Gymnastics Of The Mind Greek Education In Hellenistic And Roman Egypt:

Gymnastics of the Mind Raffaella Cribiore, 2001 Raffaella Cribiore draws on over 400 papyri ostraca shards of pottery or slices of limestone and tablets that feature everything from exercises involving letters of the alphabet through rhetorical compositions that represented the work of advanced students The exceptional wealth of surviving source material renders Egypt an ideal space of reference

Prophetic Rivalry, Gender, and Economics Olivia Stewart Lester, 2018-07-16 Olivia Stewart Lester examines true and false prophecy at the intersections of interpretation gender and economics in Revelation Sibylline Oracles 4 5 and contemporary ancient Mediterranean texts With respect to gender these texts construct a discourse of divine violence against prophets in which masculine divine domination of both male and female prophets reinforces the authenticity of the prophetic message Regarding economics John and the Jewish sibyllists resist the economic actions of political groups around them especially Rome by imagining an alternate universe with a new prophetic economy In this economy God requires restitution from human beings whose evil behavior incurs debt The ongoing appeal of prophecy as a rhetorical strategy in Revelation and Sibylline Oracles 4 5 and the ongoing rivalries in which these texts engage argue for prophecy's continuing significance in a larger ancient Mediterranean religious context

The Formal Education of the Author of Luke-Acts Steve Reece, 2022-06-16 Steve Reece proposes that the author of Luke Acts was trained as a youth in the primary and secondary Greek educational curriculum typical of the Eastern Mediterranean during the Roman Imperial period where he gained familiarity with the Classical and Hellenistic authors whose works were the focus of study He makes a case for Luke's knowledge of these authors internally by spotlighting the density of allusions to them in the narrative of Luke Acts and externally by illustrating from contemporary literary papyrological and artistic evidence that the works of these authors were indeed widely known in the Eastern Mediterranean at the time of the composition of Luke Acts not only in the schools but also among the general public Reece begins with a thorough examination of the Greek educational system during the Hellenistic and Roman Imperial periods emphasizing that the educational curriculum was very homogeneous at least at the primary and secondary levels and that children growing up anywhere in the Eastern Mediterranean could expect to receive quite similar educations His close examination of the Greek text of Luke Acts has turned up echoes allusions and quotations of several of the very authors that were most prominently featured in the school curriculum Homer Aesop Euripides Plato and Aratus This reinforces the view that Luke along with other writers of the New Testament lived in a cultural milieu that was influenced by Classical and Hellenistic Greek literature and that he was not averse to invoking that literature when it served his theological and literary purposes

The Oxford Handbook of the History of Education John L. Rury, Eileen Tamura, 2019 This handbook offers a global perspective on the historical development of educational institutions systems of schooling educational ideas and educational experiences Its 36 chapters consider the field's changing scholarship while examining particular national and regional themes and offering a comparative perspective Each also provides suggestions for further research and analysis Race Denise Eileen McCoskey, 2021-03-25 How do different cultures think about race In the modern era racial distinctiveness has been assessed primarily in terms of a person's physical appearance But it was not always so As Denise McCoskey shows the ancient Greeks and Romans did not use skin colour as the basis for categorising ethnic disparity The colour of one's skin lies at the foundation of racial variability today because it was used during the heyday of European exploration and colonialism to construct a hierarchy of civilizations and then justify slavery and other forms of economic exploitation Assumptions about race thus have to take into account factors other than mere physiognomy This is particularly true in relation to the classical world In fifth century Athens racial theory during the Persian Wars produced the categories Greek and Barbarian and set them in brutal opposition to one another a process that could be as intense and destructive as black and white in our own age Ideas about race in antiquity were therefore completely distinct but as closely bound to political and historical contexts as those that came later This provocative book boldly explores the complex matrices of race and the differing interpretations of ancient and modern across epic tragedy and the novel Ranging from Theocritus to Toni Morrison and from Tacitus and Pliny to Bernal's seminal study Black Athena this is a powerful and original new assessment

Treasure Hidden in a Field David W. Jorgensen, 2016-09-26 This reception history of the Gospel of Matthew utilizes theoretical frameworks and literary sources from two typically distinct disciplines patristic studies and Valentinian aka Gnostic studies The author shows how in the second and third centuries the Valentinians were important contributors to a shared culture of early Christian exegesis By examining the use of the same Matthean pericopes by both Valentinian and patristic exegetes the author demonstrates that certain Valentinian exegetical innovations were influential upon and ultimately adopted by patristic authors Chief among Valentinian contributions include the allegorical interpretation of texts that would become part of the New Testament a sophisticated theory of the historical and theological relationship between Christians and Jews and indeed the very conceptualization of the Gospel of Matthew as sacred scripture This study demonstrates that what would eventually emerge from this period as the ecclesiological and theological center cannot be adequately understood without attending to some groups and individuals that have often been depicted both by subsequent ecclesiastical leaders and modern scholars as marginal and heretical

The Sage in Relation Andrew Montanaro, 2025-04-21 The Jewish sage Ben Sira links the partnership of the sage with personified Wisdom to his overall teaching on marriage and family This study provides a detailed analysis of this connection first by describing the overlapping characteristics of fathers in families and sages among their students as seen through an examination of Ben Sira's use of metaphorical family language whereby the sage takes the role of father in the pedagogical setting This study then describes the spousal relationship between the sage and personified Wisdom particularly as it appears alongside the marital instructions in Sir 23 16 26 18 This study further considers Ben Sira's privileged social position to influence the religious conviction of next generation Judaism and to strengthen Jewish youth against rising Hellenistic pressures that may tempt them away from Torah adherence Ben Sira's solution then is found in his proposed vision of families modeled after his pedagogical setting Finally Ben Sira's teaching is compared to other Second Temple texts showing the importance of his context for his conception of family and the needs of his time Thus this study shows the relevance of Ben Sira's teaching for families as well as his distinctiveness among other Jewish texts

Character Studies and the Gospel of Mark Matthew Ryan Hauge, Christopher W. Skinner, 2015-02-26 Characters in the Second Gospel are analysed and an in depth look at different approaches currently employed by scholars working with literary and reader oriented methods of analysis is provided The first section consists of essays on method theory and the second consists of seven exegetical character studies using a literary or reader oriented method All contributors work from a literary narrative critical reader oriented or related methodology The book summarizes the state of the discussion and examines obstacles to arriving at a comprehensive theory of character in the Second Gospel Specific contributions include analyses of the representation of women God Jesus Satan Gentiles and the Roman authorities of Mark's Gospel This work is both an exploration of theories of character and a study in the application of those theories
