String Quartet No 14 String Quartet No 11 String Quartet No 4 Novorossiysk Chimes String Quartet No 7 Suite for Jazz Orchestra No 1 Piano Trio No 2 String Quartet No 10 Piano Sonata No 2 The Gadfly Suite Children's Notebook Suite from The Age of Gold Excerpt Dmitri Shostakovich's Symphony No 7 in C major Op 60 dedicated to the city of Leningrad was completed on 27 December 1941 In its time the symphony was extremely popular in both Russia and the West as a symbol of resistance and Shostakovich's String Quartets Bernhard Harrison, 1981 String quartet No.8, Op.110, 1st movement Dmitrii Dmitrievich Shostakovich, Edexcel Foundation, 2000 Shostakovich's String Quartet No. 15 in E-flat Minor, Op.144 Brian Thomas Sanders, 2021 There has been ample increase in music theoretical analysis in Shostakovich's late works yet there has been one composition that has comparatively evaded this attention String Quartet no 15 in E flat minor op 144 has been approached with hermeneutics and descriptive analysis however music theoretical analysis is lacking The quartet has certain musical characteristics that have not been analyzed which leaves the perspective of this work incomplete An unfortunate result is that the mixture of musicological and theoretical analysis is a daunting task According to Patrick McCreless any depth would lead quickly into a world of intriguing musical relationships and hermeneutic enigmas The aforementioned musical relationships and hermeneutic enigmas is a characteristic of Shostakovich scholarship Music theory and musicology are equally utilized in Shostakovich research Music theorists inevitably become musicologists out of necessity This enigma results in an imbalance between the dual approach of musicological and theoretical approaches where hermeneutics have been the majority of analysis However scholars such as Stephen C Brown Jonathan Drury Levon Hakobian and Michael Rofe have recently used music theory and analysis to better understand Shostakovich's late period style Though the literature has increased String Quartet no 15 remains in the shadows of other late period works My thesis will provide a much needed music theoretical analysis of the quartet I will provide analysis of important musical features that have not been analyzed while centering on my primary focus the quartet becoming a thread that links the plot of the quartet within its movements String quartet no. 8 Quincy Porter, 1953 String quartet no. 8 Dmitrii Dmitrievich Shostakovich, 1961 String Quartet No. 8 in C Minor, Op. 110 Dmitrii Dmitrievich Shostakovich, 1976 String Quartet Peter Sculthorpe, 1978 Dmitri Shostakovich's String Quartet No. 3 in F Major, Op. 73 Rang Hee Kim, 2010 Shostakovich wrote his String Quartet No 3 in F Major Op 73 in 1946 at the age of forty right after the Second World War and not long after the completion of his Ninth Symphony The Third Quartet is a large symphonic work and is known as one of the compositions with which Shostakovich was the most pleased It not only shows Shostakovich's absolute mastery as a chamber music composer skillfully deploying the string quartet to convey his entirely distinctive musical personality but also shows many of his compositional characteristics This treatise will provide a historical background and the influences on the Third Quartet along with a brief biography of the composer and information on his string quartets In addition the quartet will be analyzed using traditional descriptive procedures providing insights into

possible interpretive strategies based on a comparison of selected recordings by three notable string quartet ensembles
