GENERAL DESCRIPTION

The Automotive Audio Bus (A²B[®]) provides a multichannel, I²S/TDM link over distances of up to 15 m between nodes. It embeds bidirectional synchronous data (for example digital audio), clock, and synchronization signals onto a single differential wire pair. A²B supports a direct point to point connection and allows multiple, daisy-chained nodes at different locations to contribute or consume time division multiplexed channel content. A²B is a single-master, multiple-slave system where the transceiver chip at the host controller is the master. The master generates clock, synchronization, and framing for all slave nodes. The master A²B chip is programmable over a control bus (I²C) for configuration and read back. An extension of this control bus is embedded in the A²B data stream, which grants direct access of registers and status information on slave transceivers as well as PC to PC communication over distance.
