TIBETAN LAMAS AND
GURUNG SHAMANS IN NEPAL

Stan Royal Mumford

Himalayan Dialogue

Todd Lewis, Theodore Riccardi

Himalayan Dialogue:

Himalayan Dialogue Stan Mumford, 1989 In the mountain valleys of Nepal Tibetan communities have long been established through migrations from the North Because of these migrations over the last few centuries Tibetan lamaism as one of the world's great ritual traditions can be studied in the Himalayas as a process that emerges through dialogue with the more ancient shamanic tradition which it confronts and criticizes Here for the first time is a thorough anthropological study of Tibetan lamaism combining textual analysis with richly contextualized ethnographic data The rites studied are of the Nyingma Tibetan Buddhist tradition In contrast to the textual analyses that have viewed the culture as a finished entity here we see an unbounded ritual process with unfinished interpretations Mumford's focus is on the dialogue taking place between the lamaist and the shamanic regimes as a historic development occurring between different cultural layers The study powerfully demonstrates that interrelationships between subsystems within a given cultural matrix over time are critical to an understanding of religion as a cultural process

Net 1st Global Conference on Revenge Dead But Not Lost Robert Goss, Dennis Klass, 2005 The dead are still with us Contemporary therapists and counselors are coming to understand what has been known for millennia in most religions and in most cultures outside the Western milieu it is important to continue bonds between the living and the dead Taking these connections seriously Goss and Klass explore how bonds with the dead are created and maintained In doing so they unearth a fascinating new way to look at the origins and processes of religion itself Examining ties to dead family members teachers religious and political leaders across religious and secular traditions the authors offer novel ways of understanding grief and its role in creating meaning Whether for classes in comparative religion and death and dying or for bereavement counselors and others trying to make sense of grief this book helps us understand what it means to feel connected to those dead but not lost Tibetan Ritual Jose Ignacio Cabezon, 2009-12-08 This is the first scholarly collection to focus on this important subject Unique in its historical geographical and disciplinary breadth this book brings together eleven essays by an international cast of scholars working on ritual texts institutions and practices in the greater Tibetan cultural world Tibet Nepal Bhutan and Mongolia The Navel of the Demoness Charles Ramble, 2007-12-10 Charles Ramble is Lecturer in Tibetan and Himalayan Studies University of Oxford Passionate Enlightenment Miranda Shaw, 1995-10-08 Anyone who reads a Tantric text or enters a Tantric temple immediately encounters a pantheon of female Buddhas and a host of female enlighteners known as dakinis who dance and leap in joyous poses that communicate a sense of mastery and spiritual power This striking female imagery is fully compatible with Shaw's findings Drawing on interviews and archival research conducted during two years of fieldwork in India and Nepal including more than forty previously unnoticed works by women of the Pala period eighth through twelfth centuries C E she substantially reinterprets the history of Tantric Buddhism during its first four centuries In her view the Tantric theory of this period promotes an ideal of cooperative mutually liberative relationships between women and men while encouraging a sense of reliance on women as a source of spiritual insight and power The Journal of the International Association of Buddhist Studies International Association of Buddhist Studies, 2001 Himalayan Dialogue - Tibetan Lamas and Gurung Shamans in Nepal S. R. a distant north the present volume includes the full translation of one of these oral epics the Lemako Roh Pye The project represents a unique collaboration between archaeologists anthropologists and a shaman Including interviews with upland inhabitants the volume encompasses the diverse voices of both its immediate participants and the local community Fulsome in its presentation of the archaeological data and rich in ethnographic source material not only is this book crucial for Himalayan culture studies generally but also relevant for any concerned with the construction and context of the past in the present and the active forging of ethno historical identities

Tibetan ethnoses are obtained by subjecting Dunhuang and Bon textual materials to rigorous archaeological and ethnographic interpretation.
