Teacher Preparation and Practice

Reconsideration of Assessment for Learning introduces the reader to a collection of thoughtful research based works by authors that represent current thinking about assessment What we know is that assessments are designed and implemented in educational settings both university based teacher preparation and school based teacher practice in school classrooms that serve to inform and guide teaching and learning We also know that there is a dichotomy between assessment of learning summative and assessment for learning formative that is recognized on a global level in teacher preparation Importantly the reported research examines assessment and the application of professional judgment guided by assessment for learning in contrast to the more normalizing assessment of learning that currently pervades the nature of assessment in teacher preparation and practice There is a need in the work of teaching for assessments that focus on cultural competence and relational sensitivity communication skills and the combination of rigor and imagination fundamental to the teaching and learning practices in classrooms Each chapter focuses on assessment and the preparation and practice of teachers who will enter classrooms to instruct the next generation of students Chapter One opens the book with a focus on assessment and its relationship to teaching and learning in the classroom providing the reader with an introduction to the book and an understanding of the role assessment plays in teacher preparation and practice The authors of Chapters Two Nine present field based research that examines assessment in teacher preparation and practice Each chapter offers the reader an examination of assessment in teacher preparation and practice based on formal research that provides the reader with insight into how the research study was conducted as well as equally important the findings and conclusions drawn with respect to assessment and teacher preparation and practice Finally Chapter Ten presents an epilogue that focuses on the future of assessment in teacher preparation and practice

Mojekwu, Lawrence Atepor, Emmanuel Adinyira, Gabriel Nani, Emmanuel Bamfo-Agyei, 2025-02-07 This book is Volume 1 of the proceedings of 2023 Sustainable Education and Development Research Conference This volume concentrates on papers in the area of clean energy Despite considerable progress more than 700 million people worldwide still lack access to electricity and around 2.4 billion people continue to use harmful and polluting fuels for cooking While efforts have been made to promote renewable energy and energy efficiency they have not been fast enough to achieve Sustainable Development Goal 7 Adding to the challenge the ongoing war in Ukraine has contributed to rising global energy prices and heightened energy insecurity in Europe In response to the energy crisis some European countries are planning to accelerate the transition to renewables and increase investments in clean energy and energy efficiency However others are considering a resurgence of coal which poses a risk to the overall green transition Between 2010 and 2020 the percentage of the global population with access to electricity increased from 83% to 91% with 1.3 billion people gaining access. Nevertheless, this leaves approximately 733 million people still without electricity, and most of them reside in sub-Saharan Africa. Achieving universal access by 2030, the annual growth rate in access needs to accelerate from 0.5 percentage points to 0.9 percentage points, necessitating significant efforts in low-income, fragile, and conflict-affected countries. In 2020, 69% of the global population had access to clean cooking fuels and technologies. While more than half of those without access to clean cooking fuels live in Asia, the 20 countries with the lowest percentage of people having access to clean cooking were predominantly least developed countries in Africa. The share of renewable sources in total final energy consumption reached 17.7% globally in 2019, just slightly higher than the figure for 2015. The electricity sector leads in the adoption of renewables, accounting for 26.2% of total final energy consumption in 2019, while the heat and transport sectors have made limited progress. Global primary energy intensity, defined as global total energy supply per unit of GDP, improved from 5.6 megajoules per dollar (2017 purchasing power parity) in 2010 to 4.7 megajoules in 2019. However, the rate of improvement (1.6% per year on average since 2015) falls short of the 3.2% annual rate needed to reach Sustainable Development Goal 7.3. International financial flows to support clean and renewable energy in developing countries reached 10.9 billion in 2019, a 23.6% decrease from 2018. This decline occurred even before the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. Over a longer five-year moving average, average annual commitments decreased for the first time since 2008, from 17.5 billion in 2014 to 16.6 billion in 2015. Although developing countries achieved a record of 245.7 watts per capita in installed renewable energy generating capacity in 2020, small island developing States, least developed countries, and landlocked developing countries have lagged behind. It would take least developed countries and landlocked developing countries nearly 40 years, and small island developing States almost 15 years, to reach the same level of progress as the average developing country in 2020. The 2023 SEDRC conference, titled Sustainable Development and Education, aims to redefine the understanding of research in the continent's development and the role of researchers. The conference focusses on applied research discussions and its dissemination. Researchers from research institutions, academicians, postgraduate students, politicians, and industry representatives will be the primary audience for the conference proceedings.
