Svyantek, Kevin T. Mahoney, 2014-03-01 This Research in Organizational Sciences volume to explore and question the received wisdom of organizational sciences The chapters in this volume and the companion volume seek to establish boundary conditions for important organizational constructs and processes They illustrate the importance of context for interpreting the received wisdom of organizational science by showing when constructs must be adapted to changing circumstances The volume begins with four chapters looking at the construct of leadership Each of these addresses an important aspect of our understanding of leadership and its practice The four chapters on leadership are followed by five chapters dealing with other organizational processes including motivation organizational change the role of diversity in organizations and organizational citizenship The last three chapters deal with the issue of knowledge in large systems Two chapters address how information may be transmitted across organizations and generations of workers The final chapter deals with the use of information by organizational decision makers The 12 papers in this volume all in some way question received wisdom and present alternatives which expand our understanding of organizational behavior These chapters each strive to present new ways of understanding organizational constructs and in so doing reveal how received wisdom does not always lead to best practice in research or application It is our hope that these chapters illustrate how challenging received wisdom in organizational studies can provide new ways of thinking about organizational processes These new ways of thinking in turn can provide better understanding of the processes necessary to increase organizational effectiveness

Major Similarities and Differences Yakob Tilahun Yimer,2019-07-26 Scientific Essay from the year 2018 in the subject Sociology Religion grade A Addis Ababa University Department of Sociology course Sociological theories I classical perspectives language English abstract This essay is trying to shortly put forward major similarities and differences of the theories of Marx Durkheim and Weber in the formation and application of religion as an instrument to human life and the contributions it facilitates to the existence and survival of societies in general Above all the attempts to scientifically theorizing religious institutions within a sociological paradigm is the major contribution of the then social thinkers and that fact will be highlighted shortly in the next few pages of the essay Religion is the most persistent social institution to pass and adjust itself in the position of the ages and its power is still controlling the activities of the world by one or the other way round It is not all the fabric that led to the continuity of religion as an institution but also the conducive environment of interpreting what the dogmas of different religions and their effects is still a controversial issue

The prominent social theorists utterly attained their discourse on religion side by side with other social issues. The concern of different interpretations relied on the fact that the role and impact of religious thoughts had been shaping the world outlook. Thus, in the complicated sense, what was asserted in relation to religion is still an important observation, and the need for its narration is as important as it was before.
