Hemstock,2019-11-28 This book offers insights into the educational dimensions of climate change and promotes measures to improve education in this context It is widely believed that education can play a key role in finding global solutions to many problems related to climate change Indeed education as a process not only helps young people to better understand and address the impact of global warming but also fosters better attitudes and behaviours to aid efforts towards mitigating climate change and adapting to a changing environment But despite the central importance of education in relation to climate change there is a paucity of publications on this theme Against this background the book focuses on the educational aspects of climate change and showcases examples of research projects and other initiatives aimed at educating various audiences. It also provides a platform for reflections on the role education can play in fostering awareness on a changing climate. Presenting a wide range of valuable lessons learned which can be adapted and replicated elsewhere, the book appeals to educators and practitioners alike.

Regulatory Toxicology in the European Union Tim Marrs, Kevin Woodward, 2018-02-26 Consumer and environmental protection depend on the careful regulation of all classes of chemicals. Toxicology is the key science used to evaluate safety and so underpins regulatory decisions on chemicals. With the growing body of EU legislation involved in chemical regulation, there is a concomitant need to understand the toxicological principles underlying safety assessments. Regulatory Toxicology in the European Union is the first book to cover regulatory toxicology specifically in Europe. It addresses the need for a wider understanding of the principles of regulatory toxicology and their application and presents the relationship between toxicology and legislative processes in regulating chemical commodities across Europe. This title has a broad scope covering historical and current chemical regulation in Europe, the role of European agencies and institutions and also the use of toxicology data for important classes of chemicals including human and veterinary medicines, animal feed and food additives, biocides, pesticides and nanomaterials. This book is therefore extremely pertinent and timely in the toxicology field at present. This book is an essential reference for regulatory authorities, industrialists, academics, undergraduates and postgraduates working within safety and hazards, toxicology, the biological sciences and the medicinal and pharmaceutical sciences across the European Union.

Toxicology of Pesticides Lucio G. Costa, Corrado L. Galli, Sheldon D. Murphy, 2013-06-29 The protection of human health and food and fiber resources against the ravages of pests of many sorts is a continuous struggle by all people in the world. The use of chemical pesticides as an aid in this struggle is now also global. These chemicals are deliberately added to the environment for the purpose of killing or injuring some form of life. Because pesticides are generally less selectively toxic than would be desired, non-target species including humans must be protected from injury by these chemicals. This can only be achieved by thorough understanding of the comparative toxicology of these compounds and by minimizing human and other desirable species exposure. The latter can only be achieved by sound regulatory policies that utilize scientific principles and data properly tempered by both gaps in that data and sociologic and economic considerations. This book contains the proceedings of the NATO Advanced Study Institute on Toxicology of Pesticides: Experimental, Clinical and Regulatory Perspectives held in Riva del Garda on October 6-15, 1986. This NATO ASI has been promoted by the School of Public Health and Community Medicine, University of Washington at Seattle, by the Institute of Pharmacological Sciences University of Milano and by the Giovanni Lorenzini Foundation and has been sponsored by both the Society of Toxicology USA and the Italian Society of Toxicology Quarantine for Seed S.
