and political scientists and other professionals able to conceive new ideas and time them according to technological advances and human requirements. Papers presented at the 14th International Conference on Urban Regeneration and Sustainability address the multidisciplinary components of urban planning, the challenges presented by the increasing size of cities, the number of resources required and the complexity of modern society. Various aspects of the urban environment are covered and a focus is placed on providing solutions which lead towards sustainability.

The Design of Urban Environments for Middle Eastern Desert Areas Case Study Paul Fati Gabriel, 1978

The Architecture of the United Arab Emirates Salma Samar Damluji, 2006

Since the late 1960s the cities of the United Arab Emirates have experienced unprecedented development and accelerated construction. This book presents contributions by architectural professionals. It talks about modern architecture which questions the form of new cities and vernacular architecture which discusses architectural surveys.

Smart Environment for Smart Cities T.M. Vinod Kumar, 2019-04-04

This book discusses the design and practice of environmental resources management for smart cities. Presenting numerous city case studies, it focuses on one specific environmental resource in each city. Environmental resources are commonly owned properties that require active inputs from the government and the people and in any smart city their management calls for a synchronous combination of e-democracy, e-governance and IOT (Internet of Things) systems in a 24/7 framework. Smart environmental resources management uses information and communication technologies, the Internet of Things, internet of governance, e-governance and internet of people, e-democracy along with conventional resource management tools to achieve coordinated, effective and efficient management, development and conservation that equitably improves ecological and economic welfare without compromising the sustainability of development, ecosystems and stakeholders.

Smart Contracts in UAE Public Procurement. Factors Influencing Adoption and Policy Implications Moazam Ali, 2024-06-18

Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 2024 in the subject Business Economics, Project Management, grade 3.7, British University in Dubai, course Project Management, language English, abstract: The purpose of this study is to examine people's perceptions about the use of smart contracts through blockchain technology for public procurement in the United Arab Emirates (UAE). The research integrates the Technology Acceptance Model (TAM), the Technology Organization Environment (TOE) framework and the Innovation Diffusion Theory IDT to develop a conceptual framework for understanding the factors that influence the behavioral intention to adopt smart contracts in the public procurement process The study employs a quantitative research methodology Data was collected through a survey questionnaire distributed to key stakeholders involved in public procurement including government officials suppliers and citizens The survey instrument measured constructs such as relative advantage complexity trialability observability perceived compatibility perceived enjoyment technology awareness perceived risk perceived efforts and perceived constraints from suppliers regulations and business partners The findings reveal that relative advantage trialability observability perceived compatibility perceived enjoyment and technology awareness have a significant positive influence on the behavioral intention to adopt smart contracts in public procurement Conversely complexity perceived risk and perceived constraints from suppliers regulations and business partners have a significant negative influence on the behavioral intention The results also indicate that the TAM model moderates the relationships between the various factors and behavioral intention MEED. ,2008-07 The Gulf Handbook ,1979
