Cognitive Technology: Instruments of Mind Meurig Beynon, Christopher L. Nehaniv, Kerstin Dautenhahn, 2003-05-15
Cognitive Technology Instruments of Mind Cognitive Technology is the study of the impact of technology on human cognition the externalization of technology from the human mind and the pragmatics of tools It promotes the view that human beings should develop methods to predict analyse and optimize aspects of human tool relationship in a manner that respects human wholeness In particular the development of new tools such as virtual environments new computer devices and software tools has been too little concerned with the impacts these technologies will have on human cognitive and social capacities Our tools change what we are and how we relate to the world around us They need to be developed in a manner that both extends human capabilities while ensuring an appropriate cognitive fit between organism and instrument The principal theme of the CT 2001 conference and volume is declared in its title Instruments of Mind Cognitive Technology is concerned with the interaction between two worlds that of the mind and that of the machine In science and engineering this interaction is often explored by posing the question how can technology be best tailored to human cognition But as the history of technological developments has consistently shown cognition is also fashioned by technology Technologies as diverse as writing electricity generation and the silicon chip all illustrate the profound and dynamic impact of technology upon ourselves and our conceptions of the world

Intelligent Memory Systems Frederic T. Chong, Christoforos Kozyrakis, Mark Oskin, 2003-06-29 We are pleased to present this collection of papers from the Second Workshop on Intelligent Memory Systems Increasing die densities and inter chip communication costs continue to fuel interest in intelligent memory systems Since the First Workshop on Mixing Logic and DRAM in 1997 technologies and systems for computation in memory have developed quickly The focus of this workshop was to bring together researchers from academia and industry to discuss recent progress and future goals The program committee selected 8 papers and 6 poster session abstracts from 29 submissions for inclusion in the workshop Four to five members of the program committee reviewed each submission and their reviews were used to numerically rank them and guide the selection process We believe that the resulting program is of the highest quality and interest possible The selected papers cover a wide range of research topics such as circuit technology processor and memory system architecture compilers operating systems and applications They also present a mix of mature projects work in progress and new research ideas The workshop also included two invited talks Dr Subramanian Iyer IBM Microelectronics provided an overview of embedded memory technology and its potential Dr Mark Snir IBM Research presented the Blue Gene an aggressive supercomputer system based on intelligent memory technology

Technology J.L. Mey, B. Gorayska, 1995-12-01 In this book the editors have gathered a number of contributions by persons who have been working on problems of Cognitive Technology CT The present collection initiates explorations of the human mind via the technologies the mind produces These explorations take as their point of departure the question What happens when humans produce new technologies Two interdependent perspectives from which such a production can be approached are adopted How and why constructs that have their origins in human mental life are embodied in physical environments when people fabricate their habitat even to the point of those constructs becoming that very habitat How and why these fabricated habitats affect and feed back into human mental life The aim of the CT research programme is to determine in general which technologies and in particular which interactive computer based technologies are humane with respect to the cognitive development and evolutionary adaptation of their end users But what does it really mean to be humane in a technological world To shed light on this central issue other pertinent questions are raised e g Why are human minds externalised i e what purpose does the process of externalisation serve What can we learn about the human mind by studying how it externalises itself How does the use of externalised mental constructs the objects we call tools change people fundamentally To what extent does human interaction with technology serve as an amplification of human cognition and to what extent does it lead to a atrophy of the human mind The book calls for a reflection on what a tool is Strong parallels between CT and environmentalism are drawn both are seen as trends having originated in our need to understand how we manipulate by means of the tools we have created our natural habitat consisting of on the one hand the cognitive environment which generates thought and determines action and on the other hand the physical environment in which thought and action are realised Both trends endeavour to protect the human habitat from the unwanted or uncontrolled impact of technology and are ultimately concerned with the ethics and aesthetics of tool design and tool use Among the topics selected by the contributors to the book the following themes emerge the list is not exhaustive using technology to empower the cognitively impaired the ethics versus aesthetics of technology the externalisation of emotive and affective life and its special dialectic mirror effects creativity enhancement cognitive space problem tractability externalisation of sensory life and mental imagery the engineering and modelling aspects of externalised life externalised communication channels and inner dialogue externalised learning protocols relevance analysis as a theoretical framework for cognitive technology

Cognitive Technology W. Richard Walker, Douglas J. Herrmann, 2010-07-27 Rapidly growing cognitive technologies such as word processors web browsers cell phones and personal data assistants aid learning memory and problem solving and contribute to every part of modern life from interviewing crime witnesses to learning a foreign language to calling one's mother This collection of essays on cognitive technology examines the interaction between the human mind and the tools people create to enhance it studying which technologies assist cognition the most and what features are most effective It also considers the point at which the technological enhancement of human ability begins to restrict that very ability such as the risk of some cognitive technologies impairing cognition or creating disadvantages for individuals or groups This collection of 11 essays discusses the most recent psychological research in cognitive technology showcasing the paradigms and theories that have driven the development of new cognitive technologies It explores the impact of technology on cognitive psychology the classroom and social interaction and group problem solving Topics covered include the distracting characteristics of new technologies such as the effects of cell phone use on driving ability and of distracting advertisements on problem solving the study of mass media through assessing memories for media experiences the media's role in advancing gender and racial prejudices and the misuse of cognitive technology through identity theft and cyberterrorism Each essay concludes with a bibliography

The Computer and the Mind Philip Nicholas Johnson-Laird, 1993 This book addresses the central issues of cognitive science such as how the mind works and what enables us to have thoughts and feelings The author explains what cognitive science is describes its origins and outlines what it has achieved

Mind as Machine Margaret A. Boden, 2006 Cognitive science is among the most fascinating intellectual achievements of the modern era The quest to understand the mind is an ancient one But modern science has offered new insights and techniques that have revolutionized this enquiry Oxford University Press now presents a masterly history of the field told by one of its most eminent practitioners Psychology is the thematic heart of cognitive science which aims to understand human and animal minds But its core theoretical ideas are drawn from cybernetics and artificial intelligence and many cognitive scientists try to build functioning models of how the mind works In that sense Margaret Boden suggests its key insight is that mind is a very special machine Because the mind has many different aspects the field is highly interdisciplinary It integrates psychology not only with cybernetics AI but also with neuroscience and clinical neurology with the philosophy of mind language and logic with linguistic work on grammar semantics and communication with anthropological studies of cultures and with biological and A Life research on animal behaviour evolution and life itself Each of these disciplines in its own way asks what the mind is what it does how it works how it develops and how it is even possible Boden traces the key questions back to Descartes's revolutionary writings and to the ideas of his followers and his radical critics through the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Her story shows how controversies in the development of experimental physiology neurophysiology psychology evolutionary biology embryology and logic are still relevant today Then she guides the reader through the complex interlinked paths along which the study of mind developed in the twentieth century Cognitive science covers all mental phenomena not just cognition knowledge but also emotion personality psychopathology social communication religion motor action and consciousness In each area Boden introduces the key ideas and researchers and discusses those philosophical critics who see cognitive science as fundamentally misguided And she sketches the waves of resistance and acceptance on the part of the media and general public showing how these have affected the development of the field No one else could tell this story as Boden can she has been a member of the cognitive science community since the late 1950s and has known many of its key figures personally Her narrative is written in a lively swift moving style enriched by the personal touch of someone who knows the story at first hand Her history looks forward as well as back besides asking how state of the art research compares with the hopes of the early pioneers she identifies the most promising current work Mind as Machine will be a rich resource for anyone working on the mind in any academic discipline who wants to know how our understanding of mental capacities has advanced over the years
