Economic Management And Transition Towards A Market Economy: An Asian Perspective Anthony Theng Heng Chin, Hock Guan Ng, 1996-10-04 Much attention has been focused in recent years on the transformation of the economies of Eastern and Central Europe and the former Soviet Union However a growing demand for policy advice technical assistance and expertise is also coming from Asian reforming countries such as China Mongolia Vietnam Laos and Cambodia In addition business communities abroad are increasingly interested in exploring investment and marketing opportunities in these reforming countries Such developments are too important to overlook or ignore The transformation of socialist economies towards market based systems entails an unusually wide range of problems Studies of related topics are complicated by the speed of the changes and the lack of clear historical precedents Although the structural features of Asian reforming economies are in important ways different from those of the Eastern European economies all socialist economies share similar fundamental conditions on the eve of economic reform which raise a similar set of reform issues This volume brings together a rich collection of expertise and information in an attempt to shed some light on the transitional process in Asia The contributions are by no means exhaustive However they provide the reader and analyst with an excellent starting point to the problems and prospects which are specific to Asian transforming economies

Environmental Management Accounting Christian Herzig, Tobias Viere, Stefan Schaltegger, Roger L. Burritt, 2012-03-15

Sustainable development will not happen without substantial contributions from and leading roles of companies and business organizations. This requires the provision of adequate information on corporate social and ecological impacts and performance. For the last decade progress has been made in developing and adapting accounting mechanisms to these needs but significant work is still needed to tackle the problems associated with conventional accounting. Until recently research on environmental management accounting (EMA) has concentrated on developed countries and on cost benefit analysis of implementing individual EMA tools. Using a comparative case study design this book seeks to redress the balance and improve the understanding of EMA in management decision making in emerging countries focussing specifically on South East Asian companies. Drawing on 12 case studies taken from a variety of industries Environmental Management Accounting Case Studies of South East Asian Companies explores the relationship between decision situations and the motivation for and barriers to the application of clusters of EMA tools as well as the implementation process itself. This book will be useful to scholars interested in the environmental and sustainability management accounting research field and those considering specific approaches to EMA within emerging economies.

Strategising Energy: An Asian Perspective, 2014-01-15

As energy has become one of the crucial factors in ensuring the economic growth and the sustainable development of people, nations, societies and ultimately human civilisation in the 21st century global scenario there is a pressing need for treating energy as a strategic commodity and for analysing national, regional and global strategies concerning energy. This is an attempt to debate and discuss various facets, economic, technological and political, of such strategies and at the same time to encompass concepts like energy security and energy diplomacy that form significant components of such strategies. Strategising of energy is an issue that is inextricably linked with the domestic and foreign policies of a nation or a region and it is characteristically futuristic as strategies are supposed to be made with a long term perspective. Contemporary Asian realities serve as the perspective of such an analysis for several reasons. Asia is the home of two fast growing and energy thirsty countries like China and India as well as Japan and the ASEAN countries. There are at least three energy producing regions in Asia that are crucial for global energy security like West Asia, the traditional one, two upcoming regions of Central Asia and the area around South China Sea. The Indian Ocean is one of the most important energy transit routes for international energy transport. Even the smallest disruption in the production and transport chain of energy within Asia has the potential of upsetting the global energy balance. This volume attempts to focus on a number of significant issues concerning the theme of strategising of energy. Contributors analyse, debate and discuss the questions from different viewpoints and different angles. Thus this volume represents a wide spectrum of views from a scientist's vision of a world with cleaner energy to the strategist's comments on solutions to national energy issues, from journalists' views on the development of governmental policies on energy to academicians' analyses of regional energy strategies and from historians' analyses of the restructuring of the national energy infrastructure and the re-prioritising of national energy strategies to debates on national regional as well as maritime energy strategies by specialists on international relations
