Managerial Economics and Organizational Architecture James A. Brickley, Clifford W. Smith, Jerold L. Zimmerman, 1997

With two distinct objectives this text's approach to managerial economics takes models from recent economics research and applies the research to the internal structure of a firm. After teaching basic applied economics, the authors look inside the firm and apply this analysis to management decision making. Authors Brickley, Smith, and Zimmerman contend that organizational architecture consists of three aspects of corporate organization: the assignment of decision rights within the company, methods of rewarding individuals, and the structure of systems to evaluate the performance of both individuals and business units. These three components can be likened to a stool with three legs. If one of the legs is shorter, the stool is out of balance. These three elements must be in balance in the organization as well.

The Routledge Companion to Innovation Management Jin Chen, Alexander Brem, Eric Viardot, Poh Kam Wong, 2019-02-14

Innovation contributes to corporate competitiveness, economic performance, and environmental sustainability. In the Internet era, innovation intelligence is transferred across borders and languages at an unprecedented rate, yet the ability to benefit from it seems to become more divergent among different corporations and countries. How much an organization can benefit from innovation largely depends on how well innovation is managed in it. Thus, there is a discernible increase in interest in the study of innovation management. This handbook provides a comprehensive guide to this subject. The handbook introduces the basic framework of innovation and innovation management. It also presents innovation management from the perspectives of strategy, organization, and resource, as well as institution and culture. The book's comprehensive coverage on all areas of innovation management makes this a very useful reference for anyone interested in the subject.

Shutdown Adam Tooze, 2021-09-07

This book's great service is that it challenges us to consider the ways in which our institutions and systems, and the assumptions, positions, and divisions that undergird them, leave us ill prepared for the next crisis.

Robert Rubin, The New York Times Book Review

Full of valuable insight and telling details, this may well be the best thing to read if you want to know what happened in 2020.

Paul Krugman, New York Review of Books

Deftly weaving finance, politics, business, and the global human experience into one tight narrative, a tour de force account of 2020, the year that changed everything, from the acclaimed author of Crashed. The shocks of 2020 have been great and small, disrupting the world economy, international relations, and the daily lives of virtually everyone on the planet. Never before has the entire world economy contracted by 20 percent in a matter of weeks, nor in the historic record of modern capitalism has there been a moment in which 95 percent of the world's economies were suffering.

all at the same time Across the world hundreds of millions have lost their jobs And over it all looms the specter of pandemic and death Adam Tooze whose last book was universally lauded for guiding us coherently through the chaos of the 2008 crash now brings his bravura analytical and narrative skills to a panoramic and synthetic overview of our current crisis By focusing on finance and business he sets the pandemic story in a frame that casts a sobering new light on how unprepared the world was to fight the crisis and how deep the ruptures in our way of living and doing business are The virus has attacked the economy with as much ferocity as it has our health and there is no vaccine arriving to address that Tooze s special gift is to show how social organization political interests and economic policy interact with devastating human consequences from your local hospital to the World Bank He moves fluidly from the impact of currency fluctuations to the decimation of institutions such as health care systems schools and social services in the name of efficiency He starkly analyzes what happened when the pandemic collided with domestic politics China s party conferences the American elections what the unintended consequences of the vaccine race might be and the role climate change played in the pandemic Finally he proves how no unilateral declaration of independence or isolation can extricate any modern country from the global web of travel goods services and finance capable of speech and reasoning with a myriad of contributions to economics politics and warcraft The birth of true artificial intelligence will profoundly affect humankind s future In our future technological development market what it will bring much influences to economy I shall indicate these several aspects they may include as below On artificial intelligent invention brings high unemployment to low skill employees aspect from the time the last artificial intelligence break through was reached in the last 1940s scientists around the world have looked for ways of this artificial intelligence to improve technology raising efficiency and productivity beyond what even the most sophisticated of today s artificial intelligence programs can achieve Even now research is ongoing to better understand what the new AI programs will be able to do when remaining within the intelligence such as human brain Most AI programs currently programmed have been limited primarily to making simple decisions or performing simple operations on relatively small amounts of data AI technological invention will bring much contribution to influence our future economic development It had unique characteristics to compare common machines and it can help many industries to raise efficiency productivity and improve performance as well as consumer individual self use Such as the network is not taught to understand prose in any human sense Instead during its training phase it adjusts the internal connections in its simulated neural networks to best anticipate the next word It can be applied to read any article and understand any meaning to write any article as same to authors mind and writing ability For example in the future any one entered the first few sentences of any article you are reading the algorithm spewed out two paragraphs that sounded liked a freshman s effort to recall the gist of an introductory lecture on machine learning during which she was daydreaming The output contains all the right words and phrases not bad So AI technology can be applied to become just one more example of programs that do things thought to be uniquely human playing the real time strategy game translating text making personal recommendations for books and movies recognizing people in images and videos But with the invention of deep neural networks and the massive computational of the tech industry computers improved until their outputs to longer appeared In the future algorithms can best humans AI can help human to do any things in possible Then our society will encounter one automobile machine working environment Does AI innovation will low skill employees lose their jobs because robotic can replace to any human to do simple jobs in any industries Whether machines can become sentient matters for ethical reasons Knowledge creation brings economic benefit to organization Knowledge creation can help organization to reduce cost in managerial economist view For example three factors influence the costs of transferring information First are the characteristics of the sender and receiver Generally it is less expensive from people of similar training language and culture to communicate than for people from different backgrounds Second is the technology available for communication For example the development of electronic mail email was lowered the costs of transferring information These are the nature of the knowledge itself
