Fundamentals of Financial Accounting Fred Phillips, Robert Libby, Patricia A. Libby, 2006 Fundamentals of Financial Accounting 1e by Phillips Libby Libby presents an engaging balanced and appropriately paced analysis of the fundamentals of financial accounting Its conversational writing style and selection of focus companies make it a real pleasure to read and learn about accounting while also learning about the business activities of your students favorite companies Balance between preparer and user orientations is achieved throughout the entire book Three of the first five chapters are focused inside the company on the accounting system whereas the other two examine financial reporting from the perspective of decision makers outside the company Thereafter every chapter integrates these inside outside perspectives by studying the accounting activities that take place inside the company and evaluating their impact on users outside the company Topic coverage is paced appropriately for students new to accounting and is reinforced at each step by self study quizzes Add to this the coaches who offer tips and other advice throughout each chapter and you have the type of text that your students crave FFA is simply the most student friendly financial book on the market Look throughout each chapter and you will soon see what is suggested by the image on the textbook s cover the closer you look the more you ll understand

Fundamentals of Financial Accounting Fred Phillips, Robert Libby, Patricia A. Libby, 2006-01-01 Intangible Values in Financial Accounting and Reporting Stephan Grüber, 2014-07-18 Academics and practitioners argue that intangible values have become significant value drivers of today s economy Major production inputs no longer comprise of property plant and equipment but rather of brands knowledge and other technological innovation Based on this notion information on such phenomena is supposedly crucial for existing and potential capital providers in making decisions whether to allocate resources to a company This thesis examines the information use and needs of financial analysts with respect to intangible values The purpose is to shed light on the usefulness of such information from the perspective of one of the primary user groups of IFRSs

Financial Accounting & Reporting Murphy L. Smith, Katherine T. Smith, L. Murphy Smith CPA, Shannon Knight Deer, 2015 The textbook Financial Accounting and Reporting by Murphy Smith Katherine Taken Smith and Shannon Knight Deer is especially designed to present financial accounting in a one sequence course in 2 year or 4 year colleges The book can also effectively be used in a graduate level financial accounting course for MBA students who are from non business major backgrounds The text presents the fundamentals of financial accounting using a unique cross functional approach that demonstrates the relevance of accounting information to the various business functional areas e g marketing finance and production This approach motivates learning by both preparers and users of accounting information Accounting majors will appreciate how accounting information contributes to the success of the firm and the decision making of every member of the management team Non accounting majors will understand how accounting information contributes to their future job performance Cross functional applications are interwoven into the presentation of accounting fundamentals in each chapter

In addition the book contains contemporary accounting issues related to ethics information technology and global commerce The textbook features a chapter as well as observations throughout the book on International Financial Reporting Standards IFRS and how they differ from U S generally accepted accounting principles GAAP The textbook covers the key topics in financial accounting like most books in this field The significant difference is the books cross functional perspective that engages students by showing them how they will use financial accounting in their careers The book is also unique in its integration of accounting ethics global commerce and tech Global Financial Accounting and Reporting Peter J.
