Evaluating Social Science Research Thomas R. Black, 1993-11-22

This volume offers students a basic introduction to assessing the meaning and validity of research in the social sciences and related fields. The ability to read published research critically is essential and is different from the skills involved in undertaking research using statistical analysis. Thomas R. Black explains in clear and straightforward terms how students can evaluate research with particular emphasis on research involving some aspect of measurement. The coverage of fundamental concepts is comprehensive and supports topics including research design, data collection, and data analysis by addressing the following major issues: Are the questions and hypotheses advanced appropriate and testable? Is the research design sufficient for the hypothesis? Are the data gathered valid, reliable, and objective? Are the statistical techniques used to analyze the data appropriate and do they support the conclusions reached?

Culture and Children's Intelligence James Georgas, Lawrence G. Weiss, Fons J.R. van de Vijver, Donald H. Saklofske, 2003-06-26

This book provides a unique cross-cultural perspective of the WISC III. From construction, translation, and adaptation in different cultures to analysis of its structure and function as a concept to its clinical use with different ethnic groups, Culture and Children's Intelligence provides clinicians the tools they need when using the WISC III. The focus of this reference work is on children's intelligence as measured by the WISC III in different cultures and its use in these cultures: USA, UK, Canada, France, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Sweden, and Greece. It also discusses the interpretation of the results of the WISC III in terms of cultural and ethnic factors. Leading experts discuss the clinical use of the WISC III as it relates to culture and children. Provides methods to clinicians and school psychologists to aid in understanding and interpreting results. Direct relevance to practitioners, researchers, and trainers.
