Navigating the Complexities of Health Professions Education for Millennial and Generation Z Learners Channing R. Ford, Kimberly B. Garza, Lindsey E. Moseley, Emily B. Wilkins, 2024-01-16 The evolving landscape of healthcare tasks health professions educators with preparing the next generation of providers to be adaptable responsive and self directed to ensure that they are prepared for entry into practice The complexity of developing implementing and assessing health professions education is further compounded when educators consider the expectations of their learners and strive to integrate their needs and expectations into the learning environment. As a result of the varying academic requirements of health professions disciplines, educators may be faced with teaching students spanning multiple generations to primarily include Millennial and Generation Z learners. Educators must be prepared to anticipate, identify, and respond to differing generational expectations to ensure that health professions students are equipped with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for practice. This book examines generational differences between Millennial and Generation Z learners to inform health professions educators of those generational characteristics and expectations. The book also illustrates how higher education has evolved and changed as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic and the impending demographic cliff, how educators can adapt the varying learning environments (classroom, clinical, and experiential) present within health professions education, and provide best practices to consider when developing, implementing, and revising learning opportunities.

Technologies in Biomedical and Life Sciences Education Harry J. Witche, Michael W. Lee, 2022-06-24. This contributed volume focuses on understanding the educational strengths and weaknesses of mediated content, including media as a learning supplement, in comparison to traditional face-to-face learning. Each chapter includes research on and a broad brush summary of approaches to combining life sciences education with educational technologies. The chapters are organized into four main sections, each of which focuses on a key question regarding the consequences of incorporating media into education. In this regard, the authors highlight how educational technology is both a bridge and barrier to student access and inclusivity. Further, they address the ongoing discussion as to whether students need to be present for lectures and on how having agency in their own learning can improve both retention and conceptual understanding. To link the content to current events, the authors also shed light on the impact that the COVID-19 pandemic is having on the continuity of educational programs and on the growing importance of educational technologies. Consequently, the book offers life science educators valuable guidance on the technologies already available and an outlook.
