

TRAVEL AND TOURISM

Paper 9395/01

Core Paper

General comments

There was a slightly larger entry for the third examination session of the new Advanced Level qualification. The structure of the examination should now have become clear to Centres and all future questions will continue to be based around pieces of stimulus material, derived mainly from travel and tourism industry sources, which will have been selected solely on the basis of their ability to illustrate key aspects of the syllabus content.

It is important that candidates understand and appreciate the development of travel and tourism at a variety of scales. This means that they should be aware of developments within their immediate local area as well as within their country as a whole. Furthermore, an international perspective is also required. It should be remembered that candidates will obtain credit for providing specific details about facilities and locations that are appropriate to the demands of particular questions. However, there were far too many instances of candidates making very little effort to provide precise details about examples with which they were familiar. Centres should encourage candidates to reflect more on their own personal experiences to aid the process of exemplification. All candidates should make reference to their own experiences of travel, tourism and hospitality where appropriate to the question. For example, thinking about the following:

- Where did they go on holiday?
- Was it in their country or abroad?
- How did they travel?
- What type of accommodation did they stay in?
- What did they eat and drink and how was it served?
- What activities did they do on holiday?
- How was their holiday organised/booked?

From the answers to the above questions individual candidates will have a range of examples and illustrations of the following aspects of the Syllabus content:

- If the holiday was in their home country they were a domestic tourist, if abroad they were an outgoing tourist.
- The destination, if abroad may have been long haul or short haul; at home it may have been a short break or VFR.
- Different methods of transportation by land, sea and air may have made up part of the holiday.
- They may have travelled using principals owned by large private sector companies.
- The accommodation used may have been serviced or self-catering, such as a four star hotel or a camp site, and they may have had half board or an all-inclusive meal plan.
- Whilst on holiday they may have visited natural and built tourist attractions and used the services of a local TIC or guide.
- The holiday may have been booked through a travel agency, or direct with a tour operator.

Yet again, there was frequently evidence of candidates ignoring the precise wording of individual questions and specific comments about this will be made in the sections that follow.

Many candidates still appear to struggle with the actual requirements of particular questions. Centres are strongly advised to make the following "Key Word" definitions part of the examination preparation sessions for this paper.
