Making Human Beings Human Bioecological Perspectives On Human Development The Sage Program On Applied Developmental Science:

Making Human Beings Human Urie Bronfenbrenner, 2005 Making Human Beings Human Bioecological Perspectives on Human Development is a landmark collection that traces and summarizes Urie Bronfenbrenner's thoughts on the bioecological theory of human development and recommends avenues for future research. The majority of the twenty-three retrospective articles were written by Bronfenbrenner while some were written with colleagues in his own or related fields over the course of six decades. The book's articles document the domain of inquiry that has emerged gradually over many years and has now acquired a title of its own: the bioecological theory of human development. Making Human Beings Human is a culminating work by a prominent figure in the field of human development and will help to shape the future of the field.

Studying Situational Interaction Beth Hardie, 2020-07-01 In response to misconceptions and sub optimal assessment of situational interaction in the criminological literature this volume is a comprehensive resource for researchers of person environment interaction in human behavioural outcomes with a focus on acts of crime It provides a bridge between strong complex theory about causal situational interaction in crime and the appropriate methods for empirically testing proposed situational mechanisms It is underwritten by the principle that research should be driven by theory and served by method

This volume clarifies the key concepts of interaction and situation within the framework of Situational Action Theory SAT. It details the implications of these conceptual issues for an appropriate integrative analytical approach to data collection and analysis that places situational interaction at the heart of research into the causes of behaviour such as acts of crime. Using existing examples of attempts to analyse person-environment interaction, the volume distinguishes and showcases different methods and evaluates their appropriateness for the study of situational interaction in behaviour. Appropriate for researchers in criminology and the behavioural sciences more generally, Studying Situational Interaction is essential for those studying the individual and environmental causes of human actions such as crime.
