Granger,2004-01-01 This text examines the under researched and often troubling phenomenon of silence in second language learning through a triangulation of SLA research memoirs and language learner diaries and psychoanalytic concepts of anxiety ambivalence conflict and loss It moves beyond the view of silence as the mere absence of speech inviting the reader to consider it as both a psychical event and a linguistic moment in the continuous process of identity formation Writing Our Lives Steven J. leading scholars in their field combine the virtues of close textual reading with an informed awareness of the historical political and social pressures of the Romantic period encouraging a critical stance of historically engaged formalist critique
