Geographies of Development Robert Potter, Tony Binns, Jennifer Elliott, Etienne Nel, David Smith, 2019-03-07 Now in its fourth edition Geographies of Development An Introduction to Development Studies remains a core balanced and comprehensive introductory textbook for students of Development Studies Development Geography and related fields This clear and concise text encourages critical engagement by integrating theory alongside practice and related key topics throughout It demonstrates informatively that ideas concerning development have been many and varied and highly contested varying from time to time and from place to place Clearly written and accessible for students who have no prior knowledge of development the book provides the basics in terms of a geographical approach to development what situation is where when and why Over 200 maps charts tables textboxes and pictures break up the text and offer alternative ways of showing the information The text is further enhanced by a range of pedagogical features chapter outlines case studies key thinkers critical reflections key points and summaries discussion topics and further reading Geographies of Development continues to be an invaluable introductory text not only for geography students but also anyone in area studies international studies and development studies

The Culture and Development Manifesto Robert Klitgaard, 2021 With fascinating examples from around the world this inspiring manifesto shows how to account for cultural diversity in reshaping economic and political development Around the world the realities of underdevelopment are harsh and galling and current strategies are not working well enough or quickly enough One reason Robert Klitgaard argues in this pathbreaking book is that the strategies don't take cultural diversity into account Gently but firmly he shows how and why anthropology and cultural studies have not been effectively applied But it need not be so The Culture and Development Manifesto shows how to mobilize knowledge from and for the disadvantaged the indigenous and the voiceless Looking beyond interactions between cultural contexts and particular projects Klitgaard seeks new ways to think about goals new kinds of alternatives new and perhaps hybrid ways to implement or resist and as a result new kinds of politics In short this remarkable book fundamentally re envisions what development policy can be The American Role in the Global Economy

Susan J. Whitson, 1988 The Diversity of Emerging Capitalisms in Developing Countries Eric Rougier, François Combarnous, 2017-04-06 This book presents the results of a collective and original empirical investigation of the institutional systems underlying the capitalisms that are coming to the fore in developing nations While varieties of industrialized countries capitalisms are extensively scrutinized those of developing countries capitalisms are far less documented By implementing a unified and original comparative approach based on the institutional complementarity theory the different contributors of the book find evidence for the originality and heterogeneity of the forms of capitalism to be observed in developing countries This text analyses capitalist systems as clusters of sectoral institutions and regulations identifying differences between these clusters in a large sample of emerging and developing countries Rougier and Combarnous bring together contributions answering the following questions What are these clusters of institutions underlying emerging capitalisms Are there common or specific patterns of institutional clustering across countries and what are the main characteristics of the varieties of capitalism they shape What are their main long term determinants Are there specific patterns of economic outcome associated with these clusters Can different forms of institutional complementarity be observed How can we analyse institutional reform from this perspective Poor Numbers Morten Jerven, 2013-01-24 One of the most urgent challenges in African economic development is to devise a strategy for improving statistical capacity Reliable statistics including estimates of economic growth rates and per capita income are basic to the operation of governments in developing countries and vital to nongovernmental organizations and other entities that provide financial aid to them Rich countries and international financial institutions such as the World Bank allocate their development resources on the basis of such data The paucity of accurate statistics is not merely a technical problem it has a massive impact on the welfare of citizens in developing countries Where do these statistics originate How accurate are they Poor Numbers is the first analysis of the production and use of African economic development statistics Morten Jerven s research shows how the statistical capacities of sub Saharan African economies have fallen into disarray The numbers substantially misstate the actual state of affairs As a result scarce resources are misapplied Development policy does not deliver the benefits expected Policymakers attempts to improve the lot of the citizenry are frustrated Donors have no accurate sense of the impact of the aid they supply Jerven s findings from sub Saharan Africa have far reaching implications for aid and development policy As Jerven notes the current catchphrase in the development community is evidence based policy and scholars are applying increasingly sophisticated econometric methods but no statistical techniques can substitute for partial and unreliable data

Rural Wage Employment in Developing Countries Carlos Oya, Nicola Pontara, 2015-05-22 There is a striking scarcity of work conducted on rural labour markets in the developing world particularly in Africa This book aims to fill this gap by bringing together a group of contributors who boast substantial field experience researching rural wage employment in various developing countries It provides critical perspectives on mainstream approaches to rural agrarian development and analysis of agrarian change and rural transformations from a long term perspective This book challenges the notion that rural areas in low and middle income countries are dominated by self employment It purports that this conventional view is largely due to the application of conceptual frameworks and statistical conventions that are ill equipped to capture labour market participation The contributions in this book offer a variety of methodological lessons for the study of rural labour markets focusing in particular on the use of mixed methods in micro level field research and more emphasis on capturing occupation multiplicity The emphasis on context history and specific configurations of power relations affecting rural labour market outcomes are key and reoccurring features of this book This analysis will help readers think about policy options to improve the quantity and quality of rural wage employment their impact on the poorest rural people and their political feasibility in each context

Values and Valuables Cynthia Ann Werner, Duran Bell, 2004 This volume brings together anthropologists and economists to discuss the complex ways in which different cultures imbue material objects with symbolic qualities whose value cannot be reduced to material or monetary equivalents

The Conversation of Economic Development: Historical Voices, Interpretations and Reality Wilfred L. David, 2019-07-23 This book investigates the belief patterns that underly alternative perspectives of development thought and policy It discusses the differing theories and models of development in a discursive manner to highlight the importance of interaction between academic discourse and everyday life experiences Utilizing insights drawn from the history of ideas economic history philosophy and political economy the author shows how the field of development economics has evolved

The Dynamics of Socio-Economic Development Adam Szirmai, 2005-01-20 Why are poor countries poor and rich countries rich How are wealth and poverty related to changes in nutrition health life expectancy education population growth and politics This modern non technical 2005 introduction to development studies explores the dynamics of socio economic development and stagnation in developing countries Taking a quantitative and comparative approach to contemporary debates within their broader context Szirmai examines historical institutional demographic sociological political and cultural factors Key chapters focus on economic growth technological change industrialisation agricultural development and consider social dimensions such as population growth health and education Each chapter contains comparative statistics on trends from a sample of twenty nine developing countries This rich statistical database allows students to strengthen their understanding of comparative development experiences Assuming no prior knowledge of economics the book is suited for use in inter disciplinary development studies programmes as well as economics courses and will also interest practitioners pursuing careers in developing countries

Measuring African Development Morten Jerven, 2016-04-14 The chief economist for the World Bank's Africa region Shanta Devarajan delivered a devastating assessment of the capacity of African states to measure development in his 2013 article Africa's Statistical Tragedy Is there a statistical tragedy unfolding in Africa now If so then examining the roots of the problem of provision of statistics in poor economies is certainly of great importance This book on measuring African development in the past and in the present draws on the historical experience of colonial French West Africa Ghana Sudan Mauritania and Tanzania and the more contemporary experiences of Ethiopia and the Democratic Republic of Congo The authors each reflect on the changing ways statistics represent African economies and how they are used to govern them This book was published as a special issue of the Canadian Journal of Development Studies

The Social Dynamics of Deforestation in the Philippines Gerhard van den Top, 2003 This work offers a detailed case study on the dynamics of forest use degradation and loss in Northeast Luzon Philippines Following an interdisciplinary approach the study charts the degradation and loss of forest in this area between 1950 and 1990 as it relates to the social and political context of logging forest migration and changes in upland agriculture Based on ten years of research the author introduces us to the actions livelihood options and motives of all the principal group of actors

Class, Power and Agrarian Change J. Pincus, 1996-07-31 The book examines patterns of class structure production relations and capital accumulation in three West Java villages It explores the hidden assumptions underlying conventional theories of agrarian change and demonstrates the importance of class structure and class power in shaping patterns of change at the village level Topics include the methodology of measuring class differentiation changes in labour market institutions and real wages and strategies of capital accumulation pursued by village elites
