CNS Cancer Erwin G. Van Meir, 2009-08-15 Cancers of the central nervous system are among the most lethal of human neoplasms They are recalcitrant to even intensive multimodality therapies that include surgery radiotherapy and chemotherapy Moreover especially in children the consequences of these therapies can itself be devastating and involve serious cognitive and developmental disorders It is small wonder that such cancers have come under the intense scrutiny of each of the subspecialties of clinical care and investigation as well as attracting some of the best basic research scientists Their joint efforts are gradually peeling away the mysteries surrounding the genesis and progression of these tumors and inroads are being steadily made into understanding why they resist therapies This makes it an especially opportune time to assemble some of the best investigators in the field to review the state of the art in the various arenas that comprise the assault on CNS tumors The breadth of this effort by the clinical and basic neuro oncology community is quite simply amazing To a large extent it evolves from the knowledge of the human genome and its regulation that has been hard won over the past two decades Cumulated Index Medicus ,1998

Davis,2017

Rationale Tissue Factor TF is a transmembrane glycoprotein that canonically functions as the initiator of the coagulation cascade Increased levels of TF have been associated with inflammatory airway diseases Since lipopolysaccharide LPS is known to elicit an inflammatory response in airway epithelium we hypothesized that airway epithelial cells release TF when exposed to LPS Since TF aids in local wound healing we also hypothesized that inhibition of TF would decrease NHBE growth The specific aim of this work was to evaluate the effects of LPS exposure on TF production and release from airway epithelia and determine the signaling pathways involved A secondary aim was to evaluate the effects of TF inhibition on NHBE growth Methods Normal human bronchial epithelial cells were grown in submerged cell culture and exposed to LPS as well as several intracellular signaling pathway agonist and inhibitors Measurements Tissue Factor mRNA and protein were measured in culture media and cell lysate by reverse transcriptase polymerase chain reaction and enzyme linked immunosorbent assay respectively Signaling pathways were evaluated using selective agonists and inhibitors Main results TF protein levels increased nearly two fold in cell media after exposure to LPS p Physiological Research ,2008
