Attention and Performance XVII Daniel Gopher, Asher Koriat, 1999 In 1966 the first meeting of the Association for the Study of Attention and Performance was held in the Netherlands to promote the emerging science of cognitive psychology This volume is based on the most recent conference held in Israel thirty years later The focus of the conference was the interaction between theory and application The organizers chose the specific topic cognitive regulation of performance because it is an area where contemporary theories of cognitive processes meet the everyday challenges posed by human interactions with complex systems Present day technological systems impose on the operator a variety of supervisory functions such as input and output monitoring allocation of cognitive resources choice of strategies and regulation of cognitive operations A challenge for engineers and designers is to accommodate the cognitive requirements called for by these systems The book is divided into four sections the presentation and representation of information cognitive regulation of acquisition and performance consciousness and behavior and special populations aging and neurological disorders Contributors Nicole D Anderson Moshe Bar Lynn Bardell Alice E Barnes Irving Biederman Robert A Bjork Richard A Block Fergus I M Craik Heiner Deubel John Dunlosky Ido Erev Ronald Fisher John M Flach Barry Goettl Morris Goldsmith Daniel Gopher Lynn Hasher Okihide Hikosaka Larry L Jacoby Peter Kalocsai Colleen Kelley David E Kieras Roberta Klatzky Asher Koriat Arthur F Kramer Elisabetta Ladavas John L Larish Susan J Lederman John Long Cynthia P May Guiliana Mazzoni Brian McElree David Meyer Satoru Miyauchi Neville Moray Louis Narens Thomas O Nelson Raymond S Nickerson Lynne Reder J Wesley Regian Ian Robertson Wolfgang Schneider Christian D Schunn Wayne Shebilske Shinsuke Shimojo Suresh Subramaniam Tom N Trainham Jehoshua Tsal Timothy A Weber Christopher Wickens Rose T Zacks Dan Zakay Perception of visual advertising in different media: from attention to distraction, persuasion, preference and memory Jaana Simola, Jukka Hyönä, Jarmo Kuisma, 2015-02-24 This Research Topic aims to showcase the state of the art in visual advertising research. Although visual processes are a central component of consumer behavior, they have been largely neglected in models explaining consumer perception of advertising. Rather than being the mere input into the cognitive or affective systems, the visual processes both voluntarily and involuntarily affect the amount and quality of information that is passed into further mental processing. Moreover, advertisements provide a well-designed, rich and stimulating environment to study visual processes in real-life conditions. Consumers encounter thousands of advertisement messages per day. Previous research on visual perception of advertising mostly considers print advertising. However, advertising messages increasingly appear in a variety of formats and in different media. Part of these messages are still conveyed through traditional media such as newspapers, magazines, television, as well as outdoor and supermarket advertising. In addition, the amount and diversity of visual marketing stimuli is rapidly growing in terms of different advertising formats appearing in online and social media, smartphones and tablets. This challenges the marketing professionals and academics to better understand the impact of marketing on consumers. At the same time, the technical development of the research methods allows better opportunities to investigate advertising perception in different environments. Traditionally, papers investigating the psychological processes underlying advertising perception are published in journals widespread across different disciplines such as marketing, applied psychology and human computer interaction journals. With this Research Topic, we aim to create a forum in which experts in different fields define the state of the art and future directions of the research on the visual aspects of marketing. We include reviews and original research papers involving both empirical and theoretical studies on visual perception of advertising across different media.

The Oxford Handbook of Developmental Cognitive Neuroscience Kathrin Cohen Kadosh, 2024-06-24 The Oxford Handbook of Developmental Cognitive Neuroscience brings together the leading developmental cognitive neuroscientists in the field that work on understanding human development and the complex interplay of genetic, environmental and brain maturational factors that shape social and cognitive functioning in development. It includes chapters on new emerging research areas that show promise for understanding both brain and behaviour in development, such as nutrition and the microbiome, gut-brain axis and sleep. Looking beyond early developmental changes, this handbook also places importance on the period of adolescence, which is an important developmental juncture. By assuming complexity from the outset, the developmental cognitive neuroscience research approach provides much-needed insights into both the initial set-up of brain networks and cognitive mechanisms and also into adaptability across the developmental trajectory. This is important not only for scientists studying typical and atypical development but also for interventional work looking for critical or sensitive periods where interventions would be most effective. The developmental cognitive neuroscience research approach intersects nature and nurture and considers both health and disease models. It also focuses on understanding the complexity of human development necessitating a multi level and multi factor research approach to grasp change and plasticity which by definition is multidisciplinary The Oxford Handbook of Developmental Cognitive Neuroscience is a landmark volume providing the reader with a comprehensive and state of the art overview of current research in the field whilst highlighting current gaps and directions for future research
