Descriptive Translation Studies and Beyond Gideon Toury, 1995 A replacement of the author's well known book on Translation Theory In Search of a Theory of Translation 1980 this book makes a case for Descriptive Translation Studies as a scholarly activity as well as a branch of the discipline having immediate consequences for issues of both a theoretical and applied nature Methodological discussions are complemented by an assortment of case studies of various scopes and levels with emphasis on the need to contextualize whatever one sets out to focus on Part One deals with the position of descriptive studies within TS and justifies the author's choice to devote a whole book to the subject Part Two gives a detailed rationale for descriptive studies in translation and serves as a framework for the case studies comprising Part Three Concrete descriptive issues are here tackled within ever growing contexts of a higher level texts and modes of translational behaviour in the appropriate cultural setup textual components in texts and through these texts in cultural constellations Part Four asks the question What is knowledge accumulated through descriptive studies performed within one and the same framework likely to yield in terms of theory and practice This is an excellent book for higher level translation courses Agents of Translation John Milton, Paul Fadio Bandia, 2009-01-01 Printbegrnsninger Der kan printes 10 sider ad gangen og max 40 sider pr session Translation and Cultural Change Eva Hung, 2005-05-26 History tells us that translation plays a part in the development of all cultures Historical cases also show us repeatedly that translated works which had real social and cultural impact often bear little resemblance to the idealized concept of a good translation Since the perception and reception of translated works as well as the translation norms which are established through contest and or consensus reflect the concerns preferences and aspirations of their host cultures they are never static or homogenous even within a given culture This book is dedicated to exploring some of the factors in the interplay of culture and translation with an emphasis on translation activities outside the Anglo European tradition particularly in China and Japan Style and Context of Old Greek Job Marieke Dhont, 2018-04-17 In Style and Context of Old Greek Job Marieke Dhont offers a new understanding of the linguistic and stylistic diversity in the Septuagint corpus To this end the author innovatively uses Polysystem Theory which has been developed in the field of modern literary studies After discussing the appropriateness of a systemic approach to understanding Jewish Greek literature the author reflects on the Jewishness of Greek language texts Dhont then presents a thorough literary analysis of the Old Greek version of the book of Job On this basis she explains the dynamics that produced the translation of Old Greek Job and its position within the development of a Jewish Greek literary tradition Language, 1995 Translation and Information Technology Sin-wai Chan, 2002 Information technology has created new challenges for translation In this text contributors in computational linguistics machine translation and translation studies discuss the effect of electronic tools on translation and the conceptual gaps raised by the interface of human and machine

Imagining India in Modern China Gal Gvili, 2022-10-11 Winner 2023 Harry Levin Prize American Comparative Literature Association Beginning in the late Qing era Chinese writers and intellectuals looked to India in search of new literary possibilities and anticolonial solidarity In their view India and China shared both an illustrious past of cultural and religious exchange and a present experience of colonial aggression These writers imagined India as an alternative to Western imperialism a Pan Asian ideal that could help chart an escape route from colonialism and its brutal grasp on body and mind by ushering in a new kind of modernity in Asian terms Gal Gvili examines how Chinese writers image of India shaped the making of a new literature and spurred efforts to achieve literary decolonization She argues that multifaceted visions of Sino Indian connections empowered Chinese literary figures to resist Western imperialism and its legacies through novel forms and genres However Gvili demonstrates the Global North and its authority mediated Chinese visions of Sino Indian pasts and futures Often reading Indian literature and thought through English translations Chinese writers struggled to break free from deeply ingrained imperialist knowledge structures Imagining India in Modern China traces one of the earliest South South literary imaginaries the hopes it inspired the literary rejuvenation it launched and the shadow of the North that inescapably haunted it By unearthing Chinese writers endeavors to decolonize literature and thought as well as the indelible marks that imperialism left on their minds it offers new perspective on the possibilities and limitations of anticolonial movements and South South solidarity

Giannozzo Manetti's New Testament Annet den Haan, 2016-09-12 In Giannozzo Manetti's New Testament Annet den Haan analyses the Latin translation of the Greek New Testament made by the fifteenth century humanist Giannozzo Manetti 1396 1459 The book includes the first edition of Manetti's text Manetti's translation was the first since Jerome's Vulgate and it predates Erasmus Novum Instrumentum by half a century Written at the Vatican court in the 1450s it is a unique example of humanist philology applied to the sacred text in the pre Reformation era Den Haan argues that Manetti's translation was influenced by Valla's Annotationes and compares Manetti's translation method with his treatise on correct translation Apologeticus 1458

The Fictions of Translation Judith Woodsworth, 2018-02-15 In The Fictions of Translation emerging and seasoned scholars from a range of cultures bring fresh perspectives to bear on the age old practice of translation The current movement of people knowledge and goods around the world has made intercultural communication both prevalent and indispensable Consequently the translator has become a more prominent figure and translation an increasingly present theme in works of literature Embedding translation in a fictional setting and considering its most extreme forms pseudotranslation or self translation for example are fruitful ways of conceptualizing the act of translating and extending the boundaries of translation studies Taken together the various translational fictions examined in this collection yield new insights into questions of displacement migration and hybridity all characteristic of the modern world The Fictions of Translation will thus be of interest to practising translators students and scholars of translation and literary studies as well as a more general readership

Translation as Intercultural Communication Mary Snell-Hornby, Zuzana Jettmarová, Klaus Kaindl, 1997-08-21 This selection of 30 contributions 3 workshop reports 27 papers from 14 countries concentrates on intercultural communication in its broadest sense themes vary from dissident translation under the Marcos dictatorship in the Philippines and translation as a process of power in the 3rd world context to drama translation and the role of the cognitive sciences in translation theory Topics of current interest such as media interpreting news translation advertising subtitling and the ethics of translation have a prominent position as does the Workshop Contact as Conflict which discusses the phenomenon of the hybrid text as a result of the translation process The volume closes with the EST Focus debate on thorny issues of Methodology Policy and Training The volume demonstrates clearly the richness and breadth of the topics dealt with in Translation Studies today along with its complex interaction with neighbouring disciplines

Descriptive Translation Studies - and beyond Gideon Toury, 2012-11-21 This is an expanded and slightly revised version of the book of the same title which caused quite a stir when it was first published 1995 It thus reflects an additional step in an ongoing research project which was launched in the 1970s The main objective is to transcend the limitations of using descriptive methods as a mere ancillary tool and place a proper branch of DTS at the very heart of the discipline between the theoretical and the applied branches Throughout the book theoretical and methodological discussions are illustrated by an assortment of case studies the emphasis being on the need to take whatever one wishes to focus on within the contexts which are relevant to it Part One discusses the pivotal position of the descriptive branch within Translation Studies and Part Two then outlines a detailed rationale for that positioning This in turn supplies a framework for the case studies comprising Part Three where a number of exemplary issues are analysed and contextualized texts and modes of translational behaviour are situated in their cultural setting and textual components are related to their texts and then also to the cultural constellations in which they are embedded All this leads to Part Four which asks what the knowledge accumulated through descriptive studies of the kind advocated in the book is likely to yield in terms of both the theoretical and the applied branches of the field All in all an innovative thought provoking book which no one with a keen interest in translation can afford to ignore

Beyond Descriptive Translation Studies Anthony Pym, Miriam

Shlesinger, Daniel Simeoni, 2008-03-13 To go beyond the work of a leading intellectual is rarely an unambiguous tribute However when Gideon Toury founded Descriptive Translation Studies as a research based discipline he laid down precisely that intellectual challenge not just to describe translation but to explain it through reference to wider relations That call offers at once a common base an open and multidirectional ambition and many good reasons for unambiguous tribute The authors brought together in this volume include key players in Translation Studies who have responded to Toury's challenge in one way or another Their diverse contributions address issues such as the sociology of translators contemporary changes in intercultural relations the fundamental problem of defining translations the nature of explanation and case studies including pseudotranslation in Renaissance Italy Sherlock Holmes in Turkey and the coffee and sugar economy in Brazil All acknowledge Translation Studies as a research based space for conceptual coherence and creativity all seek to explain as well as describe In this sense we believe that Toury's call has been answered beyond expectations

The Metalanguage of Translation Yves Gambier, Luc van Doorslaer, 2009-10-07 Let the meta discussion begin James Holmes urged in 1972 Coming almost forty years later years filled with fascinating and often unexpected developments in the interdiscipline of Translation Studies this volume offers the reader a multiplicity of meta perspectives while also moving the discussion forward Indeed the re production and re use of metalinguistic metaphors frame and partly determine our views on research so such a discussion is vital as it is in any scholarly discipline Among other questions the eleven contributors draw the reader's attention to the often puzzling variations of usage and conceptualization in both the theory and the practice of translation First published as a special issue of Target 19 2 2007 the volume runs the gamut of metalinguistic topics ranging from terminology localization and epistemological questions through the Chinese perspective to the conceptual mapping of the online Translation Studies Bibliography

Judaism for Christians Sina Rauschenbach, 2019-10-16

Menasseh ben Israel 1604 1657 was one of the best known rabbis in early modern Europe In the course of his life he became an important Jewish interlocutor for Christian scholars interested in Hebrew studies and negotiated with Oliver Cromwell and Parliament the return of the Jews to England Born to a family of former conversos Menasseh was versed in Christian theology and astutely used this knowledge to adapt the content and tone of his publications to the interests and needs of his Christian readers Judaism for Christians Menasseh ben Israel 1604 1657 is the first extensive study to systematically focus on key titles in Menasseh's Latin works and discuss the success and failure of his strategies of translation in the larger context of early modern Christian Hebraism Rauschenbach also examines the mistranslation of his books by Christian scholars who were not yet ready to share Menasseh's vision of an Abrahamic theology and of a republic of letters whose members were not divided by denomination. Ultimately Menasseh's plans to use Jewish knowledge as an entry billet for Jews into Christian societies proved to be illusory as Christian readers understood him instead as a Jewish witness for Christian truths. Menasseh's Jewish coreligionists disapproved of what they perceived to be his dangerous involvement in Christian debates providing non-Jews with delicate information. It was only a century after his death that Menasseh became a model for new generations of Jewish scholars.

Target, 1997 Textual and Contextual Voices of Translation Cecilia Alvstad, Annjo K. Greenall, Hanne Jansen, Kristiina Taivalkoski-Shilov, 2017-10-15

The notion of voice has been used in a number of ways within Translation Studies. Against the backdrop of these different uses, this book looks at the voices of translators, authors, publishers, editors, and readers both in the translations themselves and in the texts that surround these translations. The various authors go on a hunt for translational agents' voice imprints in a variety of textual and contextual material such as literary and non-literary translations, book reviews, newspaper articles, academic texts, and e-mails. While all stick to the principle of studying text and context together, the different contributions also demonstrate how specific textual and contextual circumstances require adapted methodological solutions, ending up in a collection that takes steps in a joint direction but that is at the same time complex and pluralistic. The book is intended for scholars and students of Translation Studies, Comparative Literature, and other disciplines within Language and Literature.

Children's Literature in Translation Jan Van Coillie, Jack McMartin, 2020-10-30

For many of us, our earliest and most meaningful experiences with literature occur through the medium of a translated children's book. This volume focuses on the complex interplay that happens between text and context when works of children's literature are translated: what contexts of production and reception account for how translated children's books come to be made and read as they are? How are translated children's books adapted to suit the context of a new culture? Spanning the disciplines of Children's Literature Studies and Translation Studies, this book brings together established and emerging voices to provide an overview of the analytical, empirical, and geographic richness of current research in this field and to identify and reflect on common insights, analytical perspectives, and trajectories for future interdisciplinary research. This volume will appeal to an interdisciplinary audience of scholars and students in Translation Studies and Children's Literature Studies and related disciplines. It has a broad geographic and cultural scope, with contributions dealing with translated children's literature in the United Kingdom, the United States, Ireland, Spain, France, Brazil, Poland, Slovenia, Hungary, China, the former Yugoslavia, Sweden, Germany, and Belgium.

The 1840 translation of the Gospel of Luke as a technology of power Itumeleng D. Mothoagae, 2024-07-26

In this book, the author aims to explore the impact of 19th-century translations of the Bible into indigenous languages, with a specific focus on the Setswana translation. The translations have had a profound effect on the religious-cultural practices of the indigenous people, leading to erosion and alteration of their traditions and identities I argue that it is crucial to consider the translator's intentions and the associated literature such as journals and letters to understand the translation process comprehensively The Setswana Bible was the first to be translated in Africa and tracing the intentions of Robert Moffat the first translator is imperative to understanding the impact of the translation on the receptor culture The methodology adopted is interdisciplinary drawing from linguistics African languages history English literature cultural studies black studies and theology I analyse the impact of the 1840 Gospel of Luke in the context of Setswana culture in South Africa and my findings demonstrate that translations cannot be distinct from the translator To gain a deep understanding of the implications of such texts I adopt a methodology that analyses significant historical literature and primary sources including the records and works of The British and Foreign Bible Society The History of the London Missionary Society and the journals letters and writings of missionaries such as Robert Moffat and John Campbell

Eurocentrism in Translation Studies Luc van Doorslaer, Peter Flynn, 2013-10-10 In the wake of post colonial and post modernist thinking Eurocentrism has been criticized in a number of academic disciplines including Translation Studies First published as a special issue of Translation and Interpreting Studies 6 2 2011 this volume re-examines and problematizes some of the arguments used in such criticism It is argued here that one should be wary in putting forward such arguments in order not to replace Eurocentrism by a confrontational geographical model characterized precisely by a continentalization of discourse thereby merely reinstituting under another guise The work also questions the relevance of continent based theories of translation as such along with their underlying beliefs and convictions But since the volume prefers to keep the debate open its concluding interview article also provides the opportunity to those criticized to respond and provide well balanced comments on such points of criticism
