Muir, 2023-03-22 Horror films have always reflected their audiences' fears and anxieties. In the United States the 2000s were a decade full of change in response to the 9/11 terrorist attacks, the contested presidential election of 2000, and the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. These social and political changes, as well as the influences of Japanese horror and New French extremism, had a profound effect on American horror filmmaking during the 2000s. This filmography covers more than 300 horror films released in America from 2000 through 2009, including such popular forms as found footage, torture porn, and remakes. Each entry covers a single film and includes credits, a synopsis, and a lengthy critical commentary. The appendices include common horror conventions, a performer hall of fame, and memorable ad lines. Love and Other Chemical

Imbalances Adam Clark, 2012-11 David Carter hates the cheap, paper-thin blue-green swath of inadequacy better known as his carpet. He is disappointed in what it says about him as a man: a disgruntled architect, a frustrated husband, and a debt-ridden homeowner. David is a man of many unfulfilled ambitions until he discovers a brilliant portrait hidden within the superstructure of his suburban home. While the portrait awakens David to a world of artistic potential, it also contains a cryptic message that encourages him to fanatically search his house for more art. But as he topples one wall of his house after the other, his life begins to fall apart around him. After his wife files for divorce and he is fired from his job, David realizes his mistakes have compounded into a self-destructive and colossal supernova. But he doesn't care; he is more determined than ever to unearth the final portrait and find the artist who prompted his life-changing transformation. Love and Other Chemical Imbalances is the compelling story of one man's unpredictable journey as he obsessively attempts to create something extraordinary out of his ordinary life. The Stephen King Universe Stanley Wiater, Christopher Golden, Hank
